Miss Shepherd, Mr. Bisbee Married

Miss Lois Shepherd and Donald Bisbee exchanged their marriage vows at an afternoon ceremony on Sunday at the First Presbyterian church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Shepherd and was given in marriage by her father. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Bisbee of Independence. Dr. Chester W. Hamblin performed the double ring ceremony at 3 o'clock.

Ronald Craven was the soloist and Mrs. Ralph Dobbs the organist. The altar was banked with bouquets of pink snapdragons and white stock. Miss Ellen Shepherd lit the candles and wore a blue taffeta gown.

For her wedding the bride chose a white slipper satin gown designed with a fitted bodice enhanced with a net yoke edged with a wide lace bertha. The sleeves were long and the full skirt ended in a train. From a beaded crown fell her fingertip length tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of red Delight roses tied with white satin ribbon.

Proceeding the bride to the altar were Miss Janet Telfer as honor maid and Miss Janell Johnson the bridesmaid. They wore frocks of orchid and yellow taffeta respectively, styled with full skirts, fitted bodices and low necklines edged with a cuff. They carried white satin hearts adorned with contrasting carnations and white bouvardia and in their hair were bandeaux of white bouvardia.

Brother Is Best Man

Lawrence Bisbee stood with his brother as best man and seating the guests were Gerry Odom and Dawson McCutcheon.

Mrs. Shepherd attended her daughter's wedding in a black, rose and green print silk gown with rose and green accessories.

Mrs. Bisbee wore a rose and green print gown for her son's marriage and both had corsages of pink roses and white bouvardia.

A reception was held in the church parlors. Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. Ray Telfer and Mrs. Darcy Drennan. Assisting were Mrs. Charles Jayne, Mrs. William Miles, Mrs. Paul Rouse, Mrs. Robert Douglas, Mrs. Dawson McCutcheon, Misses Lou Ann Hatterberg, Kay Siefried, Nancy Jayne and Shirley Brock-

Handbag Fashions for Wool Outfits Made at Home, a Smart Accessory

By Mrs. Genevieve Smith
Handbag fashions for wool outfits today favor your budget if you are a home sewer.

Easiest to make are the soft bags, the feed bag with its drawstring handle, the envelope with slide fastener closure, and the soft bag that is gathered into a handle. Such handles are available in many different designs in the needlework departments as a rule. Box bags, very important fashionwise, call for a bit more tailoring skill, plus a good stiffening. All of these are especially effective in the soft tweeds and novelty checks.

Fashion books abound with designs for small hats, which are often a smartly effective touch when made of the same material as a suit.

In choosing your fabric for that spring suit, consider these two accessories then check the yardage they require, so that you can be sure of getting the same dye lot by buying all your material at the same time.

On the other hand, you may get a ready-made belt that will give your costume a contrasting fillip that is smarter than a belt of self fabric. The popularity of separates has thrown the spotlight on novelty belts. Leathers, polished or dull calf and patent, are cut out in beautiful openwork patterns. All sorts of decoration, from metal studding to various kinds of beading, are used. Most of these are shaped, in conformance to current fashions and for better fit and comfort. You also will find that many stores have coordinated these belts with other accessories, notably footwear and handbags. Also hats and hat trims, mostly in patent.

Return from Mexico City

By Jeryme English
Statesman Society Editor
Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Von Eschen and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney B. Lewis arrived in Salem Saturday night from a three weeks trip to Mexico City. On the same train were three Dallas residents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dalton and Mrs. William C. Retzer.

The travelers left here January 20 on the Journal Special Mexican tour. Their first stop was in San Diego and from there they went on to Mexico City, where they made their headquarters for ten days. The Salem folk were registered at the Del Prado hotel. They made several side trips further south in Mexico and resort places. In Mexico City they were entertained at the Turf club, Mexico City country club, attended a bull fight and saw a Jai Alai game.

Enroute home the special train, which started from Portland, stopped at El Paso, Houston, where they spent several hours at the famous Shamrock hotel, San Antonio, Carlsbad Caverns, Palm Springs and San Francisco.

Rites Read at Ceremony

At a quiet ceremony in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Mark A. Getzendaner, Miss Ramona R. Bing became the bride of Howard E. Taylor on Sunday night, February 5 at 9 o'clock. Dr. Getzendaner performed the ceremony. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bing of Rapid City, S. D., wore a pink dress and a corsage of pink carnations. She was unattended.

Mr. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Taylor of Dallas, is a member of the musicians union, and has played in several bands in and near Salem. They will live in Salem.

Miss Hynes to Be Married

The engagement of Miss Patricia Ann Hynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hynes to Alan Haslebacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haslebacher, all of Salem, is being announced by the parents of the bride-elect.

Miss Hynes is a senior at Sacred Heart academy and he is a graduate of Salem high school and was recently discharged from the navy. No date has been set for the wedding.

Chandler, Mrs. George Heckert, Mrs. Dutoit, Mrs. Kleinschmidt, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Neuschwander.

Friendship Club At Melchert Home

Mrs. H. E. Melchert was hostess on Friday at a dessert luncheon for members of the Friendship club. During the meeting the women decided to make two quilts for the Red Cross. A talk was given by Mrs. J. R. Jazic on gardening to do this month. The March 10 meeting will be with Mrs. J. J. Sunderland, 8 Evergreen Ave.

The Designing Woman

By Elizabeth Hillyer

THE LITTLE ROOM

There's hardly a guest room in a carload of blue prints for new houses. Extra bedrooms are few in any kind of home today, and many apartments stop short at one room. But the little room that isn't there, is there, even if it can't be seen at first glance. The now-you-see, now-you-don't-trick is done with furniture design. The sectional sofa that's just what the decorator ordered turns out to be a bed that couldn't be more comfortable if it were a four-poster. Here is one of the new fashionably armless designs which smooths into the living room picture with matching chairs, and the chairs have the same comfortable spring construction in their backs and seats that this manufacturer made famous in beds. The bed is a new 3/4 size, or may be full size.

Before you tackle that paint job, learn the professional tricks that save time, trouble and money in Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet, SMART AS PAINT—PAINTING PROBLEMS SOLVED. It's yours for 15 cents in coin, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Miss Hillyer at this newspaper. (Copyright 1950 by John F. Dille Co.)

On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. When a sudden death occurs in a family after wedding invitations have been mailed, should the wedding be postponed?

A. Not necessarily. However, the plans should be changed. Recall all invitations excepting those of the two immediate families, and have the wedding as quiet as possible.

Q. If a man and a woman are dining together in a restaurant and the tea is served in a pot, who pours it?

A. If the waiter does not pour for them, then the woman should attend to this rite.

Q. If a woman is standing directly in a man's way, must he tip his hat when he asks her permission to pass?

A. Yes, as she steps aside he should tip his hat and thank her.

Housewife Who Adventures Makes Most of Occupation; A Good Cook

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Woman's Editor

A recent survey revealed that at least one Statesman woman reader fails to find interest in our columns because we "talk about things she does not have in her kitchen."

Now, we'll admit that a writer on household subjects sometimes wanders far afield from potatoes and gravy. How much more simple it would be to write every day about how to broil a chop and mash a potato—just a plain potato.

And how many readers would we attract two days in succession? We wonder if this same lady (and we admire her for her frankness) would read the same book over, or go to the same picture show time after time. We also wonder how she enjoys films and books which deal only with those things she knows intimately, and gives no reference to the strange mysteries above her own level of life.

Sure, we can talk about things we always have in our kitchen, but life as a writer would be very dull. Our object in writing on subjects, which as our ability will allow, is to make life more interesting for ourselves and for those readers who bear with us.

We like to keep house, like to eat and enjoy life. Writing about foods and household subjects not only furnishes amusement and rest for knowing more—it also provided a reasonably comfortable salary. No enthusiastic writer on food subjects could be lukewarm toward the subject on which she writes. You've got to be hungry to enjoy a meal.

We have said it before, we repeat it again. Women who like to experiment in the kitchen, who like to read about what others do in their homes and who find pleasure in the act of being a housewife will pretty generally be found to be the better home-makers.

Those women who want to cook only what has been in their kitchens for the past 20 years may be able to roast a leg of pork to a turn, and fry excellent hotcakes, but we'll bet they aren't too happy in their work.

Get together a group of plump, red cheeked happy people, (men and women) and start talking food. You'll find how many find enjoyment in preparation of food, and the eating of it.

If you believe that cooking is a lost art and that intelligent folk aren't interested—just talk around a little.

Incidentally, those women who want these columns to deal only with familiar dishes may be shocked to find that we moderns believe that a chop should be cooked much farther away from the source of heat and slower than used to be.

Even the chop must bow to progress.
