

McKay Refuses to Order Pearson's Printing Bill Paid

Treasurer May Be Charged Personally

There were indications here Thursday that State Treasurer Walter J. Pearson may have to pay up $160.80 of his personal funds to cover the cost of printing 10,000 copies of a statement called "The Finances of the State of Oregon"—featuring a photograph of a state check for $1,994,920 signed by him.

The order was placed by Pearson with the state printer. Copies of the statement were distributed from the democratic party booth at the recent state fair and have been widely circulated throughout Oregon. A supply of the statements also was placed with the statehouse guide.

Governor Douglas McKay said he had refused to approve the claim for the reason he did not consider it a "legitimate expense of the state." Assistant Secretary of State William Healy, in the absence of Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry, said he didn't think Newberry would approve the claim when he returns here early next week. Healy said the statement had all the appearance of a campaign document.

The document was defended by Pearson who said it was informative and gave the people of the state a better understanding of the state government.

Requires Two Votes

The state printing board is composed of the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer and it requires the votes of two board members to approve a printing bill. Pearson is the only democratic member of the board.

The statement also contains this information:

"The above check was signed for you by your state treasurer as one of the many huge financial transactions annually involving approximately a total of $300,000,000 of state funds and securities."

"Your state treasurer is your representative in disbursing all funds authorized by law, designating state depositories for safekeeping of state funds, collecting interest earned by the state, compiling statistics of indebtedness of the state and its subdivisions, enforcing the inheritance and gift tax laws and collecting the taxes due therefrom."

Added Information

"Your state treasurer also represents you as a member of the state board of control, the state bond commission, state reclamation board, state banking board, state printing board and other boards and commissions."

"Realizing that the business of the state of Oregon is your business, your state treasurer welcomes your inquiries and suggestions, and extends to you an invitation to visit him whenever possible."

"Compliments of Walter J. Pearson, state treasurer."

Appropriation Made for Child Guidance Clinic

Resumption of a child guidance clinic for Marion county is a step nearer reality.

The executive committee of the county health department has been notified that a $1,200 appropriation for this activity is ready for approval by the state board of health.

Dr. Willard J. Stone, county health officer, has announced that Dr. Horace Miller of Salem will operate the clinic for a half-day each week. The clinic is expected to begin early in November.

A conference of state and county health and school officials is set Monday to work out details of the service which, Dr. Stone said, will be designed particularly for preventive measures.

Some gifts have been received for civic groups to aid the clinic and are to be used for special needs.

The clinic was operated during the last school year by psychiatrists from the University of Oregon medical school. A local psychologist assisted between their visits three times each year.

'Hot' Pineapple Loaded, to Test Picket Lines

THE DALLES, Ore., Oct. 20-(AP)—A box car was loaded with 49 tons of Hawaiian pineapples today, and awaited the test of whether could be moved past a CIO longshoremen's picket line.

No attempt to ship the car was made today. Railroad officials said the necessary shipping documents had not yet been drawn up.

It was a key piece in renewed plans to unload a 2700-ton barge-load of canned pineapple tidbits.

Yesterday Isleways, Ltd., pineapple owner, said it would move out 60 tons by rail. Those 60 tons had been unloaded before the September 28 riot which halted unloading.

While a rail car was being loaded, a truck moved into the terminal, took 11 tons and headed last night for a San Jose, Calif., cannery. There were no pickets.

Today the pickets were on hand: two at the terminal entrance, two at the spur track and two more off duty. W. E. Mackey, union secretary, said at Portland that only a token picket force would be used. He said he was confident rail crews would refuse to cross the picket line.

Last month when longshoremen set up a line across the spur track, train crews refused to cross it. Isleways, however, was gambling on the rail car moving and ordered three more.

Animal Crackers

By WARREN GOODRICH

"I'll be glad when winter comes!"

99th YEAR 28 PAGES The Oregon Statesman, Salem, Oregon, Friday, October 21, 1949 PRICE 5c No. 218

Ex-Policeman Arrested on Lottery Charge

Recently Fired

Harley Cordray, pictured in the police uniform he wore until his recent dismissal from the city police force, is under arrest on a charge of promoting a lottery in Salem.

Ex-Con Aide Also Arrested

Pair Help Run Store-Guarding Service in Salem

Harley Cordray, a Salem policeman fired from the force earlier this month, was arrested Thursday on slot machine charges.

In a separate arrest after Cordray was taken into custody, the ex-policeman's business associate Clifford M. Everson, 1823 N. 24th st., was charged with illegal possession of firearms in connection with his work for the Salem Merchant patrol which Cordray organized two years ago.

Cordray, 39, was arrested after a secret indictment by the Marion county grand jury charging him with promoting a lottery.

Prosecutors said they would seek to link him with a slot machine seized at a Salem used car lot October 6, the day Cordray was dismissed from the police force for violation of the civil service code.

Marion County Sheriff Denver Young and city police officers said their investigation showed both Cordray and Everson are ex-convicts.

City police allege that Everson served four months at Oregon state penitentiary for forgery. The Oregon code prohibits a person who has been convicted of a felony from owning or having control of a firearm capable of being concealed on his person.

Record Brought to Light

Cordray's arrest brought his criminal record to light, also. He was committed to an Illinois state prison in 1934, twice paroled and twice returned for violations, and released in 1943 when his term expired, stated Police Chief Clyde A. Warren.

Warren said discovery of Cordray's record was a factor in his dismissal from the force.

Investigation of the case will continue, according to Warren and District Attorney E. L. Stadler. (Additional details on page 2.)

Final Charges Hurlled; Recall Election Today

PORTLAND, Oct. 20-(AP)—The voters will decide tomorrow whether to recall Marion L. (Mike) Elliott, the 28-year-old sheriff who has become center of the hottest political controversy here in recent years.

Elections Registrar James W. Gleason predicted that nearly half the registered voters in Multnomah county would go to the polls—an unusually heavy vote for a special election.

Both the sheriff, a registered democrat, and his opponents took to the air tonight to issue their appeals to the voting public. Should he be recalled another democrat would be appointed to replace him.

Two last-minute charges further enlivened the affair. Thomas L. Gatch, retired naval vice admiral and chairman of the recall committee, asserted Elliott supporters had violated the state corrupt practices act. He said they had distributed unsigned post-cards through the mail. The law requires election material to be signed.

Two newspaper circulation employees of the Oregonian also charged that two deputy sheriffs in plain clothes attempted to coerce Oregonian carries into distributing papers defending Elliott.

The newspaper employees said they attempted to intercede, but that the deputies threatened arrest, put the two in a county car and started for town. The newspaper employees said the deputies apparently changed their minds after a few blocks and ordered them out of the car. A few carrier boys later reported they had distributed papers on demand of the deputies.

Car Careens Into Children After Wreck

Three youngsters were struck down when a car skidded into them following a collision at Howard and Capitol streets Thursday afternoon.

Lois Gundersen, 12, of 190 S. 13th st., was taken to Salem Memorial hospital with head and body cuts. Her condition was reported fairly good early today.

Bruised but not hospitalized in the accident were Wallace Dean Roth, 12, of 480 S. 18th st., and Richard Thurmon, 15, of 525 S. 19th st.

Drivers of the cars involved were Roy Bloom, 4560 Liberty rd., a 16-year-old Salem high school student, and Harriet C. Ness, 1820 Cottage st. The cars collided at the intersection and the impact swung the rear part of Bloom's machine against the curb where the youths were standing, police reported.

Postmaster Nominated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20-(AP)—President Truman has sent to the senate these postmaster nominations for Oregon: Ernest M. Charrier, Siletz, Ore., in place of S. E. Kuehn, retired.

County Tax Statements Headed Your Way

Marion county property owners will be receiving their tax statements beginning this week end. Above, 41,000 statements are loaded into a mail truck Thursday morning by Sheriff Denver Young, left, William R. S. McKee, 4390 McClay rd., center, and Harold Domagala, chief deputy tax collector, right. Domagala stated that there are still 4,500 hard inspection statements yet to be processed waiting for information from bang disease and TB reports by inspectors. (Statesman photo.)

U.N. Installs Yugoslavia in Council Post over Heated Soviet Objection

Mayer to Head New French Government

Rains Needed To Postpone Power Crisis

Truman Asks Tax Hike; Budget Cut Pleas Heard

'Vision' Fills German Town

Fortunes Fly With Gypsy

Mercury Ties Record Low

Ike Tells Military Chiefs 'Make Unification Work'

East-West Rift Widened by 39 to 19 Vote

By Francis W. Carpenter

NEW YORK, Oct. 20-(AP)—The United Nations overrode Russian protests today and elected Yugoslavia to a security council seat that the Soviet Union coveted for satellite Czechoslovakia.

Two-thirds of the U. N. nations in effect gave a vote of confidence to Marshal Tito's regime, and rebuked the cominform. The vote was Yugoslavia 39, Czechoslovakia 19.

It deepened the east-west rift and led Russia to make good on her prediction that "painful consequences" to the U. N. would follow election of Yugoslavia. What those consequences may be probably will not be clear until the reorganized security council meets in January, with Yugoslavia taking the seat now held by the Soviet Ukraine. Three security council seats are changed every year by vote of all 59 nations in the general assembly.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson said he sees little danger of a rift in the U. N. because Czechoslovakia lost out.

No Walk-Out Planned

In London, a spokesman for the Czechoslovak embassy said there was no prospect of pro-Soviet communist nations in the U. N. walking out as a result of the election. He added: "No doubt this is what many western countries would like us to do."

American support was a big factor in Yugoslavia's victory. It was a calculated support—aimed at strengthening Tito in his struggle with Moscow. The vote came less than a day after Yugoslavia declared that Russia had moved troops into neighboring cominform countries, toward the Yugoslav frontier.

Vishinsky Protests

The voting provoked a red-faced outburst from Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet foreign minister. Speaking in Russian, he said:

"The Soviet union delegation declared with full determination that Yugoslavia shall not, cannot, be considered as a representative of the eastern European countries, and that the introduction of Yugoslavia to the security council shall be considered by the Soviet union delegation as a new violation of the (U. N.) charter, undermining the very foundations of cooperation in the United Nations."

Ignoring President Charles P. Romulo's steady gaveling to shut him up, Vishinsky shouted from the rostrum that the election was illegal, a violation of the charter, and a violation of a gentlemen's agreement among the big powers.

Vishinsky, Austin Vote at U.N.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky (center) casts his ballot in today's voting at United Nations General Assembly for seats on the Security Council. Following him, ballot in hand, is Warren Austin, U.S. delegate. Despite last minute protest of Vishinsky, Yugoslavia won Security Council seat over Soviet-sponsored Czechoslovakia. Vote was 39 to 19. (AP Wirephoto to the Statesman.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20-(AP)—President Truman, saying he is unhappy about deficit spending, made it plain today he will ask congress for higher taxes next year.

He told his weekly news conference that he will recommend ways to prevent the government operating in the red, and if there is any other way to do it than by increasing taxes he would like to know it.

Republicans and some democrats immediately responded with a call for a reduction in expenditures rather than a tax raise.

Questioned about the prospective $5,000,000,000 deficit for the year ending next June 30, the president said it was not his fault. He added that the republican 80th congress passed a rich man's tax cut bill and there are what he called fixed charges of $35,000,000,000 in the budget which must be met.

He said he will recommend to the January session of congress means of meeting the government's money needs and it may mean a revision of taxes.

A reporter then put this question: "Your remedy may, if your study shows it, call for an increase in taxes?"

The president replied, with permission to quote:

"Certainly, we've got to find money to run the government and that's all there is to it."

Rosebraughs Hurt as Car Skids Off Road

Mr. and Mrs. W. Rosebraugh, former Salem city councilman and his wife, were injured Thursday night when their car skidded off the Wallace road about five miles west of Salem and crashed into a telephone pole.

Mrs. Rosebraugh, 76, of 490 E. Miller st., suffered two fractured ankles and was taken by Eddie's ambulance to Salem Memorial hospital. She entered surgery immediately but her condition was regarded as "good" late Thursday night.

Rosebraugh, 75, a member of the city planning and zoning commission, incurred facial cuts but was not hospitalized.

The accident occurred about 6 p.m. at a dip in the highway between Salem and Dayton. Rosebraugh said he was driving east toward Salem when he was suddenly blinded by headlights of an oncoming car.

His auto skidded into loose gravel along the road and crashed into the telephone pole.

The pole came to rest over the front end of the Rosebraugh auto which was badly smashed. Portland General Electric officials said no power failure was reported in the area. State police investigated the accident.

Judge Jails Own Janitor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20-(AP)—District Court Judge Matthew F. McGuire has to shave with cold water tomorrow he can console himself with the thought that it is in the interests of justice.

The man who tends the boiler at the judge's apartment house building was convicted today of operating a gambling racket.

The judge refused to release him on bond pending sentencing tomorrow although the defendant's attorney explained that a number of tenants would be inconvenienced.

Albany Man Falls Into Elevator Shaft

ALBANY, Oct. 20—A fall down a 20-foot elevator shaft brought critical injuries to Lloyd Peterson of Albany about 10 p.m. Thursday. It happened at the Nebergal Packing plant where he was employed.

Peterson, about 30, was taken to Albany General hospital with a fractured skull, scalp and face lacerations and bruises.

THE WEATHER

City	Max.	Min.	Previp.
Salem	57	35	00
Portland	57	35	00
San Francisco	63	37	00
Chicago	63	37	00
New York	63	37	00

Willamette river -2.9 feet.

FORECAST (from U. S. weather bureau, McNary field, Salem): Generally fair today and tonight except for some high cloudiness. High about 50 today; low tonight 32. Farm activities will be favored today by continued fair weather.

SALM PRECIPITATION

This Year	Last Year	Normal
2.56	4.41	3.80

Marion county property owners will be receiving their tax statements beginning this week end. Above, 41,000 statements are loaded into a mail truck Thursday morning by Sheriff Denver Young, left, William R. S. McKee, 4390 McClay rd., center, and Harold Domagala, chief deputy tax collector, right. Domagala stated that there are still 4,500 hard inspection statements yet to be processed waiting for information from bang disease and TB reports by inspectors. (Statesman photo.)