

Firing of Denfield Criticized By Norblad at Chamber Meet

The recent firing of the U. S. chief of naval operations drew criticism Monday from U. S. Rep. Walter A. Norblad.

Norblad told the Salem Chamber of Commerce luncheon audience that Adm. Louis E. Denfield, as head man for the navy, had testified before a congressional committee by "giving the truth we had asked him for."

Norblad, a member of the house armed services committee, declared the administration had agreed that Denfield would not lose his job for anything he might say before the committee. "Then when we were on our way home, they fired him on the pretense of inefficiency," Norblad asserted.

Denfield had estimated to the committee that the navy's position as a fighting force was jeopardized by the new unified defense setup. Two weeks later, on November 2, he was replaced in the high command by Vice Adm. Forrest P. Sherman.

Norblad told the Salem audience that this nation's expensive defense program must be related to the national economy. He advocated concentration on strong reserve forces rather than enlarging the regular military forces.

"The defense budget of $15 billions can be cut by at least $2 billions," and Louis Johnson (secretary of defense) thinks so too," Norblad said.

He said one step toward economy was taken by a subcommittee on which he served during the recent congressional session. This body has initiated a program for

NOW SHOPSMITH CAN BE A JIGSAW TOO!

This new complete accessory for only $29.50

Because of SHOPSMITH'S versatility, the addition of this new attachment provides a precision 18 inch jigsaw. Still one tool...one space...one motor...a complete home workshop.

As a jigsaw it cuts plain or intricate curves...to the center of 26 inch panel. As a saber saw it cuts any size panel. Accommodates unlimited length. This jigsaw works right on your SHOPSMITH—that rugged but compact tool ($169.50 without motor) which combines a circular saw, vertical drill press, horizontal drill press, lathe, and disc sander. In a matter of seconds the jigsaw can be fitted conveniently into place, utilizing SHOPSMITH'S motor, bench and work table. Stores flat against wall.

Come in and see this jigsaw and SHOPSMITH in operation. Examine it closely. There's nothing like the SHOPSMITH jigsaw and it's only $29.50.
