Travelers Return Home

By Jerry English
Statesman Society Editor

Wintertime travelers and visitors continue to highlight the social news during the early part of the month.

Governor and Mrs. Douglas McKay returned to the capital Monday morning from a ten day sojourn in southern California. Enroute to Los Angeles and Pasadena, where they attended the Rose Bowl game, the McKays visited in Carmel with former Salem residents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas Everett May. In Los Angeles the travelers were joined one day by Colonel and Mrs. George Dutton, who now live in San Diego, but formerly of Salem, and enroute to Palm Springs the McKays visited with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holtz, also former Salem residents. At Palm Springs the travelers were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Braley of Portland, who are spending the winter at their resort home.

Mrs. Daniel B. Jarman arrived home Tuesday morning from Santa Monica, Calif., where she has been vacationing for several weeks. Mrs. Jarman's daughter, Mrs. Francis Burgoyne, and granddaughter, Joan Burgoyne, who accompanied her south are remaining for a longer visit and drive home in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Lester Newman, who went south to Modesto, Calif., to spend Christmas with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. Wells, and grandson, Steven, returned to Salem Monday night on the Shasta Daylight. The Newmans also visited in San Francisco before returning north.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beardsley and children, Janet Susan and Jimmy, returned to their home in Sals Lovanzo, Calif., Monday after a ten days stay in Salem at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wirth.

Pillow Tubing is Back Again After Absence During War

By Mrs. Genevieve Smith

If you are a meticulous home-maker who favors the tubular weave of muslin for pillow cases, you'll find it pretty generally on sale now in the stamped goods departments. The plain (unstamped) tubing is sold now by the yard in some domestic yard goods departments. In the latter form it is limited largely to communities where there is a demand for sheeting and cases by the yard, and to mail order houses.

This is the first return of tubing since the war era. It is particularly in demand for stamped goods, since there is no side seam to interfere with the hand-work — embroidery, hemstitching, crocheted edging and the like — used as a decoration. The other appeal is to homemakers who like to apply their own designs, and those who prefer the seamless tubing over the yard goods that must be stitched at the side.

When it comes to cost, the tubing usually runs a little ahead of ready-made seamed cases at current prices. Incidentally, manufacturers cut their pillow cases from the flat yard goods, hence you'll find all of them seamed up one side.

Tubing widths today are generally limited to 42 and 45 inches. The 42-inch width is standard, since most pillows measure 40 inches around. The extra two inches — as in the case of seamed slips as well — are allowance for shrinkage and an easy fit. Length is a matter of preference — that is, how much longer the pillow you like your slip. Most ready-made slips run 36 and 38 inches (length before hemming).

However, twin beds are bringing in a new pillow — a longer one that will look better with the standard thirty-nine-inch mattress. If you are using these pillows, you'll want to make allowance for them.

The Designing Woman

HOW TO CLEAN A FRAME

Extra treatment is often necessary for a gilt frame that has been attic bound or has hung on the wall a long time. Especially if you restore an unused frame to duty, more than soap and water may be needed. A half cup of ammonia to two cups of water plus a teaspoon full of baking soda may do the trick, or in difficult cases a half ammonia and half denatured alcohol solution. But don't use anything on the gilt frame without trying it out on a least visible spot first. Powdered gilt may come off completely if alcohol is used. And the main point, to remember, whatever you use, is never to rub the frame. Pat it with a little pressure as possible. Work in very small areas. A little lemon oil patted on occasionally will keep the frame in good condition and prevent drying and cracking.

It's found money — when you restore a dingy old piece of furniture to beauty with a refinishing job. Send for Elizabeth Hillier's book, FURNITURE REFINISHING—HOW TO DO IT YOURSELF and learn how. The book is yours for 15¢ in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Miss Hillier at this newspaper.
