Drivers Lose Licenses Due To Finance Act

Application of Oregon's financial responsibility law resulted in suspension of 5,953 operators' licenses and 7,187 vehicle registrations last year, the department's annual report disclosed Saturday.

Majority of the drivers whose licenses were suspended failed to file proof of responsibility after being involved in property damage or injury accidents. Owners of vehicles involved must also file proof, and 5,114 of the registration suspensions resulted from failure to comply. Other vehicle suspensions were for unsatisfied judgments, drunken driving not resulting in accident, and failure to maintain proof after filing.

More drivers' licenses were reinstated than were suspended, however, officials said. Expiration of the three-year period allowed return of 5,009 and furnishing of proof after suspension another 3,573. A total of 4,051 vehicle registrations were reinstated on filing of proof.

December was the month of heaviest activity with 792 operators' and 907 vehicle licenses suspended. February showed the lowest totals. October topped in re-locations for drunken driving with 232.

Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry pointed out that the number of drivers and vehicles affected by suspensions is only a little more than one per cent of the state's total.

Savings Bond Sales Increase

December sales of U. S. savings bonds in Oregon were $4,285,324, an increase of $573,942 above the same period of 1948. It was learned Saturday by the Marion County Bond Sales Chairman Sidney L. Stevens.

Marion county's sales of $160,769, were down by $3,855. The year's total for the county was $2,600,067.

Rep. Carl Hill to Seek Judgeship

ROSEBURG, Jan. 14 — (AP) — Carl C. Hill, Days Creek state representative, will not run in the legislative election next year. He announced today he would run for Douglas county judge instead.

The present county judge, D. N. Busenbarn, said he would not seek re-election.

Hill intends meanwhile to retain his position on the state game commission.

Auto Skidding Wrecks Jump; Caution Asked

Ice and snow conditions now general throughout the state have resulted in a marked increase in skidding accidents, the secretary of state's traffic safety division reported Saturday.

The division attributed most of these accidents to cars operating too close together, sudden braking and too much speed at intersections and on curves.

To help avoid that helpless feeling when your car goes into a skid, the division offered these tips:

1. Pump the brakes when applying pressure to the brake pedal to keep wheels from locking, and to maintain directional control.
2. Be gradual in starting, stopping or changing directions of movement.
3. Use tire chains to reduce braking distances and to provide added traction when moving from a stopped position or climbing a grade.
4. Whenever possible, stay off the roads entirely following severe storms to facilitate removal of snow and sanding by maintenance crews.

Wreck Injures 2 Salem Girls

Two Salem girls incurred minor injuries Saturday afternoon in the collision of two cars on Skyline drive south of the city.

Treated at Salem Memorial hospital for a wrenched arm and head bruises was Marilyn Sloan, 17, 875 N. 15th st. Hazel Swanson, 18, 1731 State st., suffered leg injuries. Both were released after treatment.

The accident occurred about 1:30 p.m. five miles south of Liberty. Joseph W. Waters, 825 N. 15th st., driver of the car in which the two girls were passengers, said he was driving south when the two cars collided. His car was heavily damaged. Occupants of the second car were not injured.

Hurricane Winds Pound At East States

By The Associated Press
Winds up to hurricane force tore at the east Saturday while the century's worst blizzard was pounding at the far west.

The elements were wound up to such a violent frenzy that "stay home" warnings were issued for persons in New York State, the Pacific Northwest and some Rocky Mountain areas.

At least 29 persons were blown or crushed to death, frozen, drowned, or killed in traffic mishaps caused by the storms. Damage was widespread.

The eastern winds shattered plate glass windows, toppled trees and power lines and even blew a bus off the road. One man was killed at Stowe, Vt. when a 70-mile-an-hour wind blew a tree down on his automobile.

The western blizzard was traveling eastward. In its path were Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska.

The flood threat in the midwest was expected to ease with the advent of lower temperatures. But in Arkansas, four rivers swollen by melting ice and heavy rains rose to danger points, forcing evacuation of numerous lowland residents.

In the California citrus areas, growers were warned to start heating citrus orchards early Saturday night to prepare for an expected temperature reading of 10 degrees below freezing. Los Angeles had its first snow since Jan. 11, 1949.

9 Perish in Northwest

Nine persons perished in the Pacific northwest's worst blizzard of the century. The storm, bringing bitter cold, hurled a paralyzing mantle of snow on Washington, Oregon and northern California and howled eastward into Idaho and Utah.

Battering winds raked the eastern half of the country spreading a trail of damage from Iowa to New York. Some buildings were unroofed, trees and utility poles were toppled and glass windows were caved in.

Floodwaters in some midwestern rivers edged higher but much colder weather moving in was expected to slow the runoff of ground water temporarily.

Western, northern and central New York was hardest hit by the destructive winds. Gusts topped hurricane velocity of 75 miles an hour and reached as high as 95 miles an hour in some places. Indianapolis clocked a 60 mile an hour sustained wind, with gusts up to 100 miles an hour. A Greyhound bus was blown off the road by an 80 mile an hour wind near the Canadian border village of Malone, N. Y. A passenger was injured. Broken power lines forced three Buffalo radio stations off the air. On Lake Erie, many small boats were wrecked. Tangles with wire

A man was killed in Cleveland when he became entangled with a high tension wire blown down by the winds. Another man was killed near Lowellville, N. Y., when he was slammed against a truck by a gust of wind. A gust of wind blew a Union Pacific railroad switchman beneath the wheels of a train at Tooele, Utah.

Five persons perished in a head on bus crash in a blinding snowstorm near Gaylord, Mich., and five others were killed in a train-truck crash in a heavy rain storm at Terre Haute, Ind.

A man was crushed to death by a 400 pound stone blown from the 11th story of a building in Montreal, where gusts reached 69 miles an hour.

Dangerous Outdoors

In a special bulletin for areas of New York state, the weather bureau warned residents it would be dangerous to be outdoors.

Frigid winds of 70 miles an hour tore at northern Illinois and gusts of 60 miles an hour smashed windows, knocked down trees and snapped power lines in Chicago.

Winds of 60 miles an hour were general throughout Ohio. Cold air poured into the midwest on the churning winds. Overnight drops in temperature were as much as 43 degrees. The mercury plummeted from 62 to 19 at South Bend, Ind., from 65 to 29 in Indianapolis and from 48 to 16 in Chicago.

Blizzard Forecast

Blizzard conditions were forecast for Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas as the Pacific storm wheeled eastward.

Flood swollen rivers in the midwest brought new damage. Thirteen families were evacuated at Nashville, Tenn., on the Cumberland river. The Red Cross removed 50 families from the Indiana "pocket" area between the converging Ohio and Wabash rivers.

Water was chest deep in the main street of Rosiclare, Ill., on the Ohio river. Some 250 persons have been evacuated and 40 business houses have been abandoned. Local telephone service was shut off "for the duration." The town of nearly 2,000 has no flood wall and a further rise of two feet of water is expected.

Drives into Downed Wires, But No Shock

Donald Sommer of Salem drove into some downed wires Friday morning and was petrified—until he realized that he wasn't going to be permanently petrified by electrocution. The wires turned out to be telephone lines, but until he knew that Sommer, "just sat there waiting for sparks" from what he thought were power lines.

The mishap occurred between Lebanon and Sodaville, where Sommer, who lives at 1433 Trade st., was driving his Mayflower ice cream route. He said he was almost into the wires before seeing them, and his momentum had carried the truck several feet into the tangle before stopping.
