More Than 250 Dancers Turn Armory Into a 'United Nations' At Gate Swingers Annual Fete

More than 250 dancers from 15 clubs in western Oregon turned the Salem armory into a "United Nations" Sunday afternoon as they enjoyed dances of nearly every part of the world.

The occasion was the second annual Cherry Blossom Folk Re-creational festival sponsored by the Salem Gate Swingers as the final event on the 1949-50 social calendar.

Between 450 and 500 spectators filled a majority of seats in the armory balcony to watch brightly costumed European, American and Latin American variations of folk-dancing.

The four-hour program opened with Mrs. E. Donald Jessop of Salem singing "America the Beautiful" and with a welcome to visiting dancers by Neil Brown, president of the Salem club, who said:

"It's this type of event that helps fill leisure hours, builds a friendly spirit among communities of Oregon and helps create better understanding of customs in foreign countries." Along with the fast-moving foreign dances, the festival featured old-fashioned American squares and exhibitions by the ONO and ONT clubs of Portland, the International Folk Dancers, Inc., of Portland and the Oregon State college physical education department.

Alice Ward, instructor of the Salem club, circulated among dancers throughout the afternoon, instructing novices in steps of dances which were new to them. Clubs from Salem, Scio, Portland, Ashland, Eugene, Dallas, Taft, McMinnville and Silverton were represented at the festival.

High Speed at Night Cited as Bad Practice

Any vehicle traveling more than 50 miles an hour at night is a menace to highway safety, the state traffic safety division declared Sunday.

Officials gave an example. "At night a driver cannot clearly see an object or danger situation at more than 200 feet. A reasonably quick driver, traveling 50 miles an hour, requires 186 feet to stop, if his auto has good brakes," they said.

The traffic division pointed out that 37 per cent of Oregon's traffic deaths last year were charged to excessive speed. "Slow down and save a life," they warned.

Old Torpedo Fatal to Eight

HIROSHIMA, Japan, May 7-(AP)—A Japanese diver found an old torpedo offshore and decided it might be worth salvaging for its materials. He struck it with his hammer yesterday. The resulting explosion killed the diver, Keichi Otani, 48, and seven other persons.

Mrs. M. Jory Dies; Rites at 2 Wednesday

Mrs. Mary M. Jory, a Salem resident more than 45 years, died Sunday at her home at 1665 S. Capitol st. after a 14-year illness. She observed her 74th birthday last Friday.

Mary France was born May 5, 1876, in Vernon county in Missouri and came to Oregon in 1904. She was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Survivors include her widower, Earl H. Jory, Salem; a daughter, Mrs. Florence K. Baer, Portland; two sons, Wilbur K. Jory, Salem, and Eldon E. Jory, Highgrove, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Donall, Salem; a brother, Wilbur K. France, Petersburg, Alaska; a niece in Portland and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the V. T. Golden chapel. Dr. Chester W. Hamblin will officiate with interment in Belcrest Memorial park.

J. S. Jones, 59, Fruit Grower, Dies in Hospital

James Sydney Jones, 59, Salem area fruit grower, died Sunday at a local hospital. He had been ill about a year.

Jones was born July 13, 1890, at Wythville, Va., and came to Salem in 1925. He lived recently at 4120 Jones rd. and was a member of the Baptist church and the Masonic lodge, both in Virginia.

In 1914 Jones was married at Chilhowie, Va., to Lilly Davis, who survives in Salem. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Ruby Cogswell, Seattle; a son, Elbert E. Jones, Salem; two sisters, Mrs. Bessie Windle and Mrs. Katherine Mink, both in Virginia; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be arranged by the V. T. Golden chapel.

Boy Recovers Memory -- He's To Go South

A 16-year-old boy, who told officers he had lost his memory, regained it Sunday morning with a little prodding from state hospital attendants here.

The boy identified himself to Marion county sheriff officers as Clive Cunningham, who had disappeared from his San Francisco, Calif., home. He had been picked up in Corvallis Friday and had told officers he could remember nothing prior to last Wednesday.

Sheriff C. N. Lilly of Benton county, who brought the lad to the state hospital here Saturday, has returned him to Corvallis. Sheriff Lilly said he would contact the boy's parents in California for return.

Linn Project Bids Largest For Northwest

The largest engineering project in the northwest on which bids were entered during April was at Lookout Point dam on the middle fork of the Willamette river in Linn county.

This was revealed Sunday by Pacific Builder and Engineer, construction trade journal in Seattle, which also pointed out that April engineering projects in the northwest totaled $32,363,184, more than double March's total.

Apparent low bidder for completion of an earth embankment structure and for construction of a concrete spillway at Lookout Point was the Morrison, Knudsen, company, inc., of Boise, Idaho, on a $18,699,531 bid, the magazine reported.

Willamette Alumni Meet Wednesday At Lusanne Hall

Spring meeting of Salem Alumni association of Willamette university has been called for Wednesday by Ervin Potter, president. The dinner meeting will begin at 6 p. m. at Lusanne hall.

A report will be made by the nominating committee, Lelia Johnson, Dr. Charles Carey and Mrs. Ollie Williams.

Guests will include Coach Chester Stackhouse, Dr. G. Herbert Smith, president of Willamette, and Travis Cross, director of information and alumni affairs. The program will be brief.

Mice Causing Considerable Root Damage

By Lillie L. Madsen
Farm Editor, The Statesman

Root damage from field mice is being reported as quite extensive this spring.

Heavier damage than usual is laid to the snow covering during the winter. Mice have made runs beneath many rows of strawberries and cane fruit, particularly beneath cane fruit, where extensive mulching has been practiced. Roots suffer considerable damage when the row is used for one or more mouse tunnels, growers report.

Not only do the mice eat off many of the roots but they leave air pockets which in themselves dry out the roots.

John Inskip, county agent in Clackamas county, said this week that tons of grey squirrel poison had been distributed each year and that grey diggers have been greatly lessened in recent years. But while all the attention, Inskip pointed out, has been turned on the diggers, field mice and moles have been increasing in berry and grassland acreages.

Inskip reported further that many farmers in his area have had excellent results in ridding fields of mice by using poisoned grain obtained from the county extension office. Tin cans are being used, turned upside down over the grain, particularly where the runs are found, to prevent birds from obtaining the poison and to protect the poison from rainfall.
