On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Doesn't it show just as much courtesy for a man merely to touch his hat when speaking to a girl, as it does to lift it?
A. No; merely touching the hat is a half-hearted gesture.
Q. Is it correct for a hostess to keep protesting when her guests decide that they must leave?
A. No, as the decision of time to leave rests with the guests.
Q. How far in advance should the invitation to a wedding be mailed?
A. About three weeks.

Salem chapter, Order of Eastern Star social club will meet for a no-host luncheon at noon today at the Masonic Temple.

Elegance, In a Simple Way

Sweetbreads, Food of Epicures May Be Eaten With Relish by Anyone

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Woman's Editor

We are pretty much up on our sweetbreads these days, having just finished with quite a supply of them. They're said to be a dish for the gourmet, but why they shouldn't be liked by the ordinary diner too, we can't say. Certainly the flavor is mild and they are versatile.

There are many ways to cook sweetbreads. The recipe always begins with parboiling. You add the sweetbreads to boiling salted water and simmer 25 to 35 minutes. The old way was to soak for an hour first, but the new idea is to omit the soaking. Slip the outer membrane from the sweetbreads while holding them under running water. Cover and keep chilled in the cold part of the refrigerator until ready to prepare. Sweetbreads spoil easily.

We like the delicacy sliced across and dipped in cracker meal, then fried quickly in butter. Sometimes we serve them just plain, other times we add eggs and scramble them together.

One more fancy way to prepare them is to blend two eggs with two tablespoons of milk and dip the precooked sweetbreads in the egg, then crumbs them and again in crumbs. Wrap each in a piece of bacon and fasten with toothpick. Place in casserole and bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes.

Like sweetbreads dipped in the eggs and crumbs, and fried and then placed in a casserole with luscious fresh mushrooms, topped with buttered crumbs and baked.

Here's a recipe that I've never tried, but it might be very nice for a luncheon—providing you know your crowd.

SWEETBREAD SALAD

Yield: 6 tomato cups
1 pound veal or beef sweetbreads
2 tablespoons French dressing
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup diced celery
1 cup diced cucumber
1/2 cup mayonnaise
6 medium tomato cups, chilled
1/4 cup toasted, slivered almonds

Simmer sweetbreads in salted water (2 teaspoons salt per quart of water). Simmer veal sweetbreads 25 minutes; beef, 35 minutes and marinate in (mix with) French dressing. Chill in refrigerator at least 1 hour. When ready to serve, lightly combine with salt, celery, cucumber and mayonnaise. Serve in tomato cups and top with slivered almonds.

Woman of The Week

Representing the average Salem woman who gives hours of her time each year to the Community Chest campaign is Mrs. Conrad Paulson, who has been chosen by Joseph Dodd, chairman, and C. A. Kells, director of the Salem Red Feather campaign, as woman of the week as one of the outstanding workers in the service of the chest. Mrs. Paulson is only one of the few that has worked in the capacity of volunteer solicitor and attained the height of a member of the Salem Community Chest board.

Mrs. Paulson, a modest but energetic woman, started her work with the Salem chest ten years ago as a volunteer neighborhood worker. She served in this capacity for three or four years until she was appointed to serve as a captain, and later a leader in the women's division. Mrs. Paulson recalls that the work in the first years was not an easy task. "I think that the women who call on their neighbors during the drive should deserve more than just applause for they are the people that do most of the hard work and form the backbone of the city wide drive."

Last year Mrs. Paulson was appointed to head the women's division of the Red Feather drive by 1948 Chairman Al Loucks. She was elected to the chest board of directors following the 1948 campaign. This year she is not taking any actual part in the drive but will act as an advisor to the women who will do the work.

Mrs. Paulson moved to Salem seventeen years ago, after living in Portland as well as many coastal towns from Alaska to California. Her schooling took place in Portland where she graduated from Grant high. Other members of the Paulson family include husband, Conrad, an associate of the State Finance Co., son Tom, who is fourteen and in his first year of high school, and two year old daughter Kristen. Mrs. Paulson says that she will become a leader in the Camp Fire girls when Kristen is old enough to join the group.

Hobbies for Mrs. Paulson include painting, "anything from floors to pictures." She has been busy in art circles as an amateur artist for a number of years but she claims that she has taken only one art course which was last spring. Her other hobbies are those which she says any housewife has such as needle work and knitting and a general interest in keeping a neat house. For exercise and sunshine she plays golf.
