

Men's Hats of Fashion Interest

Men's hats this year are designed to improve their appearance and October 2-8 is the first National Hat Week. It doesn't matter what your business is, where you come from, what occasion you want it for, what your age, or how small your wallet, there's a hat wardrobe for every man at the price he wants to pay.

Upper right picture shows a man wearing the ever popular soft felt hat, which just rolls up and may be put in one's pocket when not in use.

In lower left picture the man on the left prefers the telescope crown type hat for business and his companion is wearing a grey felt with contrasting edging.

Lower right picture shows the convertible style hat, worn for dress this season by older and younger men with the up-turned brim, which may also be worn down, as one prefers.

New Bethel Instituted

More than three hundred witnessed the instituting of the new Salem Bethel, Job's Daughters Saturday, October 1 at the Masonic Temple. Mary Hartwell, guardian of Bethel 35 Salem, called the meeting to order. Grand guardian, Marsha Elhart, explained the procedure of the evening. Honored Queen Jean Herrig of Bethel 35 presided. Forty-three members of the new Bethel were obligated at the altar.

Officers of Bethel 35 put on the initiatory degree for five of the thirty-five candidates. Those initiated were Carol Mentzer, Karen Michelson, Gwen Phillips, Roberta Sears and Barbara White. Eight of the new members are transfers from Bethel 35. Institution ceremonies followed and Mrs. Elhart, assisted by other grand council officers, installed the guardian council of Salem Bethel.

Salem chapter, Order of Eastern Star, sponsors, presented robes for the new Bethel officers and capes for the honored queen, senior princess and junior princess. Bethel 21 of Portland, presented three crowns. Dorothy Pederson played during the intermission.

Installation followed and installing officers were: Queen Joan Roack, Bethel 8; guide, Donna Gray; 7; marshal, Helen Wright, 9; chaplain, Dorothy McCaren, 41; musician, Ann Gibbons, 35; secretary, Carolyn Eckersley, 35; senior custodian, Gladys Polchow, 23; junior custodian, Betty Hilland, 2; and soloist, Helen Thompson, 3.

After the installing ceremony the coronation took place by Chameketa chapter, Order of DeMolay. Louis Lorenz placed the crown on the newly installed queen, Edna Ma Manning, and Helen Thompson sang "My Task."

Mrs. Elhart, grand guardian presented a white Bible on behalf of the grand guardian council. Honored queens from Bethels 3, 5, 7, 41 and 35 presented gifts to the new Bethel.

Honored Queen Edna Mae named her choir and drill team and introduced her mother, Mrs. James B. Manning, and Earl Beeson, grand royal matron and patron of the Order of Amaranth.

Several members of Bethel 35 assisted Salem chapter, Order of Eastern Star at the reception which followed.
