Rousing Richard has fallen in love with Waters field, it seems, and believes he could whack 50 homers here if he had a full season at it. he had when he addressed our Salem Breakfast clubbers last fall. During a banquet the other night at Spokane he was telling of the 1949 Notre Dame-Michigan State game and how he had been confronted afterward in the dressing room by some of the MSC players. One player had a big gash in his thigh and another teeth marks on his leg. "Hey coach," blurted one, "can't we play Notre Dame on Friday next year?" To which Evashevski replied with a smile, "We'll do better than that. We'll arrange to play their Protestant team."

Gonzaga's Evans Buttoned Up Things Properly

Rich (Mr. Points) Evans, Gonzaga's hoop sharpshooter who bucketed 489 points this season put a fitting climax to his col-legiate career in the NAIB tourney at Tacoma the other night. His last cast at the basket went in just before the final buzzer. Then in a bit of horseplay after it was all over, Evans flipped the sphere recklessly toward the iron ring again, from about 30 feet out. Darned if it didn't go in too. Evans' final game was the first we had seen him play all season, but from the exhibi-tion he gave in it he could play on anybody's college quint. He's sharp in all departments, not merely making points . . . Which brings us to our annual daze — selecting the state basket-ball tourney winner. Usually we spring merely the overall champ.

That is, the champ until the tournament is finished. This time we're unbuttoning our shirt for a real whirl at it. We'll pick the winners of all games in the championship bracket. But please don't bet on 'em, unless you're as ticky-tock as we are: First round: Corvallis over Milwaukie, Marshfield over Hillsboro, Jefferson over Dalias, Salem over Scappoose, Mac Hi over Seaside, Grants Pass over Bend, Roosevelt over La Grande and Central Catholic over Eugene. Quarterfinals: Marshfield over Corvallis, Salem over Jefferson, Grants Pass over Mac Hi and Roosevelt over Central Catholic. Semifinals: Marshfield over Salem and Grants Pass over Roosevelt. Finals: Grants Pass over Marshfield. If we're wrong, sue us.

Any way you look at it, H. Hauk and his Vikings have their work cut out for them after their opening rassle with Scappoose. And if said Viks don't snap out of the slump they were in their last two district tussles, they may make a liar out of us even in the first

'Baldi, Prairie City Consolation Victors

ASTORIA, Ore., March 11-(AP) Southern Oregon's Rogue River team captured the Oregon high school class B basketball championship tonight by defeating Alsea, 38 to 34.

The victors had to fight off a rallying underdog team to win. Rogue River led 25-13 at the halftime but was losing ground fast as the play headed into the final Earlier, Garibaldi took third place, defeating Drain, 48 to 41.

Prairie City won fifth place in the tourney by overcoming Monmouth, 62-45, in an afternoon game. Larry Pryse led the scoring with 26 points, followed closely by Earl Winebarger, with 20.

Prarie City took the lead at the outset, and was never headed. They staged a high-scoring third quarter to extend their lead from the 28-23 halftime to 47-34. Mel Lytle led Monmouth with 12.

that added 13 points. Rogue River's big boys - six ooters-were sharing the scoring effort while Alsea's assault was a two-gun affair with Loren Sapp firing 15 points and Delmar Stone scoring 14 points. By contrast, the victor's scoring honors were shared by Harry Frantz and Don Poitevint who each racked in but 7 points. Gene and Glen de Puy accounted for 5 apiece.

The Alsea challenge came in the fourth quarter when a lone one hander by Sapp and a layin by Stone closed the gap to two points, 36-34. But Coach Millard Webb's Rogue River squad managed to cripple the drive right there and after racking in two more points the gun saved the victory.

Close Victory Gives Ukes K-City Berth

LOS ANGELES, March 11-(P)The UCLA Bruins won the Pacific Coast Conference Basketball championship tonight with a harrowing 52 to 49 triumph over the Washington State Cougars.
Both clubs played it close to the

It was the Bruins' first coast championship. It also marked the first time a Southern division quintet has won the title since California beat Idaho in the play-offs in 1946.

The contest bore a decided con-trast to last night's in which Washington State outplayed the Bruins in the second half, only to lose in the last three seconds. This time, the two clubs were pretty

The Balding, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., professional, last year's "golfer of the year" and current leading money winner this year, was 14 strokes under par at the three-quarters mark in the 72-hole medal play tournament.

The score was tied at 31-all at the end of the first half, but after the intermission UCLA pulled ahead by two points when Alan Sawyer tipped in the rebound on Carl Kraushaar's free toss. The Bruins held the advantage almost the three-quarters mark in the 72-hole medal play tournament. Washington State tied it up again after about four minutes of the second half when Forward Ed Gayda eased one through the hoop from close range. A moment later, Gene Conley, the Cougar's bean pole center, potted a gift throw to put the northerners ahead, 37 to 36.
