Those Famous City Hall Swinging Doors Will Go

Workmen are preparing a temporary entrance to Salem police headquarters as work begins on a $7,000 addition at the south side of the city hall front steps. Above, working in a cloud of dust, are Paul Hamrick, Salem route 6, with air drill; and A. C. Thomas, Salem route 7, standing. Other photo shows the best known swinging doors in Salem, the present entrance to the police department through which many a solid citizen has marched to pay his dues in the overtime parking club. These will be torn out for the new addition. (Statesman photos.)

The Miracle of America

America has come a long way since that dark Christmas night in 1776 when Washington led his brave though weary men across the storm-swept Delaware and on to victory at Trenton

During those Revolutionary days, men needed courage and vision to believe that the dream of a free America would some day be realized.

Freedom has come to America—individual freedom and economic freedom together with real security. New power, new machines plus constantly increased skill have meant abundance until today, our way of life provides the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by any people.

Our American system is more productive, more promising, more challenging than any economic system the world has ever known. With even better teamwork, America's future... and yours... is unlimited.
