Seen and Heard...

By JERYME ENGLISH

FAVORITE SUBJECT . . . of the week . . . the weather . . . as for clothes we have seen everything from heavy boots, jackets, scarfs and bandanas . . . In case someone didn't speak to you on the street it is no doubt they didn't recognize you with that scarf tied around your head . . . becoming to a few, but they certainly are grand to wear in wind, rain and snow . . . Seemingly every party and club meeting was cancelled . . . however there were a few neighborhood parties as after three weeks of stormy weather it got a little boring to stay at home by the fire . . . as one lady remarked it was a grand time for the weather man to put on his party so that everyone could stay at home and rest after the holidays . . . Men and women who have never ridden the bus or walked before had their first experiences and really enjoyed it . . . The grown ups as well as their children enjoyed sledding and tobogganing on Fry's hill, Fairmount and Candalaria Heights . . . It was really a field day for them with the youngsters out until bedtime and then the parents start their fun . . . coming around midnight for hot coffee . . . The Charles Heltzel home was a meeting place on Sunday with families coming in for coffee and then going out again after warming up . . . thirty there at one time . . .

In spite of the weather . . . milady's thoughts are turning to spring . . . Saw several looking at the pretty new cottons at the yardage counters during the week . . . others shopping for spring hats . . . Mrs. Albert C. Gragg among them and purchasing a pretty, pink straw . . . still others looking at cotton dresses to take on trips south . . .

A FIRST MORNING . . . opening instead of a first night performance . . . when Beatrice Lillie opened in "Inside U. S. A." at the Mayfair theatre Tuesday . . . Instead of having ten hours to put up the stage sets, the stage hands did it in seven . . . The train carrying the troupe arrived in Portland at 5 p. m. instead of at 11 in the morning . . . It was impossible to get the stage sets up for certain time at 8:30 so the opening was delayed until 12:30 a. m. and only a very few people gave up their tickets . . . Theatre goes arrived on time . . . the management first offered them complimentary tickets to shows at two other theatres . . . some went out to eat and others just remained and watched the action "behind the stage" . . . a constant state of confusion . . . electricians and stage hands running around on the stage, and to make matters more complicated some of the largest stage drops (48 foot ones) ever to be used at the Mayfair had to be set up . . . lots of changes of scenes to prolong the working hours . . . the orchestra practicing . . . and even going into a jam session . . . the management finally distributing the morning newspaper for the audience to read . . . lots of gatherings in the foyer and in the aisles . . . everyone becoming friends . . . as someone said, "everything went on in those four hours except canasta . . ."

From Salem the Bill Dyers and Homer Goulets were among those in the "first morning" audience . . . but said it was really worth waiting for . . . a grand show and Beatrice Lillie spoke a few words in appreciation of the patient audience who stayed . . . the actress never wears high heels, just can't walk in them, let alone be comfortable . . . Whenever possible she wears flats or pixies . . . and in the last scene when she comes down the stairs wearing a bouffant evening gown she even wore flats . . . The Dyers, who had gone up on the bus, had expected to wait around for the five a. m. bus, but the Goulets insisted they drive home with them . . . so they got here at five instead of leaving Portland at that hour . . . certainly an experience not to be forgotten.

THE WEATHER MAN . . . apparently turned tables in Oregon and Indiana this winter . . . The G. Herbert Smiths, just back from Indiana, where they spent Christmas with their daughters, Margie and Sally, expected lots of snow there as they usually have this but . . . the crowd of concert goers Friday night had a gleam in their eyes, not seen for many weeks. They had just been "sprung" from the confinement of snow and ice, and were experiencing again the pleasures of slopping around in a nice warm rain. We never saw so many galoshes in our life. They proved again the old saying that "you can get a good sized audience out, if there's rain in the air and puddles to wade through."

Fresh birds . . . Sparrows are like some people. Try as you will to thwart them, they always come out on top. We saw a flock of dark little juncos hopping around trying to pick up a bite to eat. We carefully put a sprinkling of lovely cracker crumbs out and returned to the house to watch. In a moment two sparrows arrived, and in another minute a dozen were dining on our handout. We saw no more juncos until all the crackers were gone. Another day we saw bluebirds scouting around and offered them some grain. The sparrows moved in again.

Apprenticeship . . . It's an ill wind, you know. Our recent hospital experience, when we went bathless (except for the small bowl variety) for three weeks, served to orient us for having water pipes frozen this week. We felt luxurious having a lovely washcloth bath, and with the help of cologne and bath powder felt much like the man must, who puts lotion and powder on his face in lieu of a shave. He fools no one but himself. . . . Maxine Buren

YW Dinner Speaker Is Announced

One of the larger affairs slated for the end of the month will be the annual YWCA membership meeting and dinner in the Carrier room of the First Methodist church at 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday, January 31.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Wilson Compton, wife of the president of Washington State college. She has been active in YWCA work and at one time was a member of the YW board in Washington, D. C. She is interested in the United Nations and is well known as a popular speaker. During her stay in Salem she will be a guest of Judge and Mrs. James T. Brand. Preceding the dinner an informal reception will be held with Mrs. A. A. Schramm, president of the board, introducing the guests to the new staff members. They include Miss Gertrude Acheson, executive secretary of the YWCA; Miss Joyce Lamoreaux, program director for young adults; and Miss Norma Wallace, director of the younger girls program.

Reservations for the dinner must be made at the YW by Wednesday, January 25.

time of year . . . and didn't expect to walk into it as they got off the train here Tuesday morning . . . In Indiana it really has been like spring, beautiful sunny weather, mild and even the forsythia coming out, which is unheard of this early in the year . . . The Smith family enjoyed the holidays at Canyon Inn at Spencer, Indiana . . . a lovely resort place . . . on Christmas eve all the guests sang carols around the huge fireplace . . . One family of 32 spent Christmas at the inn, all brothers and sisters and their children . . . they come each year as no home is large enough for them all . . . In the family was a former Pi Phi friend of Mrs. Smith and they even ran across other friends while at the inn . . . Margie is more than enjoying her freshman year at DePauw university, where she is a Pi Phi pledge . . . and Sally, a junior at Randolph Macon Women's college at Lynchburg, Va., has affiliated with the Pi Phi chapter there and has been named rush chairman . . . We expected Mrs. Smith to be unpacking when we called Tuesday, but instead she was opening Christmas cards and presents and enjoying a second Christmas . . . they didn't have anything forwarded as they knew they couldn't bring anything more home as already too much luggage . . .

NEWCOMERS . . . The Robert Thomsons recently arrived in Salem from their home in Glasgow, Scotland and will reside here . . . Their daughter, Mrs. Loren Hicks, who had been here since the war, was the real incentive for their coming . . . They are temporarily at the Hicks home until they move into their place at the Cascade Court . . . Mr. Thomson already has a position as a tailor at the Man's shop . . .

Seen to move here . . . will be the Bruce Picketts . . . she will be remembered as Margaret Allyn, who was on the radio and had her own program for many years, both here and in Portland . . . They have been living at Lake Oswego since their marriage in Salem in 1948 . . . Mr. Pickett has just been named the new district manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. . . . joining them after school in June will be her daughter, Jocelyn Davis, a University of Oregon coed. Margaret is looking forward to seeing her many Salem friends again.
