

Miss Alice Baillie a Bride

At the Kingwood Heights home of Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd T. Anderson before a fireplace banked with baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums and daffodils, Miss Alice J. Baillie and Walter L. Judd, Jr., were married Saturday at 3 o'clock. Dr. Lloyd T. Anderson, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Dr. John G. Mitchell of Portland presented the couple in consecration. The wedding march and "I Am Thine, O Lord" were played by Mrs. Lloyd T. Anderson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Baillie of Salem, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Judd of Portland.

For her wedding the bride chose a white wool jersey dress with an orchid corsage and pearl necklace and earrings given to her by the bridegroom. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Arnold Hegrenes of Portland, sister of the bridegroom, who wore a two-piece dress of rose fuchsia taffeta and her corsage was of white carnations. Glen J. Baillie, brother of the bride, was best man.

A dinner at the Golden Pheasant was served after the ceremony to the newlyweds, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd T. Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. John G. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Baillie, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Judd, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Glenn J. Baillie and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hegrenes. Mrs. Glenn J. Baillie cut the wedding cake.

The bride is a secretary in the legal department of the state highway commission, and Mr. Judd is a teller at the First National Bank. They will reside in Salem.

New 1950 Wool Carpets Show More Thought for Home Needs

By Mrs. Genevieve Smith

These days store buyers from all over the country are congregating in Chicago and New York, choosing wool carpet patterns that they think you will be most interested in. You'll be seeing these 1950 floor coverings within a few weeks, and in March there will be an all-out parade of what's new in a carpet fashion promotion event.

Mrs. Smith

However, if you're buying your wool floor coverings on a limited budget — and have already found a pattern and color that you like — better make up your mind and buy now. Higher costs of raw carpet wool, much of which comes from Argentina, will be reflected in increased retail prices.

Neither are you likely to run into the spate of price reductions that prevailed in 1949 as a result of heavy production, plus a drop in price that prevailed during the last half of the year. A less plentiful supply of raw wool and caution on the part of manufacturers, do not combine to indicate a repetition of 1949 price cuts.

But if you are considering new wool floor coverings, here's a survey of what we have found: Over-All Picture — wonderful variety, beauty, and service in the new wool carpeting. And — the trend is very strong toward textured surfaces, in all price levels.

This textured surface fashion started in the top price levels several seasons ago and has moved down to the less expensive weaves. It has become so firmly established that it can now be looked on as a definite style which will last for years. There are good reasons for it: It's more interesting — even a solid color has a two-tone effect in any of the textured weaves or treatments. It's more practical — ask any woman who has had the experience of a smooth, solid color velvet, say, being crushed down in traffic lanes (the carpet looks as though it's wet when the light hits the spots where the pile is crushed down.) Also, footprints do not show on the uneven surface.

Frieze weaves also are extremely popular. By frieze is meant yarns that are allowed to remain looped instead of being cut. The degree of twist and height of the loops varies widely. But here again there is reason for the popularity of frieze weaves. It adds interest to patterned rugs and to solid colors. More important to many homemakers, it is extremely long wearing as a rule. Of course, it sometimes has its own peculiar drawbacks, such as the yarns becoming partially untwisted and opening up. However, you will come across what is known as the vinylizing process for wool yarns, which adds to their durability and long-lived beauty. The Fatterer for the House

Perhaps one of the most noticeable features is the wide use of all-over patterns — free-flowing leaves and flowers in beautiful colorings, one single color predominating in each case with several others secondary to it. These patterns may range from small, conventionalized designs that are cozy and homey and well suited to simple, comfortable interiors, to reproductions of eighteenth century designs for magnificent settings.

On the other hand, if your problem is one of selecting floor coverings for a small, modern house, you'll find plenty of simple types in various weaves to fit in with maple and blond woods and streamlined designs of furniture and upholstery. This is another reason that there are so many textured effects — there is so much streamlining in the whole modern trend that accent is often put on textured floor coverings for the sake of interest.

Appropos of this whole category of modern floor coverings, don't think for a moment that they are all simple little numbers. Some of the most magnificent effects that we have seen are in this class. There is, for example, a design called Gilt Edge, in which twelve-inch squares in multi-colored textured effects are outlined with gold-colored metallic yarns. Other unusually rich effects include an uneven or textured chenille weave that gives great emphasis to the highly emphasized texture and beautiful colors. One manufacturer is also offering a most interesting weave in a long-pile boucle rug — so long is the pile that in the green you almost have the illusion of walking on wonderful turf. Of course, it is ideal for modern interiors, and is therefore in solid colors suited to them.

More Carpets for Small Homes

Provincial is that term which applies to so many different types of furniture in our own land and elsewhere but which usually refers to pieces small in scale, simple and clean as to line, and very livable generally. And it continues to be on the up and up in popularity. The current furniture showings feature more of it than a year ago, when it first began to show the proportions of a very strong movement. Of course, this type of usable, simple furniture originated from basic needs somewhat like those of today — young people were living in small homes and needed good, basic furniture. Dad often fell to and made a chest, a table, or chair himself. Carpet manufacturers are fully aware of this pace — setting trends in furniture, so you'll find the best selection ever to go with such interiors.

Another architectural movement that is reflected in floor coverings, is the popularity of ranch house style. How? In carpeting and rugs whose patterns and colors are designed to be harmonious when seen adjoining each other. If your first floor is pretty much living area, you can have one pattern for the living room area, and co-ordinated ones for the dining area and hallway or adjoining bedrooms. By co-ordinated are meant designs that employ the same colors, and that are different from each other yet enough alike in feeling to be entirely harmonious. Whatever the wool floor covering you select, choose it for long use. That is, do you feel relaxed when you look at it... do you find the colors and pattern soothing and pleasant? Will the color permit you to change decorative fabrics in draperies and upholstered furniture or the color scheme of the wall? And are the color and weave practical enough to stand up under the wear that your family will give them?

'Dry' Monmouth on Water Wagon

MONMOUTH—This city, "dry" by option, went on the water wagon definitely Friday when a broken pipeline shut off its water supply. Independence, Monmouth's next-door neighbor where liquor sales are permitted, came to the rescue by hauling water over in a tank truck. The photo taken Saturday shows Oregon College of Education Business Manager Ellis Stebbins, right, watching as Clarence Tompkins, OCE maintenance supervisor, and C. A. Taylor, boilerman, left, connect the college's boiler feed supply to the Independence water tanker. (Statesman-Ruark photo.) (Story on page one.)
