County to Keep Up Road in Detroit Area

The road between Detroit and Hall's camp will be maintained by Marion county this year so that children in the area can be transported to school.

This agreement was reached by a delegation of residents from the Detroit area urged such action on the court to care for the children.

The county earlier this year had started vacation proceedings on the road but postponed action at the request of army engineers. Engineers claimed that a county vacation would give property back to former owners and would hinder the government when it buys the property for dam purposes in the future.

Vacation proceedings were abandoned, however, with the understanding that either the state or the engineers would maintain the road.

Such action has not been taken and public demand in the area that school children should be able to secure transportation by bus moved the court to begin maintenance of the road once again.

County Commissioners Roy Rice and E. L. Rogers were in Detroit until late Thursday arranging for materials needed to whip the road into usable condition. They also were negotiating for loan of army equipment to be used for grading and rocking.

The road is four miles long. One mile of this stretch lies within Detroit and if the town incorporates at an election this month upkeep of this stretch will be the responsibility of Detroit officials.

Suit Results as Union Workers Leave Project

A suit to prevent a local labor union from withdrawing its members from a project because non-union labor was employed at the same time has been filed in Marion county circuit court.

The complaint was filed by Don F. Steppe against the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators & Paperhangers of America, Salem local 724, and several of its officers.

Steppe charges that Nov. 1, 1947, the union signed a contract to furnish skilled journeymen painters and decorators for him.

Steppe said he then signed contracts with some non-union workers for the same project. The union promptly withdrew its workers and, Steppe charges, sent him a notice that union help would be withheld for six months because he had been "guilty of working with non-union painters at the Yeater Appliance company."

Also named as defendants in the complaint were the following union officers: James Cutler, business agent; Warren Bigelow, president; Sid Prairie, financial secretary; and W. L. Barnett, recording secretary.

The Moslem University at Al-Azhar, in Cairo, Egypt, was established in 970 A.D.
