

Recent newcomers in the capital are the Lowell Steens and pictured before the large view windows and solarium in the living room of their country place on the South 12th street highway are Mrs. Steen and children, Bill, Denny, Nancy and Patricia. The Steens moved here from Milton and he is president of the Oregon State Farm Bureau Federation. (Kennell-Ellis photo).

Tacoma was the former home of pretty, brunette Mrs. Richard Hayward, above, who moved to Salem in the fall with her husband, when he was transferred by the Union Oil Co., as resident manager. Mrs. Hayward is already an active member of the Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae and they are residing at 1941 N. Church street. (Kennell-Ellis photo).

Mrs. Robert Taylor and two daughters, Judy and Diane, at the right, are among the many newcomers who moved to Salem this fall. Mr. Taylor is the new state insurance commissioner. The family came here from Portland and have taken a house on North 15th street. (Kennell-Ellis photo).

Visiting in Salem for several months are Mrs. Ronald M. Smith and son, Jeff, above, who have been residing in Alameda, Calif., while Ensign Smith was stationed there at the naval air base. Ensign Smith is now on an extended navy cruise and his wife and son will remain here with her parents, the Van Wieders. (Kennell-Ellis photo).

A charming newcomer being welcomed in the capital is Mrs. Harry Dorman at the right, whose husband is the newly appointed state budget director. The Dorman moved here from Portland and are now getting settled and redecorating their home on Mission and South High streets. (Kennell-Ellis photo).

Women's Section

SOCIETY • CLUBS • MUSIC

Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Domogalla, pictured in St. Joseph's Catholic church immediately following their marriage on January 21. The bride, the former Georgia Green, is the daughter of the Clyde Woodrulis and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Domogalla. (McEwan photo).

Military Ball, Shrine Dance Slated . . .

By Jeryme English
Statesman Society Editor

February, the month of dances, will be no exception this year with every weekend already filled with dates for dances.

The Salem Shrine club will entertain with its annual sweetheart dinner dance on Monday, February 13 at the Marion hotel. The social hour will be at 7 o'clock with dinner to follow at 8:30 o'clock in the Mirror room. A floor show will be a feature of the evening and Wolfer's orchestra will play for dancing.

Robert White heads the directorate for the affair and assisting will be Ray Linton, Robert Stutsman, Delmer Whitman and Wallace Doerfler.

Committees have been released for the 12th annual Military ball, always a highlight of the winter social season, which will be an event of February 18 at the armory. Members of the Marion County Reserve Officers Association will serve as hosts and invitations will be in the mail next week to the formal affair.

Commander Carl H. Cover, president of the association, announces the following committees: Capt. Dewey Rand, general chairman; Col. Carl Nelson, Lt. Col. Francis Wade, Major Robert Phillips, advisory committee; Captain Robert Letts Jones, Major George Bagnall, grand marshal; Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Hardisty, Cmdr. E. A. Meola, Lt. C. B. Stanley, decorations; Major Leonard Hicks, Major Gordon Skinner, Major Reginald Williams, Capt. Ralph Slocum, finance and invitations; Col. George Spaur, Lt. James Clinton, distinguished guests; Capt. William C. Dyer, Capt. Kenneth Potts, publicity and refreshments; Lt. Cmdr. David Morey, color guard; and Capt. Floyd Siegmund, tickets.

