

New Sewing Club Formed; Officers Chosen

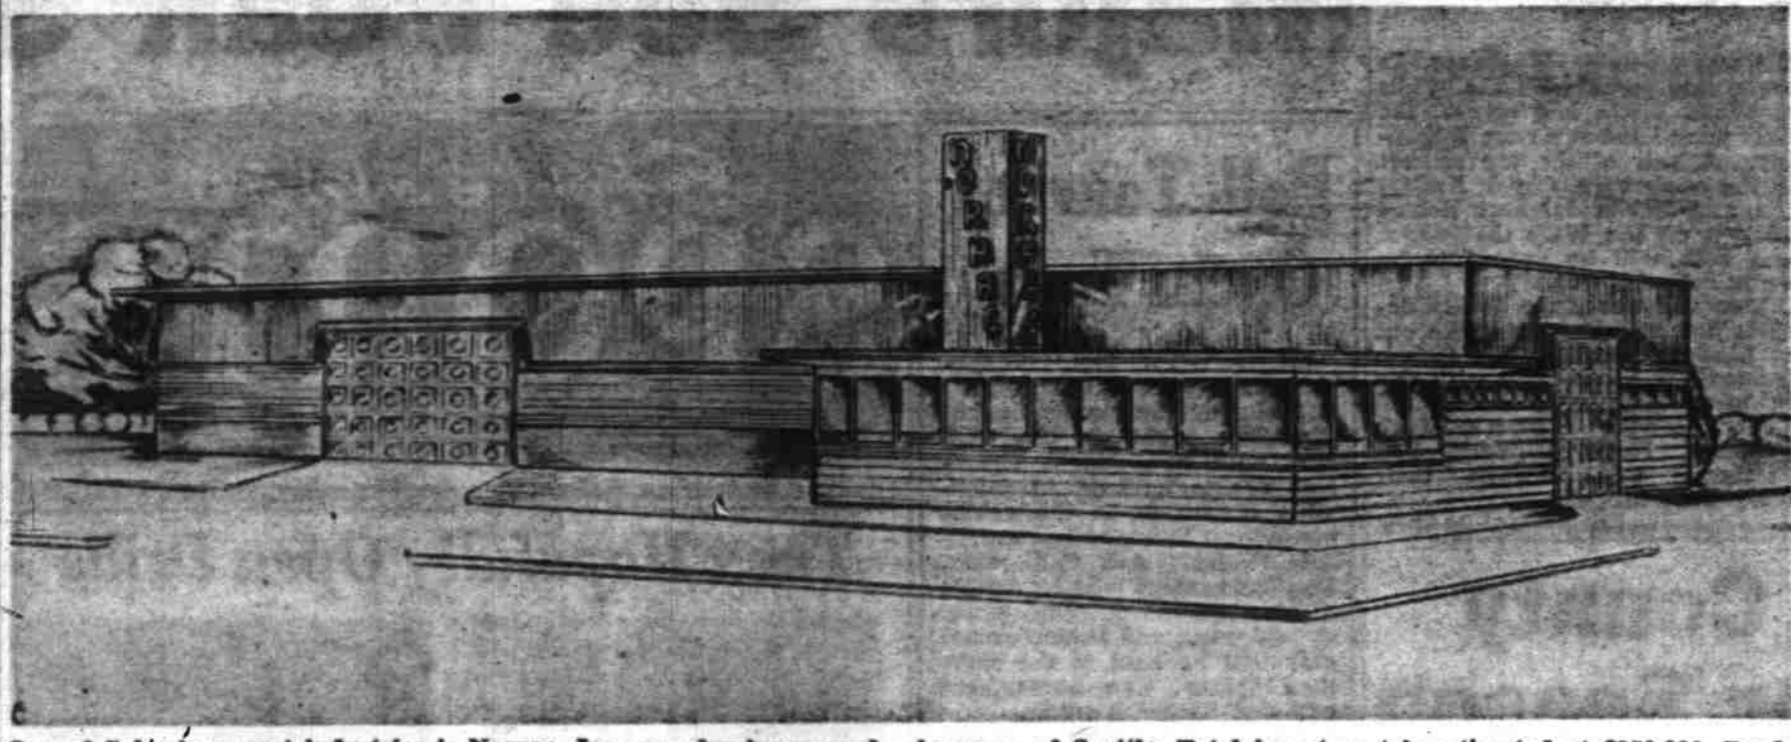

Statesman News Service
Marlis De Groote, 535 Wild Wind dr., has been elected president of "The Ben Lomond Needle Threaders", a 4-H first-year sewing club. Mrs. Arthur Roethlin and Mrs. Hedda Swart were chosen leader and assistant.

Other active members of the club are Penny Brenner, vice-president; Patsy Sexton, secretary; Laura Smith, reporter and Sherrie Otjen. Associate members are Joanne Roethlin, song leader, and Aileen Hawkins.

The club includes girls attending McKinley school between the ages of 8 and 12 years. Meetings for business and project work are planned for twice a month on Saturday afternoon at the leader's home.

Clubs in various 4-H projects are still being formed. Any young people or parents interested may contact the city 4-H office at 475 N. Church street, phone 3-8429, according to James Bishop, city extension agent.

New Aluminum Processing Plant Going Up

One of Salem's newest industries is Norpac, Inc., an aluminum products company, which is constructing this building at South 15th and Lewis streets. The steel-frame building is to be faced with aluminum, featuring materials to be made at the plant. It is 77 by 120 feet, with 16-foot overhead doors on the north, south and east walls for efficient loading and unloading. President of the firm is Carl V. Amussen of Seattle. Total investment is estimated at $250,000. Products will include aluminum roofing, siding, gutters and downspouts, insulating material and house aluminum foil. Headquarters of Norpac as well as of the new Western Aluminum Corp., of which Amussen also is president, will be located here. Architect is James L. Payne of Salem; general contractors Viecko & Post.

Schools Aired in Meeting Schools Aired In Meeting

Statesman News Service
SILVERTON, Feb. 22 — Complaints and rumours of dissatisfaction over operation of Silverton schools were aired in a special meeting called Tuesday by Lloyd Larsen, school board chairman.

Larsen told about 25 persons present he called the meeting because rumours had become rampant about the city and he wished "to give every one an opportunity to air his or her complaint."

Lack of cooperation with Parent-Teachers and with Scout work was brought up by some. Lack of teaching Americanism in the schools was another complaint. Some objected to A. B. Anderson, superintendent of schools, serving as clerk of the school board.

The whole matter, Larsen asserted, was principally a lack of understanding. In the instance of the "lack of teaching Americanism," Larsen suggested that the American Legion or Veterans of Foreign Wars take this up more specifically. The complaint was in reference to the essay contest sponsored by the patriotic fraternities. Perhaps a little better selling job on the sponsors of the essay would have helped, members of the school board brought out.

Using the superintendent as clerk of the school board, Larsen explained, was just a matter of saving money. It was cheaper to do this than to hire another clerk. The custom had been followed in local schools for years, he explained.

Some complaint was made that the "school board meeting were closed sessions." This the school board denied. The public was always welcome to attend but seldom did, members stated. No action was taken at the meeting.

New 4-H Leader Named to Direct State Association

Succeeding Mrs. E. F. Wright, Portland, who served as president of the state 4-H Club Leaders association since it was formed in 1934, is Mrs. Alice Lindsay, Grants Pass, L. J. Allen, state 4-H club leader, has announced.

Balloting was conducted in connection with two district leader conferences held early this year. Mrs. Wright declined to be a candidate for re-election.

Incoming vice president of the state 4-H Club Leaders association is Jack Jones of Bend. Mrs. Carmelita Weddle, Salem, was elected secretary-treasurer.

A new phase of the state leader organization was put into operation this year by dividing the state into six districts. A regional vice president has been elected for each, and they will serve on an executive committee.

Slug Damage Warning Is Being Broadcast

Be on the look-out for slug damage on fall seeded legume crops. It has been reported that slugs are out again, and damage to crops by slugs is often noticed too late.

Metaldehyde calcium arsenate bran bait is effective in controlling slugs. The bran bait, containing 1% per cent metaldehyde and 5 per cent calcium arsenate by weight, may be broadcast at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds per acre to give good control. If the pellet form is used, four to five pounds per acre is enough bait to use. Metaldehyde calcium arsenate bran bait is sold under various trade names and can be purchased from most stores handling that type of material.
