Mrs. Victor Ahalt presided at the coffee urn and Mrs. Vern Williams cut the cake. Miss Donna Ahalt was in charge of the gift table. Seen and Heard...

By JERYME ENGLISH

OPENING NIGHT . . . on Tuesday when the Portland Symphony orchestra played the first of its two concerts in Salem at the high school auditorium . . . a nice size audience and a most appreciative one . . . As we are only privileged to hear a symphony two or three times a year here, we know there will even be a larger turnout for the March concert . . .

Nice to see . . . so many young children, who are interested in music, accompanying their parents . . . and all very attentive listeners . . . To mention a few . . . Mrs. Kenneth Potts and Ronny . . . Mrs. Homer Goulet and Phil . . . The Charles Campbells, Mary and Cathy . . . and son, Tim, at the last minute unable to attend, but promises to be on deck for the March concert . . . Jerry Berg with his parents, the Elmer O. Bergs . . . The Frank Shafers, Elizabeth and Frank . . . Mrs. William Crothers and Billy . . . Dr. and Mrs. Dean K. Brooks and Denise . . . The Sydney Kromers, David and Sidney . . . The Bruce Spauldings and their daughters . . . Mrs. Willard Marshall and Martha . . . Other regular symphony goers . . . The Carl Nelsons, Mrs. Keith Powell, Mrs. Chester Cox, Miss Elizabeth Lord, Miss Edith Schryver, the Paul Wallaces, Mrs. George Rossman, Ralph Furvines . . . Charles and Muriel Heltzel, the president of the Salem Symphony association . . . and Mrs. George Schwarz, who handled the ticket sale . . .

Familiar faces . . . Mary Tamme Hedrick who returned to Salem this fall after several years in Los Angeles, playing in the viola section of the orchestra, and Mildred Roberts Dawes, former Salem girl, now living in Portland, in the violin section . . . Down from Portland for the concert were the Phil Haris, he is manager of the symphony, Lawrence Shaw, who is president of the Portland Symphony, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. James Sample, wife of the new conductor.

Mrs. Anderson has been ready-to-wear buyer at Pri-Spaur, Mrs. Conrad Paulson, Mrs. John S. Lochead, Mrs. Charles D. Wood and Mrs. Charles Clarke.

SPRING PREVIEW . . . Even though it is still snowing, icy and rainy it is time for m'lady's thoughts to turn to the fashion forecast for spring . . . From New York comes news of the coming styles, where the spring fashions are being shown this week at the Courture Group of the New York Dress Institute . . . Styles similar to those of 1925 are back again . . . the tight sheath dresses, the wrap-around coats, even the peekaboo georgette blouses of the flapper era are south and into Mexico . . . the highlight of their trip was the Tournament of Roses parade, and the Rose Bowl game . . . Headed south . . . Unless weather permitted, the Garlen Simpsons left Saturday morning for a several weeks trip to San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego . . . They are driving down and will visit friends and relatives on their trip . . . They spent Saturday in Eugene with Elbert and Nettie Roberts, formerly of Salem, and were going to remain there several days if the roads were closed . . .

From California . . . comes news of Mrs. Henry Kortemeyer (Mary Anne Owen), who is now at Hamilton field with her air force captain husband . . . as friends will remember she was injured in an automobile accident in Los Angeles on V-J day and was paralyzed in her limbs and hands . . . but determination was with pretty blonde Mary Anne and she concentrated for days on moving her thumb and forefinger . . . after weeks of effort she could hold a spoon, fork and a pen . . . A few days ago, writing painfully, she wrote an inspirational message for all sufferers, which a magazine has bought for $50 . . . not much, but it means the beginning of a career for 27-year-old Mary Anne, and she is really living, once again . . .

in the spotlight . . . There is however, one reassuring difference . . . though the styles are similar to those of 25 years ago, the shape of the girl who wears them is not . . . Miss 1950 insists on retaining her natural curves and her slim waistline and she will not consent to the flat-chested "boyish form" of 1925. The chemise dress, that straight sheath with the bathing suit neckline so popular in the Charleston era, is a major trend of the coming season . . . There are even sheer wool dresses, sleeveless, to team with tailored suit jackets . . . the outfit suitable for office and without the jacket milady is ready for evening . . . As for materials transparent georgette, nylon net, organza and chiffon are all over the spring fashion picture . . . The short evening dress is more popular than ever this spring . . . The "little overcoat" with big sleeves, elbow length and deeply cuffed, is popular for spring . . . Suits go in for large sailor collars or wide lapels . . . skirts are uniformly straight and slim and noticeably shorter than last year's styles . . . also popular is the bloused top and cinched waistline . . . All the bulk is at the top in this spring's fashions, with big sleeves, big collars, jutting glapels to balance the slim skirt.

but . . . we understand very well, how the poor and hungry artist is the inspired creator. When we are fat and full, we find far less interest in writing our daily food story than on those entirely-too-frequent periods of dieting when we feel hungry all the time. Then are the days when we go enthusiastic on luscious chocolate cake, rich and expensive meat dishes and devastating candy or pudding recipes.

Watching . . . the sign painter put gold leaf on the Marion hotel signs this week, by rubbing the brush in his hair, so the electricity would hold the gold leaf to the bristles, we wondered how a bald headed man would manage. Perhaps he'd have a dog a la Seeing Eye, especially electrified.

Dandy Day . . . Friday and Saturday would have been a lovely time to do your shopping—there was plenty of parking space. As of now . . . We are probably sitting in front of our warm little Franklin stove, snuggled up with a 25c mystery thriller, snowed in for two days, and we won't mind a bit, just so the plumbing doesn't freeze. . . . Scholarship for Future Teacher

A one hundred dollar scholarship to the Oregon College of Education will be awarded to a Salem high school senior girl by the Salem Woman's club, according to Mrs. George Ailing, its president. At the close of the 1949-50 school year the club will announce the name of the winner of the scholarship.

In entering the "Build a Better Community Contest" of the General Federation of Women's clubs, the local group chose the scholarship as a project because of the critical shortage of elementary teachers in Oregon.

The Salem club has contributed toward the State Federation scholarship and fellowship fund which annually gives a $1000 fellowship to a Pan-American student to continue her higher education in Oregon. This is the first time the club has offered an award to a Salem student to continue education.

The club also contributes to the $150 art scholarship of the University of Oregon, established by the state Fine-Arts chairman, Mrs. George Rossman, for the benefit of a worthy art student in Oregon, an outgrowth of the Penny Art Fund, instituted some years ago.
