Dallas Plans Fall Flower Show Sept. 28

By Lillie L. Madsen

DALLAS — Once again the Dallas Garden club is putting on one of its colorful fall shows. The date has been set for September 28 and it is open to the public, at the Dallas Chamber of Commerce rooms in the city hall, from 2 to 8:30 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

All amateur flower growers are invited to participate in the show and entries will be received from 9 to 11 a.m. Late entries will not be permitted to compete but will be entered for display only. Named the flower or plant exhibited, adds to its value in the horticultural classes, garden club members report.

Dahlias in collections and specimen entries will be featured. Early chrysanthemums are also expected to be quite numerous. Late summer flowers to be judged include asters, marigolds, zinnias, tuberous rooted begonias, roses, and "any other perennial." Fuchsias are also being displayed for competition in the horticultural classes.

Besides the usual coffee table, dining table, buffet, mantle, analog and all white arrangements, new divisions have been added to the artistic group. There is competition in the breakfast table arrangement. There is a class for the public place—church or hall both for the floor and for the speakers table. A section provided from "product of field and orchard." Another division accepts entries from "roadside and forest." One section is for any "combination of fruits or vegetables and flowers", while another—and one expected to be among the favorites—for "Indian summer flowers and bronze foliage in copper or brass."

The final division is that of corsages which provides for street, afternoon tea, evening and feather varieties.

All-in-all, the Dallas Garden club show, which in the past has been excellent, gives every indication of being worth driving out to see.

Light Holds Cougar at Bay

EVERETT, Sept. 22 —(AP)—A country housewife armed only with a flashlight held a cougar at bay outside her home east of here last night.

Mrs. Russell Campbell said she discovered the cougar about 9:30 p.m., when she went out to lock her chicken pen.

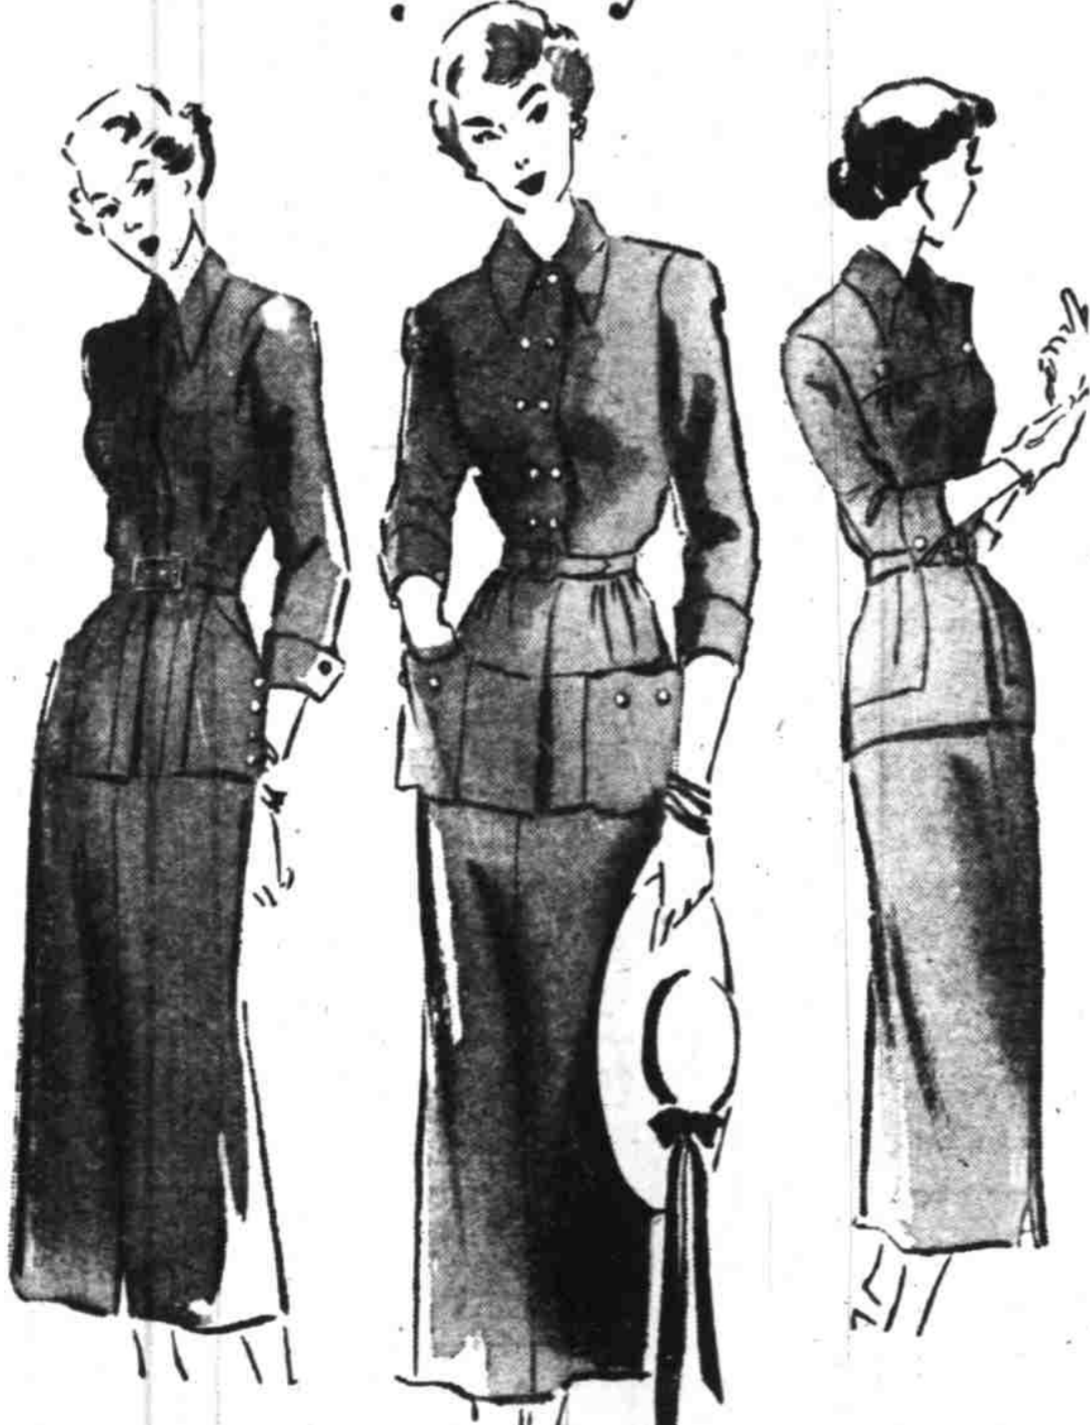

The animal, "about the size of a large Airedale dog," bounded up a ladder into a nearby prune tree when the light pinpointed it. She held the beam on the cougar a few moments before returning to the house to get her husband. When they returned her husband armed with a rifle, the cougar had vanished.
