Perhaps the heftiest of the few changes made in the basketball rulebook for the coming season is the penalty for fouls committed during the final two minutes of play. Briefly the new innovation, aimed at tieing a knot in all that climactic mayhem during the dieing moments of most games, now has all fouls charged as technical fouls. In other words, when a player is charged with an infraction, he who is fouled not only gets to shoot the one or two free throws but also then takes the ball out of bounds. Last year the player who was fouled could either shoot for the point or waive that in favor of taking the ball out of bounds. Such was his only option then. Now he gets to shoot for the point AND keep possession of the ball. The technical fouls charged in the last two minutes will nonetheless count as personals against the five for the game he's through. Other technicals assessed in other than those final two minutes are not charged to the player's personal ac-Whether this new rule will put a stop to the incessant fouling by the JACK FRIEL team that is usually behind and trying desperately to get possession of the ball near the end of the game remains to be seen. But it does appear to us to be a stride in the right direction. After all, there isn't much sense committing the things when you know the guy you foul not only gets to shoot for the gifter but also keeps posssession of the ball.

The other two changes made in the book this time are of such minor detail they're not worth listing. We mentioned awhile back the experiment the Coast conference will try from December 1 to 15 in pre-league games, that of keeping the clock running during the final french's attempted pass was inter-two minutes of play rather than stop it for all held balls, out of cepted to set up a touchdown. Al bounds, etc. If this proves acceptable to the conference coaches, who are to be pulled after the two-week trial run, the experiment will be adopted by the PCC officially.

Pear Bowl Blossoming Into Something Big

Medford's Shriners Pear Bowl football game is growing into something big. Now handled by the Shrine organization in the southern Oregon city as a benefit game for the hospital for crippled children in Portland, it is the aim of its officials to make the classic an annual "inter - conference championship game" between the winners of the Northwest and Far West loops. All schools in the Far West conference-Cal Aggies, Chico State, Humboldt State, Southern Oregon and San Francisco State-were represented during a meeting at Medford downs than Grant: 10 to Grant's 8. on Thursday. And Clem Parberry, past president of the Northwest circuit, along with current prexy Dr. Paul Stagg sat in with the Far West greater: 514 to 297. officials during the confab. It is their aim to sign a pact that will put the two league winners together each Thanksgiving day. Parberry of College of Idaho and Stagg of Pacific are all for the plan, as are athletic heads at Linfield, Lewis & Clark and Whitman. The only Northwest conference school that has balked is Willamette, And until Wil- Fresno Skaters lamette puts the okeh on it, there can be no pact.

The sponsoring Shrine group is behind such a tieup full score. #### Gayda to Play Guard Instead of Forward

Just in case you might have wondered how they'd do as a team in the pro circuit, Notre Dame's Irishers would be boys against men according to some of the eastern writers. As one puts it, "Notre Dame against the Cleveland Browns would be like putting Jake LaMotta in with Joe Louis. They're just not in the same league, that's all." Coming-for-sure-dept: A mat match between "The Great Atlas" (or "Great Ego" if you prefer) and George Dusette. Any two gents with such muscles as theirs oughta get together. Either one can hoist a piano . . . Jack Hande, Silverton prep basketballing pride of last season and, in the words of his coach Jerry Gastineau, prospect enough at the time to amount to something on a small college quint, is out for the Frosh squad at Willamette . . .

Washington State's Ed Gayda, only one of the three "big wheels" of last winter's northern division cage race now left with eligibility since Cliff Crandall graduated at OSC and Sammy White turned probaseballer, will be playing at guard instead of forward for Jack Friel this time.. Friel wants to get as much out of Gayda's great defensive ability as possible and figures the big blond star will tally just as many points from "in back" as he did last year "up front." Friel will have two sophs up front who could be great helpers for Gayda. They are Gene Conley, the 6-foot 7-inch freshman sensation of a season ago from Richland, Wash., and Ted Tappe, All-American junior college

Last Year Three-Now Four Quarterbacks

Remember the hub-bub last season when Friel had three of Phil Sarboe's WSC quarterbacks playing basketball? Well, this time he has four—Frank Mataya, Bob Gambold. Leon Mangis and Scott Foxley . . . Hal Chapman, prewar coach at Woodburn high and during the war a naval CPO at U of Washington was in this sector last week doing a bit of digging around. Not for gold exactly, unless you want to consider Salem high's Jim Rock as being 18-karat as a collegiate prospect. Hal is now a sort of scout for the Huskies and was merely making a few inquiries on the Vik's 185-pound whizbang . . .

In having a quick peek back over the Coast conference football season, just try to remember as far back as you like to find any team that had a season such as Oregon's Webfoots. It is the opinion of most PCC coaches that the Ducks "were the best team they'd ever seen to lose five games in a row." Kinda hard to believe at that. Someone must've sent Jim Aiken one of those curse-carrying chain letters that he didn't answer . . .

PORTLAND, Nov. 26 -(AP)- The Grant Generals of Portland moved into the finals of the Oregon state prep championship today by swamping Hillsboro, 33-0.
