

Church Rites Event of Saturday

At a one-thirty o'clock ceremony on Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church Miss Jean Elizabeth Domogalla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Domogalla, became the bride of William J. Wayt, son of William H. Wayt of Los Angeles and Mrs. Lloyd Stapleton of Portland. Dr. Chester W. Hamblin performed the nuptials before a setting of yellow snapdragons and fern. Mrs. Ralph Dobbs was the organist.

Mr. Domogalla gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a smart navy blue suit with full skirt and fitted jacket designed with a poplin. Her navy hat was adorned with a yellow feather and her accessories were navy and canary yellow. Pinned to her suit was a white orchid with a yellow throat.

Mrs. C. Robert Suing was her sister's matron of honor and she wore a brown and white check jacket with brown pencil slim skirt. Her accessories were brown and winter white. Mrs. Gordon Roth of Bremerton was the maid and wore a burgundy suit with matching accessories. They both had corsages of white carnations.

Robert R. Reischman was best man and C. Robert Suing the groomsmen.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Domogalla chose a navy two-piece suit with red accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Stapleton attended her son's marriage in a green crepe gown with black accessories and a corsage of carnations.

A reception for members of the bridal party and the immediate family was held at the C. Robert Suing home. After a wedding trip along the coast the couple will be at home in Salem.

Don't Look Now...

but... this is the time of year and sort of weather when we would appreciate being a garden editor. Certainly there should be no lack of material or inspiration.

Difficult decision... There's one real trouble though, if you buy plants and shrubs you can't buy clothes, and my! how good spring air does whip up an appetite for a spring hat and a new coat!

Another sign of spring... Unfortunately, we may now expect to hear "Easter Parade" and "Spring Is Bursting Out All Over" at least once on every radio program.

Long walk... Don't think we are criticizing, we only want to ask. Why is it always the persons who want to sit away down front at the concert, who come in after the program has started? Some of the many late comers to the high school band and orchestra program this week, must have been pretty tired walking so far -- and in the dark too. One group of four, came in late and left early. Guess they were just awfully busy. . . . Maxine Buren

Fiery Cat Sets Barn Ablaze

COATSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 25—(AP)—A cat caught fire, ran like mad and almost burned down a barn.

Both the cat and the barn belonged to Walter S. Denlinger of nearby Gap, Pa. Delinger said his cat was lying too near the fireplace in a washhouse when the fire was started. His fur began to blaze.

The cat ran for the barn and into the haymow.

A bucket brigade finally put out the fire on the cat, in the hay and in the barn.

Holiday Relaxation Excludes Letting Up of Care of Appearance

By Max Factor, Jr. International News Service
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25—(INS)—There are those women who, when they are in a locale entirely different from home seem inclined to let their appearance go, and dispense with grooming niceties.

This letting down is often to be observed in the case of those who have gone off for a week or so of snow sports in the winter, or, perhaps more frequently and obviously, during summer vacations at the beach or mountains.

While it is true that some vacation scenes require no great amount of grooming in themselves, the vacationer should not ignore the point that here are many instances in which the degree of vacation time freedom from grooming requirement is misjudged, and that it is much better to be well groomed and safe than insufficiently groomed and sorry.

Damaging Results
It should also be recognized that overdoing of the matter of relaxation from grooming requirements during the more informal vacation months can lead to glamour-damaging results long after the vacation is over.

For example, the careless attitude toward one's appearance which is so easily acquired during a vacation is sometimes very difficult to rid oneself of later, for carelessness in any field can be an insidiously pernicious thing. So, in this case, the best safeguard is not to become too careless about your appearance at any time.

Another phase of this vacation situation which must be considered is that many of these weeks of freedom from more regular living routine involve much outdoor activity which can seriously and sometimes permanently injure the complexion of the hair.

Sun and wind can roughen and toughen the skin, and fade the hair and make it dry and brittle. These unattractive features can be evident long after your vacation is over. So the smart thing to do is to take steps to prevent their becoming too greatly evident during the vacation.

Judge Orders $2 Million Hotel In Los Angeles Moved, Razed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25—(AP)—An irate judge, who made a personal survey of a new hotel's type of patronage Friday, ordered the $2,000,000 structure torn down or moved. One of its owners promptly charged anti-semitism.

The judge said the hotel has the appearance of a "glorified quickie motel."

He added: "It looked like it never was intended to be a permanent hotel, only a place for an hour or two, and not to sleep, either."

The three-story hotel is the Country Club Villa. It borders the Wilshire Country club, and is across the street from an apartment house owned by Mae West.

Multiple Charges
Its owners are two brothers, Maurice and Zimmel Miller. They were charged by the city with building without a permit, in violation of municipal codes; failing to obtain a certificate of occupancy; maintaining a public nuisance; and operating a cafe, night club, bar and swimming pool in violation of zoning ordinances.

Municipal Judge Vernon Hunt sentenced the Millers to serve 30 days in jail.

Maurice Miller, addressing the court, said: "This hotel is an asset to Los Angeles. It was put up by sweat and toil. We were in financial jeopardy from the start. We got in a whirlpool and couldn't get out. There are hundreds of thousands of dollars of other people's money involved."

J. B. Mosser, the Millers' attorney, commented that the judge's order is "impossible of fulfillment because the property is heavily mortgaged and belongs to a corporation and not to the Millers personally to do with as they see fit."

Fines Levied
Judge Hunt also fined the corporation $500, Maurice Miller $1,500 and Zimmel Miller $2,000. The owners, pleading they had sunk their fortunes and those of relatives in the venture, announced they will appeal.

Said Zimmel Miller: "My brother served three and one-half years in the army and I the same amount of time in the coast guard, and we returned to run into the worst anti-semitic condition in the United States." He said he had no other statement to make.

The judge said he slipped into the hotel shortly after midnight last Friday, and:

"I saw women coming and going unescorted and wondered if they were call girls. The hotel looks like, and I'm not sure it is not, a series of stalls built for the use of prostitutes, and carousing drunks from the hotel saloon."

Outside Corridors
The structure is built with outside corridors, running around its two sides, and entrances to the rooms from the corridors.

Continued the judge: "I saw men and women coming into rooms off the corridor drunk and no one trying to stop them. I saw two women drunk, screaming and fighting with each other because one was trying to keep the other from plunging into the hotel swimming pool."

The hostelry has been popular with tourists and Hollywood folks since its opening several months ago with a lavish premiere. But city officials said many complaints have been made that the establishment disturbs the neighborhood with loud noise in the late hours.

One-fifth of the traffic accidents in the U.S. in 1947 involved children.

New Pontiac 1950 Catalina Set for Display

PONTIAC, Mich., Feb. 25—The Pontiac "Catalina" models — declared to be the most eye-catching motorcars ever built — go on display Monday at Pontiac dealers, including the Herrall - Owens company at Salem, Ore.

Production of the Catalina is well underway and they will be available soon everywhere, according to Harry J. Klingler, general manager of Pontiac Motor division. Two models, super deluxe and deluxe, are available, Klingler said. They differ in color choice and in interior treatment.

"A true showpiece of motorcar design, the low, sleek silhouette of the Catalina roof conception is carried to completion in the rounded and arched rear window, providing an ultra-modern appearance with maximum vision, and swanky charm is emphasized when the center pillars vanish as the windows are lowered," Klingler declared.

When Cadillac says New...
...it's News!

WHEN Cadillac announces that basic changes have been made in its design, it means the Standard of the World has once again been raised.

And that, of course, is news of the first magnitude.

This year, the number of Cadillac changes is far, far greater than is normally announced.

There is, of course, glamorous new beauty. All the bodies have been completely restyled and redesigned and are simply gorgeous in their line and contour.

The great new Cadillac high-compression engine has undergone a host of refinements which enhance every phase of its performance.

Road balance and handling ease are remarkably improved. Steering is easier; braking is softer; and the car's stability on turns and curves is phenomenal. Almost all the effort has been taken out of driving.

Yes—this is a Cadillac "vintage" year—when its engineering and designing and manufacturing have all produced at their superlative best.

Better come in—and come up... to Cadillac.
