

West Urges Russ Resume Austria Talks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The western Big Three foreign ministers climaxed their conference on cold war political issues by calling on Soviet Russia tonight to resume broken off negotiations for a "satisfactory" treaty with Austria.

Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Foreign Minister Schuman of France also hailed the formation of the new Bonn government of Germany as the successful culmination of their plans for dealing with the German occupation after the breakdown of four power rule.

Behind Closed Door
The three met behind closed doors at the state department for nearly four hours. A joint communique said they explored the Austrian treaty difficulties, possible new working arrangements in Germany, and "also exchanged views on current developments in Yugoslavia and the Balkans."

The session concluded three days of a full dress review of political problems facing the west, which Schuman joined today. No meeting is scheduled for tomorrow but a final session may be held on Saturday to take up far eastern questions which were not touched on today.

Came to Halt at London
Negotiations for an Austrian treaty came to a halt September 1 at London with the foreign ministers' deputies far apart on Russian demands which Acheson said would saddle burdens on Austria which that country could not sustain and remain independent. Moscow has failed to reply to an American proposal that the negotiations be resumed Sept. 22 at New York.

The foreign ministers said they reaffirmed their desire to fulfill the obligations assumed by the western powers and Russia in the 1943 Moscow declaration for an independent Austria. They expressed "hope" Moscow will reply to the proposal for renewed negotiations.

Sale of the Pioneer club on State street to Michael D. Certificate of assumption was filed by Perd with the Marion county clerk. The Ogburns filed notice of retirement.

Unification Critic Moved from Post with Joint Chiefs of Staff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Matthews announced tonight that Capt. John G. Crommelin, blunt critic of the defense high command, had been shifted from his post with the joint chiefs of staff because he had "disqualified himself."

Matthews' explanation of the shift apparently over-ruled that of subordinate officials who earlier had indicated that the transfer was a pat on the back for Crommelin.

In mid-afternoon, the navy's press section announced that Crommelin had been given a post formerly held by a two-star admiral—as director of navy aviation personnel.

But a few hours later, Matthews countermanded that announcement with a statement of his own saying that Crommelin has been transferred to the office of the deputy chiefs of naval operations for air.

Officer Reassigned

Matthews said Crommelin has been assigned "for duty in the air warfare division under Rear Admiral E. A. Cruise."

Matthews' statement, issued tonight said:

"Captain Crommelin in a statement of his views concerning unification obviously disqualified himself for continuation in his present assignment on the joint staff which is an agency of the unified national defense department."

The previous announcement by the navy press section had said Crommelin would direct navy air personnel succeeding Rear Admiral F. W. McMahon, who was promoted to deputy chief of all navy personnel.

The confusion over Crommelin's new post developed after president Truman had personally signalled his approval of a navy decision, announced earlier this week, not to punish Crommelin for his sharp criticism of the military hierarchy.

Mr. Truman told a news conference that Secretary Matthews has capably handled the case and it will remain in Matthews' hands.

Crommelin, a veteran navy flier and former skipper of the aircraft carrier Sarnan, had charged that navy's attack power was being "nibbled to death" by top brass in the Pentagon.

Vandenberg Tells Nations To Cooperate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told western European nations pointedly tonight they must take immediate strides toward self sufficiency and greater cooperation among themselves.

"No matter what our cooperative disposition or our self interest, there are definite limits to the American resources which we can safely invest in foreign aid," the GOP foreign policy leader said.

"Recognition of this fact is as important to you as it is to us because our unweakened strength is a common asset for us all. These limits must not and will not over-reach."

Vandenberg, in what is expected to be his last major public speech before entering a hospital, chose as his forum a dinner of the overseas writers club for 50 visiting newspapermen from 14 European countries.

Truman Sees No Significance In GOP Upset

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—President Truman indicated today he sees little 1950 significance in the republican victory in a Pennsylvania congressional contest.

Republican John P. Saylor won over Democrat Mrs. Robert L. Coffey, sr., to fill out the term of Democrat Rep. Robert L. Coffey, jr., killed in a plane crash last April.

Republicans called the result a "stinging rebuke" to Mr. Truman's domestic policies and a favorable GOP harbinger for next year's congressional elections.

The president told his news conference today that back in 1947 we had the same sort of barometer and it didn't work out, remember Democrats won back control of senate and house from the republicans last November.

Mr. Truman did not say what special election he might have had in mind in 1947. Records show there were eight such elections that year and none of them brought a major party turnover. The only change from one party to another was the capture of the 24th New York district seat by Leo Isaacson, American laborite. The seat was formerly held by a democrat.

Study of World Gold Prices Recommended

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—A study of the hot question of the price of gold was unanimously recommended today by the committee on gold of the international monetary fund.

The fund's board of directors is expected to approve the plan at the board's closing session tomorrow.

The plan is a compromise which ended an angry row, temporarily at least. Gold-producing South Africa sought a general increase in the price, now set by the U. S. treasury at $35 an ounce, a figure recognized by the fund. U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Snyder strongly opposed an increase.

Snyder offered the compromise approved today. It calls for an inquiry by the fund's executive directors into:

1. An earlier South African proposal that half of all newly mined gold be sold without a price ceiling.

2. All other "relevant considerations." Thus the study could be broadened, if the executive directors desire, to include the question of a price increase for all gold.

Area Annexed To Corvallis

CORVALLIS, Sept. 15 (AP)—Corvallis is going to be a little larger as the result of yesterday's special election — but not as much as proponents hoped.

The Cedarhurst suburb, which has about 100 residents, voted to merge with Corvallis. But the large north section, which has about 800 residents, turned down the annexation, 193 to 143.

The city of Corvallis approved both annexations.

It will be a temporary replacement for the P-S highway span that burned out last Friday.
