

Old Building to Make Way for Parking Lot

This entire corner, until recently a service station and allied shops, is expected to be part of a parking lot to be established by the Hawkins and Roberts firm, which has a ground lease. The corner lot, at High and Ferry streets, is now being used as parking for Marion hotel.

Only the skeleton remains of the old Cherry City Feed barn in the 500 block of Ferry street, as wreckers dismantle the old relic of days when the horse was sketches and other art works now on display in it upwards of 200 horses were housed and fed. In recent years the barn was used as a car storage garage and repair shop. The property is leased by Hawkins and Roberts Co. (Statesman photo).

Salem High Debaters Win At Corvallis

It was victory again for the Salem high debate squad Saturday when they won, for the fifth consecutive time, the annual Mid-Willamette valley district "A" division debate tournament. The Salem high speakers, coached by Miss Amanda J. Anderson, won five out of six rounds of debate at the contest held in Corvallis on the OSC campus. The team, composed of Frank Vitaris, Louise Matter, Gilbert Bateson and Eunice Peckenpaugh is now eligible to compete in the state contest in Eugene March 31 and April 1. Second place in district went to Dallas which won four out of six rounds. Other schools competing were Albany and Independence. In the individual event district tournament held last week end 11 of the 16 students in this district who qualified for the state meet were from Salem high.

Operation on Heart Made Through Neck

PHILADELPHIA, March 25—(AP)—Episcopal hospital announced today three Philadelphia surgeons successfully operated on a human heart by cutting through the patient's neck, not his chest, with a brand-new, still unnamed instrument. The announcement said it was the first operation of its kind in medical history. The operation at Episcopal hospital was performed on the aortic valve, described as "the main connection" between the heart and the rest of the body. Blood leaving the heart must pass through the aortic valve in order to enter and circulate in the veins. The surgery was performed Thursday on Donald Constable, Jr., 26, of Johnstown, Pa., by three members of Episcopal's thoracic surgery department. Names of the doctors were not disclosed.

Primrose Show Due in April At Portland

By Lillie L. Madsen
Garden Editor, The Statesman
The ninth national show of the American Primrose society has been set for the Masonic Temple at Portland for Saturday and Sunday April 22 and 23. The show will be open to visitors 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, April 22 and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on the second day of the show. The usual competitive classes are listed for this show and the public is invited to enter exhibits. Special awards and trophies will be given as well as show ribbons to those entries which are winners. Entries will be received from 1 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 21. The society is hoping for a large public participation in its competitive classes this year. Mrs. M. A. Lawrence, general chairman states. Mrs. Carroll S. Higgins is society president and Mrs. Earl A. Marshall is the secretary-treasurer for the American Primrose society.

Commercial Exhibits
Besides the amateur competition, there will be exhibits by commercial growers. Growers may sell and deliver plants from their commercial displays or seedlings beginning at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, April 23, one-half hour after the close of the show. This interval is to allow amateurs and all other exhibitors time to remove their entries before the plant sale begins. Besides the regular commercial growers' exhibits there are two classes in which they may exhibit. In Division I, that of rarities and oddities, both amateurs and professionals may exhibit. This is also true of Division II, that of seedlings. In the former division, plants still considered rare include P. Sibthorpii, doubles and novelties in gold and silver laces, Pantalons, Jacks-in-the-green, Galligaskins, unclassified doubles, double polyanthus, double auriculas and green-flowered primroses.

Grown from Seed
In the seedling class, plants must have been grown from seed by the exhibitor, and not previously exhibited in APS competition. Primulas of all kinds have liked the hard winter, especially the snow cover. The 1950 primula show is expected to have benefited and will offer a wider variety of primulas than ever before, Mrs. Lawrence reports. The primrose society's study group, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ben F. Smith with Mrs. John L. Karnopp as advisor, is planning a variety of public information features in addition to the usual "educational table" which has been so popular in former years. How to grow and make good use of primulas of various species and types will be told by primula fanciers who will be on duty during visitor's hours.

GOOD DEED
SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—How far can a good thing go? A couple of San Francisco Boy Scouts noticed a car parked in the same place for several days and decided their good deed for the day would be to report it to the police department. And who paid the resulting fine for overparking? Their scoutmaster.

Funeral Services Scheduled Monday for Ernest Anderson

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1:30 p. m. in the W. T. Rigdon chapel for Ernest Anderson, 76, long-time area resident, who died Saturday at his Salem home. Anderson was born at Chester, Ill., May 10, 1873 and came to Oregon in 1894. He was a barber in Salem for 25 years before starting farming in Polk county in 1919. He farmed in the Mt. View district until ill health forced his retirement four years ago. Since that time he had resided in Salem, last making his home at 995 N. Church st.

Farmer-Labor Political Meet Set Monday

A second open meeting for joint farmer-labor consideration of political interests is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at Salem Labor temple, according to F. D. Van Sweringen, chairman of the organizational committee. In addition to speakers, further organization work is expected to be accomplished. Invitations have been sent to local units of the Farmers' union and Grange in Marion and Polk counties, railroad brotherhoods and other interested groups. Speakers will include Morton Tompkins, state Grange master; Lyle Thomas, state executive secretary of Farmers' union; J. T. Marr, executive secretary of Oregon State Federation of Labor; and from the CIO either Chester Dustin, Oregon regional director, or John Brost, president of the state council. Thirty-three states have adopted official birds.

Members of YMCA Plan Athletic Show

The variety of events in which members of Salem YMCA physical department will choose their weapons and demonstrate their prowess Friday night was announced yesterday by John Kolb, chairman of the YM Sports council, which has served as program committee.

Most of the performances will be by local children and adults. But one visitor will star on a bed, the bouncing kind. He is Jack Pattison of Portland, trampoliner artist. The program will be open to the public at 8 p.m., with proceeds to aid in sending Salem boys to a junior leaders' camp at Seabeck, Wash. C. A. Page will perform with lighted Indian clubs; fencing will be exhibited by a group taught by Ardo Tarem; folk dancers instructed by Carl Greider and Mrs. Gertrude Ayres will demonstrate; the volleyball team will play a short game. For the youngsters, events will include games by the Preps and Rangers; rhythms by a tots' class and modern dance by older girls, both groups taught by Mrs. Ayres; novelty act by track and field class; gymnastics and tumbling by Junior Leaders' club and a class, including advanced gymnastics by Billy Dunsforth and Bruce Galloway; vertical relay (rope-climbing) and Taran-vaulting by Gra-Y clubs and Tri-angle class. Bill Kukahiko and Jimmy Noa have directed the boys. Even parents in the audience will be included in a novelty comedy number. Master of ceremonies for the program will be Otto Skopil.
