Court Agrees Site Favorable For New Office

A step toward a new Marion county health department building was taken Wednesday when Marion county court received a "favorable" offer on a site from the state board of control.

Marion County Judge Grant Murphy said the court's reaction to the $3,500 offer was "satisfactory." The offer will be filed while a survey of building costs is undertaken by the court.

The state land is just over an acre in area and is adjacent to Salem General hospital.

Judge Murphy said the cost of a new plant would amount to about $50,000. This money, he said would either come from the county budget or from a special tax levy. The judge felt the latter method would be the one decided upon.

At any rate, he said, the matter of raising the funds will not be considered before May 1950, when the county budget committee next meets.

The capitol building in Washington, D. C. covers approximately three and one-half acres.

Purchasers Seek Land Title County Forgot it Owned

Marion county court has under consideration an offer of $200 for a strip of land it didn't know it owned.

The portion is about 200 feet long and 25 feet wide and lies along Lana avenue at its junction with Silverton road. It is at the site where a service station, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Hanson, recently burned down.

The Hansons wish to build a larger station. When Lana avenue was improved a number of years ago, and the surrounding land resold, the county neglected to sell the strip.

Something that seems minor now all too often develops into a major repair later.

CHECK THE "NEEDLE"

Watch the battery indicator. It should move to "charge" immediately after starting. If not, your generator needs attention!
