Getting Things Shaped Up for District Tournament Starters Here Monday

Baum seriously lectures two of his charges, Capt. Jack Kelln (13) and Len McCreary (20), regular guard and forward.

Silverfon's Silver Foxes, although not favored to win many of the tourney games, open Monday night with Sacred Heart at 7 o'clock. The Foxes finished in the second division of the WVL derby for 1950 but are capable of tallying an unexpected upset at any time. In the above photo Coach Gene Barrett of the Preps goes over some last-minute instructions for three of his star pupils; Ken Payseno, Francia Donley and Norb Weiman (left to right). Mt. Angel won the 1950 Willamette Valley league title.

The Portland Beaver signing of Dick Walbel, U of Oregon fresh-man pitcher last season, seems to have caused its share of furore around the "U", and is possibly the reason why the Webfoots refused to schedule a single spring training camp exhibition tilt with the Playoff Tilts town Senators this year. Usually

Don Kirsch's Oregons, not unlike Ralph Coleman's Oregon Staters, try to get as much competition as possible with the Senators, as such scrimmages are welcome tonic to the collegians. Kirsch is by now no doubt rather miffed at the Portland-Salem pro family, as it has raided the Webfoot Bastille before. Bill Burgher, Dick Bartle and Hal Zurcher have been taken from the Ducks, and now Waibel who is practically a cinch to wind up in ator spankles this season. A few ago Seattle speared Hal Saltzman from the same Webfoots. Of course there is no rule in organized baseball that says a profes-

There'll Never Be One Who'll Try Harder

Speaking of pitchers, the Senators' win column for 1950 per-haps will not miss Linfield Gene Peterson at all now that he's decided to hang 'em up professionally. But never can it be said that any Salem team ever had, or ever will have for that matter, any player who will try any harder to win than did Pete. His ammunition might have been short, but he never once let up firing it full blast during the campaigns he had with the townles... He hasn't yet taken the oath or had his first voyage on a battle but don't be surprised if Salem high's Jim Rock winds up in the US Naval Academy at Annapolis. Any college on the Coast would welcome the big Viking fullback, and spokesmen for some have openly admitted same. But it will be sad news for them to know that Jim recently took a short vacation, during which he buzzed personally with Eddie Erdelatz the new Navy football coach.

As for Rock's scholastic ability, in conjunction with Annapolis, he's strictly a B-plus student at the Villa, and on top of it one of the nicest kids you'll ever meet ...

Viks Expected to Win District Romp-as Usual

District eleven's annual rassle for the state tourney ticket opens Monday night at the high school. But from the looks of the six eams entered, the conclave will merely be a case of H. Hauk and his Vikings warming up for the Eugene jaunt, It's the same every year, and the lesser lights at Silverton, Stayton, Mt. Angel, Wood-burn and Sacred Heart are sick of it. After all, who wouldn't be? Mt. Angel's Williamette Valley league champs and Sacred Heart's Marion-Polk titlists loom as the best threats to Salem supremacy, but it will be on the miraculous side if either eliminates the Vikings. Hauk has easily one of the five top prep teams in the state. Chances are the district shindig would be more even if an all-star group were selected from the other five entries to play against the Salems. But at any rate the playoffs party should be interesting, as the five visiting title-seekers will try blowing everything but their fuses to dump the favorites. Might also be the last district tourna-ment for the Vik arena for awhile, as a move definitely is on among the other schools to haul it back to Mt. Angel. Having to beat Salem bad enough, they'll tell you. Having to try it on the Vik's own floor simply too much . . .
