190 Turkeys in Preparation for State Hospital

Thanksgiving will be celebrated at state institutions with traditional turkey dinners. Above is a scene in the state hospital kitchen as it will be this morning with preparations of the big meal going on. On table in front are a few of the 190 turkeys which will be used this noon. They will average 28 pounds per turkey; 300 to 400 pounds of dressing will stuff the birds, and in addition there will be 200 gallons of giblet gravy; 200 gallons of cole slaw; 250 gallons of potatoes; 50 crates each of celery and apples; and mince pie equivalent to 470 regular pies. All this will be needed to feed the 2,800 inmates of the hospital and cottage farms. Preparing all this food are the cooks and dieticians shown above with help from the inmates. Pictured, left to right, are cooks Arthur Roberg, Harold King, Robert E. Becker, head chef; Grover Higgs, D.D. Delp, and Mrs. Dorothy Reece, dietitian in charge of the kitchen, (Statesman photo.)

Bible Classes Planned for Turner Area

Statesman News Service
TURNER — In line with the program set up in many of the Oregon public schools, Turner grade school plans to establish week-day Bible instruction on released time if interest is sufficient.

The plan calls for these classes to be about one-half hour in length, each grade meeting separately. The classes will be held in the church building and those not enrolled will remain in school. This is to be a cooperative venture, all the churches working together. Gertrude Rasmussen, graduate of Northwest Christian college, has been contacted in regard to teaching the group.

The purpose of these classes is to present the Bible as a book and its implications in regards to the lives of the children. Parents are urged to enroll their children. Plans are made to commence the classes soon after the Christmas holiday.
