

Wolves Tune Up for Saturday Night Opening Battle

Rock-'em, sock-'em scrimmage sessions are a regular feature of Coach Bill McArthur's drills for his Oregon College of Education Wolves as they prep for their 1949 opener Saturday night at Monmouth with the Whidby Naval Base eleven. In the above shot McArthur (back to camera, lower left) watches Quarterback Roger Dash of Salem, a standstill in OCE drills, make a handoff to Halfback Robin Lee who is headed through a big hole in the defensive line during a scrimmage play between the "Whites" and "Reds." The Wolves will again operate from the T-formation this season. They play Linfield at Monmouth on October 1.

Bear Flattens Kneilsen— (But Not Ref); Steenko Wins

Ginger the rascal bear wasted only 3½ minutes in flattening tattooed Toughie Stocky Kneilsen in the main mat feature at the armory last night, but that was all he did. Mr. Bruin had no chance at the referee, to whom he cast a longing glance right after being declared victor over the bearded Stocky. The ref departed, pronto.

Ginger used real grappling tactics in downing Kneilsen and pinned his shoulders to the mat. He also misfired with a back paw in the process and cut Kneilsen slightly over one eye. It was quite a show while it lasted, and a full house sat in on it. Ginger was rewarded with a bottle of pop in the ring, which he grasped between front paws, stood up and drank thirstily.

In the regular mat fare the fast-moving and downright ornery Leo (Steenko) Karlinko kept right on by beating Pierre (Frenchy) LaBelle in the main event. It was a wild skirmish in which both had split up the first two falls before one of LaBelle's flying drop-kicks backfired into a full crab hold by the unpopular Karlinko.

In the prelims George Dusette took straight fall wins over Meanie Carl Myers and Al Szasz' standing leg split beat Les Welch, the grappling trainer of the bear.

Lucrative Pact Lures Pancho

Top-Rates Gonzales Turns to Pro Ranks

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales turned professional today, giving up the amateur tennis championship of the United States for a career that will net him at least $60,000 the first year.

The 21-year-old Mexican-American star flew in from Los Angeles and signed a one-year contract to meet Jack Kramer in a series of 90 to 100 matches covering all of the country's major cities.

"I'm turning pro for one reason," said the former ball boy who learned his tennis on the public courts of Los Angeles. "It's the same reason anybody would turn pro—for the money."

The contract was signed with Bobby Riggs, also a two-time amateur champ who has been a pro for several years. Riggs is promoting the new venture, obviously figuring it will be more profitable than trying to beat Kramer in another professional tour himself.

The pact calls for Gonzales to receive a guarantee of $60,000 within the next year, or an option of 30 per cent of the gate.

Only one thing was missing from an elaborate press conference held to announce Pancho's entrance into the pro ranks. Riggs had hoped to announce that Frank Parker, U.S. singles champion in 1944 and 1945, also was casting his lot with the play-for-pay group.

But Frankie has not yet come to terms. If he does, he will play Pancho Segura of Ecuador, a member of the Kramer-Riggs pro troupe the past two years, in the No. 2 singles match. If they fail to sign Parker, or a reasonable facsimile, Riggs will continue to play.

Gonzales will launch his pro career in Madison Square garden here Tuesday night, Oct. 25.

Webfeet Work On Pass Game

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 20.—(AP) Coach Jim Aiken had the University of Oregon Ducks polishing their passing game today and planned more of the same tomorrow in preparing for the conference game with Idaho.

The team didn't use many passes in winning over St. Mary's last week.

Aiken said he was taking line coach Bob McClure, who scouted Idaho in its Willamette game, at his word. McClure reported the Vandals "fast and physically tough" and "capable of giving the Ducks a bad afternoon" this Saturday at Hayward field.

Champ Stops Rival in 7th

10,722 See Willie's Furious Onslaught

By Jack Hand
WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Willie Pep, calling his shots like a champion stopped against an old sparring partner, stopped Eddie Compo of New Haven, tonight, in 41 seconds of the seventh round to successfully defend his world featherweight crown at Municipal stadium. Referee Bill Conway halted the uneven contest at the request of Compo's chief second, Goldie Goldfarb.

The crafty Pep, risking his crown for the first time since he recaptured it from Sandy Saddler last February, was in complete command at all times. A crowd of 10,722 paid a gross of $39,931 to see the action.

Most of the crowd which braved the chilly weather to see the bout pleaded with the referee to stop the contest before he did. Compo willing and eager but overmatched was floored for nine counts twice in the fifth and once in the seventh before the end.

Pep, the Hartford, Conn., vet, who celebrated his 27th birthday yesterday, came out to put over the finisher in the seventh. Compo looked weary as he walked slowly from the corner, a left hook dropped him on his back. He rolled over and waited for the count to reach nine, as he got up the referee heeded the shouting from the challenger's corner. Goldfarb was waving a towel and yelling that the kid was finished. Referee Conway agreed.

It was no contest all the way with Pep winning every round on the referee's score card. There are no judges in Connecticut.

Pels to Bring Quick Outfit

Salem high's Vikings were again held at it on the practice field Tuesday, prepping for their Friday night Waters field skirmish with the Klamath Falls Pelicans. Intending this to be the year, at long last, that a Salem team is to beat one from the Pelican city, Coach Loren Mort had his charges operating on the double, as the Pels are known to be a fast-functioning T-formation troupe.

Klamath's line will average only 170 pounds per man to Salem's 180, and the Pel backs will do a 160 level to Salem's 171. But in their hard-fought last week it was noticed that Coach Bob Henderson's team moves around quickly. In 150-pound halfbacks Gene Carlson and Joe Nichols, and 175-pound Fullback Joe Dimitrikos for All-Southern Oregon honors this season.

Mort plans continuation of workouts today and Thursday, accenting more solid defensive play around the ends and in the secondary. His backfield of Gordy Ginter, at quarter, Captain Jim Rick and Dale Olson at halves and Deb Davis at full probably will be intact for the opening whistle Friday night.

Bangtail Center of Damage Suit

A race horse that failed to pay off is the subject of a damage suit entered in Marion county circuit court Tuesday.

W. F. Miles of Turner brought the suit against W. E. Wheeler of Salem, seeking judgment of $306. Miles charges he trained a seven-year-old sorrel gelding horse, named Landing Barge, belonging to Wheeler, from March 10 to August 7.

The agreement, said the complaint, was that plaintiff was to be paid one-half the proceeds to be realized from racing the horse. However, says Miles in his complaint, before the horse could be entered into a race Wheeler took possession of Landing Barge and has refused to account for the horse's earnings—if any.

Miles claims he expended $306 worth of labor and materials on the horse. He asks, in the complaint, that a lien be foreclosed and the horse be sold to satisfy the judgment sought.

Marshall Nabs TKO Win Over Sullivan

PORTLAND, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Lloyd Marshall, 167 pound slugger from Sacramento, Calif., won by a technical knockout over John L. Sullivan, 166, Portland, tonight in the feature bout of a boxing show here.

The referee halted the scrap in the sixth after one of Sullivan's eyes was closed because of a broken blood vessel in the eyelid. There were no knockdowns.

The ten-round semi-final saw Paul Kennedy, 152, Longview, Wash., decision Davey Ball, 155, Bakersfield, Calif.

In the preliminaries, all scheduled for four rounds: Johnny Bruce, 135, Medford, Ore., and Larry Reagan, 131, Hermiston, Ore., fought to a draw. Al Cliff, 144, Portland, decision Lou Nunes, 151, Los Angeles. Don Doyle, 144, Portland, and Ralph Friend, 146, Ontario, Ore., drew.

Golfers Await NW Open Meet

WALLA WALLA, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Porky Oliver has been hot as a poker and Bud Ward has been rating the headlines, but golfers here are likely to make the Westerman their favorite to win the Pacific Northwest open tourney this weekend. Divot fans hereabouts still remember 1938, when the Lanky Portlander picked up Walla Walla country club course.

Chuck Congdon of Tacoma, not often a headliner this year, won't be regarded lightly by the field.

The Yankees have 11 games left to play including five with the Red Sox who have nine left. The Cards have nine games remaining including three with Brooklyn. The Dodgers have nine games to go.

three game American league edge over the Red Sox who mathematically eliminated the champion Cleveland Indians from the race, 5-2. The Cards clipped the Philadelphia Phils, 7-5, to maintain their one and one-half game edge over the Dodgers who turned back the Chicago Cubs, 5-0.

The Dodgers and Cards will have it out in a three-game set starting tomorrow. They will play a day-night doubleheader tomorrow.

Allie Reynolds and Joe page teamed up to pitch the Yankees to victory over the White Sox. Reynolds gained his 17th victory with page pitching the final two heats to save the game. The Yankees nicked lefty Bob Kuzava for only three hits but made the most of ten walks issued by the Sox lefty. Lefty Mel Parnell turned in his 24th victory for the Red Sox in outpitching Cleveland's 20 game winner, Bob Lemon. Lemon held the Sox hitless until the sixth inning when Parnell launched a five run rally with a single.

Slim Jack Banta blanked the Cubs on five hits, fanned five and walked none in recording Brooklyn's second straight shutout triumph.

The Cards piled up a 6-1 lead over the Phils and then withstood a counter attack that at one stage brought the Phils to within a run of a tie. The victory may prove costly as Stan Musial of the Cards pulled a leg muscle running out a triple during a three run fifth inning rally. A club spokesman announced the injury wasn't serious and that "Musial is expected to play against Brooklyn tomorrow."

Philadelphia edged Detroit, 8-6 on Peter Suder's three run eighth inning home. Lou Brissie, in relief, gained his 16th victory.

The Boston Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, and the St. Louis Browns mauled the Washington Senators, 15-6 in the majors two night games.

Rolling Along

Trend of recent years: The great pick-up of interest in baseball among the feminine contingent. A couple of decades ago the only sport the bulk of the gals knew (?) and liked was football and all its rah-rah glory. Baseball was a weak aka.

Locally, the birth of the Senators spurred the interest of the women and showed that the diamond sport can pack a lot more color and punch than is displayed on the average high school and college ball field. . . . Taking Salem, as an example, the coming of a minor club opened the door for feminine baseball interest on a larger scale.

Inevitably the gals (the single ones) were going to meet Solon players. Some of the acquaintanceships ripened into matrimony. Others didn't finish in a permanent tie-up but did serve to enhance the curiosity and the liking of the femmes for this game called baseball. . . . Some of those players went up to the big time. They personified the major league box scores in the gals they left behind—and right now it's surprising just how big a bloc of women avidly devour the major doings over the morning cup of coffee just to keep up on the doings of those guys they had dates with four or five years ago. . . . Course some of the gals still think the Yankees play in the National league and the Cards are in the American lineup and they're a bit uncertain about the Browns—and on the latter count who ain't. . . .

Small but Mighty
Young Al McMullen is light as guards—yep, even in the prep ranks—but his 153-pounds-of-eat-like movement has earned him a first string berth on Loren Mort's Salem high grid machine. Al was out all last year because of a leg infection and in this, his senior year, he was out to make up for lost time. He's gained his goal as a top performer in the Viking cast. . . . Despite the close squeak against Utah, Howie Odell kept the offensive wraps pretty much on his Huskies which meant a couple of scowls from Minnesota and Notre Dame made a futile trip out to Seattle. . . . George Vico has finally got back into the Detroit Tiger lineup at first base and he celebrated recently by smacking his second homer of the year. . . .

Casey Surprises 'Em
When Casey Stengel came to the Yankees as skipper he was considered merely a stop-gap between Bucky Harris and Joe DiMaggio or some other headliner. But the '49 campaign has lifted Casey's prestige tremendously in the eyes of the hither-to-skeptical scribes of the Big Town. Stengel's work in keeping the Yankees up despite a host of injuries has even the conservative scribes calling it one of the greatest managerial jobs ever. . . .

CASEY STENDEL Work Brings Raves

Will Joe Get Past?
Stories pop up now and then that DiMaggio will eventually take over the Yankee reins—and Joe, being constructed of mortal flesh, probably would relish the post when his playing career fades away. But, sadly
