Kowitz Named To Committee

City Attorney Chris J. Kowitz has been appointed to a special committee to represent the League of Oregon Cities in providing assistance to the statute revision council in matters relating to municipal legislation.

The council, created by the 1949 legislature, has been given funds to clarify, classify and codify the laws now in force in the state. Named to work with Kowitz were Virgil H. Langtry, Portland and Robert Y. Thornton, Tillamook. The appointments were made by Mayor Hollis S. Smith, Dallas, president of the league.

Ralph Valdez Arrested on Check Charge

Ralph V. Valdez, 1812 Cross st., waived preliminary hearing Friday in Marion county district court and was held to answer grand jury in lieu of $1,000 bail on a charge of writing bad checks.

Valdez, arrested by City Detective Wayne Parker, admitted passing seven other bogus checks in Salem, Parker reported. A $4 check cashed at the Mission Street market, 1385 Mission st., led to Valdez's arrest Friday. The check, written on the Salem branch, First National bank of Portland, and dated Dec. 31, 1949, was signed Ralph V. Valdez.

Of five of the remaining seven checks, he signed the name Ralph V. Daldez, Parker said. They were written in amounts ranging from $2.50 to $15 and all passed within the past two months.

Plans Ask Racing Funds Go to Fairs on Basis of Number of Exhibitors

PORTLAND, Jan. 6—(AP)—A California suggested today that the state's take from dog and horse races could be divided among county fairs on the basis of the number of exhibitors. E. G. Vollman, manager of the San Joaquin, Calif., fair, made the suggestion at the Oregon Fairs association convention. The convention plans to recommend a new system for splitting up the pari-mutuel money, now divided equally among all county fairs, regardless of size.

Linn Livestock Men Re-Elect Club Officers

LEBANON, Jan. 6—Top officers for the Linn County Livestock Breeders Association were re-elected at a meeting held in the city hall here today.

Re-elected were Jack Swanson, Lebanon, president; Len Forester, Albany, vice president; and O. F. Mikesell, Albany, secretary. At the meeting, attended by about 100 members, a resolution was passed to ask the Linn county court to make it punishable to allow tansy ragwort to grow in the county.

The day-long program included talks by Dr. F. E. McKenzie, head of the animal husbandry department at Oregon State college, and Harry Lendgren, livestock specialist at the college. McKenzie spoke on the topic "What Future Plans the College Has in Regards to the Livestock Industry." Lendgren's topic was "Utilization of Irrigated Pastures."

Giving reports were Joe Myers, Albany, county extension agent in charge of 4-H clubs Leo Spitsbitz, Salem, State air director; and Charlie Evans, Salem, president of Western Oregon Livestock association. Representatives of the state wildlife association attending the meeting were Willard Nelson, Lebanon, and Francis Williams, Lebanon.

Movies titled "Conservation Practices" and "Livestock Disease Control" were shown by the group by Harry Elder, representing banks of Albany and Lebanon.

26 Bicycles To Be Put on Auction Block

Twenty-six unclaimed bicycles will go on sale at a public auction January 14, the Salem city attorney's office announced Friday. The bicycles, picked up by the city police and held at least 60 days, will be sold for cash at the municipal shops at 13th and Ferry streets. Sale of the unclaimed property was authorized recently by a new city ordinance.

The complete list of items for sale includes 24 boys' bicycles, 2 girls' bicycles and 2 bicycle frames and crank hangers.

Salem School News

SALEM HIGH SCHOOL
Daryl Girod and Gordon Sloan were elected to be honorary Rotarians for February and March by the Salem high student council Friday.

Other business taken up was the condition of the building and grounds. Student Body President Merlin Schulze reported that there had been complaints concerning lunch papers scattered in the halls and in the streets surrounding the high school. It was decided to start a campaign to bring this condition to the attention of the students.

Student council President Bob Meany brought up the problem of alumni and junior high students sitting in the high school seating section at the basketball games. He brought out that they cause disunity in the cheering. A resolution was passed by the council to reserve a section for Salem high students only.

MCKINLEY SCHOOL
Salem superintendent of schools Frank Bennett was guest speaker at McKinley school's weekly assembly. The assembly was concluded by all-school singing.
