Group Tours Through State Hospital Due

Group tours through the Oregon state hospital will be conducted Wednesday and Friday in observance of national Mental Health week.

The tours are scheduled from 10 a.m. until noon and from 2 to 4 p.m. In addition, Fairview home will be open to visitors daily from 1:30 to 4 p.m. this week.

National Mental Health week, April 23-29, will be observed in Oregon with the slogan: "You Can't Buy Mental Health — You Can Build It." Purpose of the week is to show the public that mental illness, in most cases, is both preventable and curable.

Speakers will emphasize that a home atmosphere of security and emotional stability is vital in safeguarding mental health of children and that Oregon's suicide rate, among the highest per capita in the nation, could be reduced if victims of depressive mental conditions would seek aid in available institutions.

Soviet Renews Plea for Bases In Dardanelles

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 23 —(AP)—Russia's renewed campaign for bases in the Dardanelles was viewed in Turkey's official press today as "a call to the Turkish people to be more awake and united."

Turkey's position was made clear in a front page editorial in Ulus, organ of the ruling people's party, and distributed by the official Anatolian agency, obviously reflecting the official attitude.

The editorial referred sarcastically to an article in Red Fleet, organ of the Soviet navy, which raised again Russia's old demand for joint control of the straits.

"Turkey has said her last word on this question," the editorial said. "The Monreux convention (under which Turkey controls the straits) takes particular view of Russia's security and guarantees this security."

"Turkey is a most sincere guardian of straits security because this security is at the same time the foundation of Turkey's own security and independence."

Approval of Foreign Aid Bill Predicted

By Jack Bell
 WASHINGTON, April 23 —(AP)—The administration counted heavily today on communism's new pressures to speed senate approval of a $3,732,000,000 foreign aid bill despite strong efforts to chop it.

With administration lieutenants predicting approval of the full amount, Senator Tydings (D-Md) said bluntly that the recent loss of an unarmed American plane charged to a Russian attack, spy trials behind the Iron Curtain, and "demonstrations in Berlin" have stiffened congress' attitude.

In a weekly broadcast (WBAL) to Maryland voters, Tydings said: "The effect of all these increasing incidents is not calculated to reduce expenditures for defense or for means of collateral defense, such as strengthening the defenses of certain countries and offering further resistance to communism."

He added that the joint chiefs of staff will be asked to tell congress soon whether they think the army, navy and air force should have $500,000,000 more for planes and other equipment than the January budget allowed, as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower suggested recently.

Tydings forecast "warm debate" on proposals to cut the $3,100,000,000 portion of the bill for the third year's operations of the European Recovery program.

In this connection, Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) told reporters he will offer in the senate tomorrow an amendment, rejected by the senate foreign relations committee, to cut $600,000,000 off this total.

One of the most important reasons for such a reduction is that deficit financing in our own government is on the increase, according to the latest reports," Hickenlooper said, adding: "We've just got to stop spending more than we take in."

2,000 Scouts To Participate In Circus Here

More than 2,000 Cub and Boy Scouts from every part of Marion, Polk and Linn counties will take part in the annual Cascade area council Boy Scout circus May 6 at Waters park.

Committeemen from the Salem Lions club have been preparing for several months for the event which will feature scout activities, as well as clowns, wild animals and other phases of circus atmosphere.

Proceeds from the circus will be used to rebuild portions of Camp Pioneer, Boy Scout camp in the Cascade mountains which was damaged by high mountain snows. Buildings in the camp originally were sponsored by the Lions club.

A parade at 3:45 p.m. on May 6 through downtown Salem will start the circus day festivities.

Portland Man To Sail Ketch To Australia

PORTLAND, Ore., April 23 —(AP)—Adventurous Allen Edmunds, 30-year-old cook, plans to sail alone to Australia in a 30-foot ketch. He wants to hoist sails June 1 and hopes to sight Australia 18 months afterward, maybe later.

"I don't want to feel hurried," he said. "If I see an island I like, I'll stop there. That's why I'm going alone. Anyone else would want to hurry."

His charts route him south to Los Angeles, then to Honolulu for a several month stop, then on to Tahiti. His boat, equipped with an auxiliary motor, will be loaded with 245 gallons of water, 40 cases of canned food, and other staples. He has included bolts of cloth for trading in the Pacific islands.

Edmunds has never made a long voyage before, but he is being tutored by Harold Oakes, a high school instructor who twice sailed from Honolulu to Portland in the same ketch.

Grenades Explode In Commie Meet

QUIMPER, France, April 23 —(AP)—Twenty-three persons were injured three of them seriously, last night when two grenades exploded at a communist meeting. Police said the blasts occurred when anti-communists invaded the hall.

Communist leaders were exhorting their followers to prevent the shipment of arms to French troops in Indochina for use against the Vietnam rebels.

Juvenile Delinquent Has Own Ideas on How to Curb Crime

By John H. White
 Staff Writer, The Statesman

Superintendent James Lamb of Woodburn Boys school recently revealed that enrollment at his institution had reached an all-time high.

More than 190 boys are confined, for nearly every type of crime. This juvenile delinquency problem was hashed over recently in a PTA meeting, with representatives, Boy and Girl Scout leaders, 4-H club leaders and others who work with young people.

"There is a lack of trained personnel to guide youth," they decided.

Last week R. L. Murphy, new chief of the Portland FBI district, told Salem Chamber of Commerce that "home and environment are mainly responsible for the making of criminals."

City police officers recently returned from statewide conferences on juvenile delinquency problems, looking in.

These efforts analyze juvenile delinquency from the outside looking in. However, there is no one who realizes the problems of juvenile delinquency quite like the delinquent himself.

His outlook was obtained recently in a talk with a 20-year-old youth who is serving a term in Marion county jail on a bad check charge. For reference, call him "Bill."

Picked Up for Burglary
 Bill was picked up for burglary when he was 9 years old, in the south. His FBI record discloses sentences in training schools and prisons in many states from Georgia to Oregon.

"The trouble starts with comic books, movies, parents, bad company and with publicity by newspapers that spread crime all over page one and radio stations with crime programs," Bill said. "You can learn a lot when you're right in there with them in jail that you'd never get any other way," he said.

"Take the movies," Bill pointed out. "You watch the criminal live high until he's caught. Then they usually imply he made 'only one little slip.'"

"You figure you won't make that one little slip. You see how they lived before they got it. You try it yourself," he continued.

"And you end up making a slip yourself—usually a different one, but it always gets you."

Bill next hit the parents. "Some of them figure ways to cheat on income tax. You get the idea that it's all right to cheat and try it a different way. And you pay for it."

Bill also thinks too many kids "have things handed to them on a silver platter."

"They ought to get out and work for everything because when that allowance stops, you'll try to get it the easy way."

He also blamed the educational system for not teaching trades, "something you can make a living at."

Delinquents to Criminals
 And how do they turn from juvenile delinquents into criminals? Bill has an idea on that one, too.

"Training schools should separate every age group. A tough kid 13 years old gets in with someone 17 and follows him around like a puppy. He gets bigger and better ideas. It's a hero worship process. When he leaves, he has new angles."

How about the training school program aimed to give youth a chance to choose his trade?

"Too many schools shove a trade down your throat."

New Idea Advanced
 Bill also advanced a rather revolutionary idea.

"Why not let ex-convicts, those who really have proved they are going straight, help in running boys' schools," he suggested.

"To heck with their records—they're there to help the kids, not to impress them with their education. They'll know the ropes because they've been inside them. And they'll know the types they'll be dealing with."

"And if he's a loser who has learned something by it, maybe he can show them that they'll always end up losing," he added.

cases of canned food, and other staples. He has included bolts of cloth for trading in the Pacific islands. Edmunds has never made a long voyage before, but he is being tutored by Harold Oakes, a high school instructor who twice sailed from Honolulu to Portland in the same ketch.
