

"Point Four" Subject of Discussion

Members of the Salem Woman's club, meeting Friday afternoon, heard a panel discussion of President Truman's "point four," which advocates economic investments to develop the backward areas of the world. It was directed by Mrs. Curtis Hale and participated in by Miss Mirphah Blair, Miss Ida Mae Smith, Mrs. P. L. Calvert, Mrs. P. T. Bouffleur and Mrs. Albert Grass.

Dr. Seth Huntington brought a Lenten message on World Church day.

Mrs. George Alling conducted the business meeting. A sum of $10 was voted from proceeds of a recent dance to the penny art fund, and a collection was taken to bring the sum to $17. A scholarship was established several years ago by Mrs. George Rossman, state fine arts chairman, for education of an art student at University of Oregon. This fund will be added to the scholarship.

Mrs. Ross Coppock, Mrs. William F. Fargo and Mrs. Mina Olmstead were hostesses.

Mrs. Charles A. Cole and Mrs. J. Howard Shubert were appointed to arrange for the yearbook to be entered in the state competition at the convention in Portland in April.

Mrs. F. H. Thompson decorated the tea table which was covered with a hand-woven cloth of lace, and centered with an arrangement of begonia leaves and artificial cherries with red candles. Miss Ida Mae Smith and Mrs. Albert J. Walker poured.

Mrs. Donald Madison and Mrs. Austin Wilson were co-chairmen of the tea committee, assisted by Mrs. Vern Ostrander, Mrs. Claud Murphy, Mrs. Paul Griebnow, Mrs. Curtis Hale and Mrs. Howard Shubert.

District Deputy Visits Corvallis

Mrs. Earl Burk, district deputy grand chief of district 2 of the Pythian Sisters lodge, made her official visit to the Pythian Sisters in Corvallis Wednesday evening. She was accompanied by Mrs. Vernon Decatur, Mrs. Robert Forster, Mrs. E. Solie and Mrs. W. J. Peck.

The grand chief of Oregon, Mrs. Margaret Myers of St. Helens, also made her official visit and will be in Salem to make her official visit at Centralia Temple Wednesday evening with a no-host dinner at 6:30. All Pythian Sisters are invited to attend.

Miss Patricia Skaggs, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Helen Skaggs and granddaughter of Mrs. Edna Eason, whose engagement to Emil Veer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Veer, has been announced. No date has been set for the wedding. (Jesten-Miller).

Home Nuptials Solemnized

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy P. Nelson on Brown road, Dallas, was the scene of a pretty afternoon wedding on Saturday when their daughter, Miss Ruthanne Nelson, became the bride of Richard Whiteley, son of Mrs. Joseph W. Chambers of Salem.

Dr. Earl D. Benbow of the Dallas Presbyterian church performed the 3 o'clock rites. Miss Donna Whiteley, the groom's sister, sang and Franklin Combs played the wedding music. The couple exchanged their vows before a setting of spring blooms, ivy and tall white tapers.

Mr. Nelson gave his daughter in marriage and for her wedding she chose a navy blue wool suit with navy straw hat and navy and white accessories. She carried a nosegay of pink orchids.

Miss Luella Nelson was her sister's honor maid and wore a brown check suit with brown and white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Norman Lindberg of Corvallis stood with the groom as best man.

A reception followed the nuptials. Miss Joan Owen and Miss Virginia Holmes presided at the coffee urn and Mrs. C. T. Smith cut the bride's cake.

After a short wedding trip the

Mrs. Foulger Wins Tourney

Orville Rehfield and family, Francis Rehfield, Lawrence Rehfield and Miss Anna Klampe, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rehfield.

Capital City Dental Assistants society will hold its monthly dinner meeting on Tuesday at the Golden Pheasant at 6:30 o'clock. Howard Piper of the Marion county health department will show films on the technique of brushing teeth.

Mrs. Charles F. Foulger won the second annual individual championship of the Salem Elks Bridge club at the double session tournament this week. The winner, who will receive a trophy at the next session, has a margin of eleven points over Mrs. John Pugh of Shedd, who finished second.

Three players were within one point of each other in the race for third position with Mrs. Edward E. Roth coming out ahead and William F. Leary and Elmer Berg tieing for fourth. Individual session top scores were made by Mrs. Roth and Mrs. Milton D. Parker, who receive extra rating points.

Thirty-two players took part in the annual competition. Next main event is the monthly master point next Wednesday, March 1, at the Elks club.
