

Youth Week's Activity Set For Churches

Several individual Salem churches will participate with special services in observance of National Youth week, beginning Sunday with Denominational day and closing Sunday, February 5, with Interdenominational day.
A full week of activities is planned at First Christian church. Boys of Junior and senior high and young people's groups will serve as ushers and deacons at the morning service Sunday. In the evening, a worship service by the junior high group will precede showing of the modern religious film, "Salt of the Earth." Special features are planned for the regular youth night beginning at 4 p.m. Wednesday. Thursday will have an all-youth banquet at the church at 6:30 p.m. Young people will visit less active group members Friday night and then have recreation. A mass youth Sunday school is planned for February 5, with a guest teacher to speak also at the church service.
That church will also present, with the public invited, a dramatic, realistic court trial of Christian youth of 1950. It is planned for 7:30 p.m., February 5.
Dependent upon weather conditions, which forced postponement two weeks ago, Methodist youth of Salem sub-district will have a rally at 4 p.m. Sunday at Jason Lee church in Salem. Leslie church is in charge of devotions. Dr. Roy A. Fedje, district superintendent, will speak at the public service at 7:30 p.m.
At First Methodist church, the youth fellowship choir, directed by Art Dimond, will sing at the morning service. Richard Scott, group president, will read the scriptures. The Willamette university Wesley Fellowship will hear, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the church, a program by the Chordsmen, Negro boys' choir from Hughes Memorial Methodist church in Portland.
Young people participating in the morning service this Sunday at First Presbyterian church are Ronald Bartlett, Mary Campbell and Harriet Hiday. Dr. Chester W. Hamblin, pastor, will preach a special youth sermon on "Pie in the Sky."

Jason Lee Sunday School in New Building

Viewed from Jefferson street, this is the new Sunday school building at Jason Lee Methodist church, occupied this month. The concrete structure has two floors and a basement, each with a large assembly room. Each department has five or six small classrooms. Connected to the main church building (right), the new building will house all but the high school and two adult classes from the Sunday school of 450 persons. Only the final flooring and some trim work remains to be done, according to Dr. Louis C. Kirby, pastor. (Statesman photo.)

Trend to Interdenominational Religion Growing in China

By Winston H. Taylor
Church Editor, The Statesman

World War II provided the Chinese a good opportunity to get away from denominationalism in religion, and there "the gospel door has opened widely," according to the Rev. Paul Shen, young Chinese in seminary training at Jennings Lodge, Ore. Shen speaks once each month at First Evangelical United Brethren church in Salem.

While missionaries are still active in his country, he said 99 percent of the large churches now are started by native Christians and are non-sectarian.

Shen said the people of Formosa, where he spent nearly a year just prior to coming to the U. S. 3½ months ago, "need the gospel badly," although Christianity has made good headway on that island. He was founder and pastor of an interdenominational Mandarin (Chinese universalist) tongue church there.

The island's Christian missionary work continued, in quite limited channels, even during Japan's 50-year control, he said, but the gospel of Christ has still not reached many persons.

Despite that half century preceding the late war, said Shen, the Formosans have quite close ties with the Chinese, and their opinions of America vary in the same way—to extreme. Before he came to the U. S., Chinese Nationalists had established factories and military training bases on the island for a stand against the communists.

In his early 30s, Shen was brought here to study at Western School of Evangelical Religion at Jennings Lodge. After growing up in Shanghai and studying at Bethel seminary in Hong Kong, he did religious work with university students who had trekked to western China during the war. In 1945, working for the "Evangelize China" fellowship, he returned to Shanghai to establish a Mandarin church, which grew from 250 to 800 members during 3½ years.

As well as seminary work, Shen is visiting and observing carefully in many American churches, because after about three years he "will go back" to China or Formosa as a seminary teacher and to do pastoral work, continuing a task in which he has already served for more than 10 years.

The Bible Story

KING SOLOMON

(Editor's note: This is the 14th of a series from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Harrie for the book, "In Our Image," Illustration by Guy Rowe also from the book. Copyright 1948, Oxford University Press, Inc.)

Now the days of David drew nigh that he should die; and he slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David. Then sat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was established greatly.

The Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream by night and said, Ask what I shall give thee. And Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth. And now, O Lord my God, I am but a little child. Give therefore thy servant and understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad; for, who is able to judge this thy so great a people? And the speech pleased the Lord.

And God said, I have done according to thy words: I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart; so that there was none like thee before, neither after thee shall be like thee. I have also given which thou hast not asked, both riches, and honor; so that there shall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days. And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, I will lengthen thy days.

Then came there two women unto the king. And the one woman said, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house; and I was delivered of a child with her in the house. And the third day after I was delivered, this woman was delivered also. And this woman's child died in the night; and she arose and took my son from beside me, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom. And when I rose to give my child suck, it was dead; but when I considered it in the morning, it was not my son. And the other woman said, The living is my son, and the dead is thy son.

The king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword. And the king said, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one and half to the other.

Then spake the woman whose the living child was: O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it. But the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof. And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged; and they feared the king; for they saw that the wisdom of God was in him.
