

Camp Fire Corner

Two new Blue Bird groups at Highland school, "Sunshine Blue Birds" from the second grade led by Mrs. J. R. Gardner and "Little Elfs" third graders led by Mrs. Harman Harvey are off to a flying start. The former made scrap books and Easter baskets from cereal boxes. They have made paper weaves, casts of handprints in plaster. Games, folk dancing, and story book reading are part of their fun.

The "Little Elfs" have been doing handicrafts, painted supply boxes and valentines. A recent project was an Easter party for their mothers and pre-school brothers and sisters.

The Aowakiya Camp Fire Girls from the sixth grade at Highland under Mrs. Hal DeSart are now working for their Wood Gathers Bank. They have been learning needle work, and at a recent meeting had a lesson in etiquette. Their latest project is learning to square dance.

Designing Woman

A CLOSET TO HELP

Designing ideas step up the good looks of home and come in especially handy at making a dollar do double duty. But how about using design ideas to help with the housekeeping? You'll see how they can if you tackle a closet design-wise. The moment a closet sprouts shelves that fit what you want to keep there it becomes a helper and time saver. It does wonders at keeping things neatly in place, compactly together and readily at hand. The broom closet, for instance, where so much room is often wasted before redesign. The big flat items, such as broom, mops and the ironing board can't use all the width and depth of the closet but shelves, and many of them, can. Make the shelves shallow enough so another tier of shelves can go on the door. Thus more supplies sit on the front line for easy reaching instead of hiding far back.

Do you know how to mix paint to get the exact color you want? Do you know how to paint furniture the easiest and best professional way? Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet SMART AS PAINT—PAINTING PROBLEMS SOLVED, tells you how. This booklet is yours for 15 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Miss Hillyer at this newspaper. (Copyright 1950 by John F. Dille Co.)

erett Smith. Plans are under way for a banquet and installation of officers in May. The auxiliary will sponsor Girl Scout troop 42 the coming year.

Deputy Sheriff Turned Farmer Challenges Morse in GOP Race

By Paul W. Harvey, Jr.
Associated Press Correspondent

A former deputy sheriff turned dairy farmer is challenging the republicanism of Senator Wayne L. Morse in this state where a democrat has not been elected to the senate since 1914.

Morse's friends say he will win renomination in the May 19 primary, but not without a fight. The senator, who has a near record according to CIO standards, has made periodic trips back home to campaign. He will return from Washington sometime early next month to rally his supporters.

All the issues that ordinarily would arise in a republican-democrat contest are being raised by his republican opposition—such as socialism, communism and government spending.

Heavy Majority

Morse is seeking a second term in November after winning the 1944 election by nearly 100,000 votes. Before going to the senate he was dean of the University of Oregon law school and public member of the National War Labor board in Washington.

His chief opponent is David I. Hoover, 52-year-old dairy farmer. A second challenger is John McBride, a Portlander who advocates "sound money" and the protective tariff. McBride, who has not yet campaigned, is a former secretary to Rep. White (D-Idaho) and one-time clerk to two house committees in Washington, where he has spent the last seven years.

Neither Well Known

Neither Hoover nor McBride is well known over the state. Hoover, who is credited with a "Will Rogers type of humor" and a good radio voice, shies away from interviews and bars questions from his audiences. He owns a farm on Deadwood creek in the mountains of Lane county, Morse's home county. He moved there 10 years ago from Los Angeles where he was a deputy sheriff.

Hoover says Morse is a bad republican and should start his own third party. He accuses Morse of being a socialist and says Oregon should elect a senator who will fight communism.

Morse, a noted horseman, is riding with the slogan "principle above politics." He denies he is a socialist and asserts he is a liberal republican trying to carry out the 1948 platform of his party.

His campaign committee describes him as an advocate of "the sane liberalism of Lincoln." It says he wants to correct social and perfect pro-administration voting economic injustice and favors more economy in government.

Hoover also has contended that Morse is too friendly with Secretary of State Dean Acheson. In a Salem speech a month ago, Morse did endorse Acheson's China and Formosa policy. But he accused Acheson of scuttling the bi-partisan foreign policy. CVA "Hot Issue"

President Truman's plan to create a Columbia Valley Authority is the northwest's hottest issue, but both Morse and Hoover are opposed to it.

The two democratic candidates out after Morse's seat are Howard F. Latourette, Portland, a former democratic national committeeman who has run for many offices without success; and Dr. Louis A. Wood, Eugene, retired university economics professor.

Three of Oregon's four congressmen, all republicans, are unopposed. The fourth, Homer D. Angell of Portland, had two little known opponents.

Governor Douglas McKay is unopposed in the republican primary. Three democrats, all Portlanders, are in the running. They are Austin F. Fiegel, a state senator and manufacturer; State Treasurer Walter J. Pearson, and Lew Wallace, former national committeeman and an insurance man.

Land Mine in Burma Kills 4

RANGOON, Burma, April 9—(P)—A land mine believed to have been intended for two Burmese ministers—Mahn Win Maung and Khin Maung Gale—blew up a truck south of Toungoo today, killing a man, two women and a child.

Reports reaching here said rebels exploded the mine by cable, apparently mistaking the truck for that being used by the two ministers. The two cabinet members had gone to Toungoo to make peace proposals to Karen rebels.

Vera Darlene Pantie will carry the colors of Woodburn high school when she competes in the contest Friday night for princess of the 1950 Salem Cherryland festival. Brunette and 18, Miss Pantie will enter with 13 other contestants at the Salem high school auditorium.

Solons to Ask Legal Limit of Debt Reduced

WASHINGTON, April 9—(P)—Accusing President Truman of following a "spend-and-borrow" fiscal policy, seven house republicans served notice today of an attempt to limit future government borrowing.

They announced in a joint statement they will introduce legislation to reduce the legal limit of the national debt from its present

The Statesman, Salem, Oregon, Monday, April 10, 1950—7

$275,000,000 to $257,000,000,000.

Such a law would force sharp revision of the budget proposed for the year beginning July 1. It contemplates red ink financing that would push the debt above the proposed limit.

With the debt at $255,622,574,315 on March 31, the seven said the treasury "will still have a margin of almost $1,500,000,000 in borrowing power to take care of unforeseen emergencies."

"At the same time the government will finally be placed on a pay-as-you-go basis," they said.
