

Y Camp Notes Heavy Signup Of Boys 9 to 11

Record enrollment by 9-11-year-old boys for the 1950 outing at Salem YMCA's Camp Silver Creek has caused units to be set aside for them during older boys' camps, Roth Holtz, camp director, announced Friday. Already 445 have signed up, compared to last year's attendance of 384.

Preparation of the camp, 30 miles east of Salem, for its annual invasion will continue this week and as about a dozen members of Salem Y's Men's club, and their families, go to the camp for a work session. Projects include a new telephone line from the camp to the highway, trail clearing and floor finishing.

To Open June 25
YM-sponsored camping periods will open June 25. Already full are the June 25-July and the July 2-15 sessions for younger boys. The July 16-22 intermediate camp is also at capacity, including the Hillside unit set aside for 33 younger boys whose program will be separate.

Holtz pointed out a few openings for 11-14-year-olds in the July 16-22 camp. For younger boys, however, the only chances are for one week at a time between July 23 and August 5. That is an older-intermediate camp, but Hemlock unit is being set aside for the younger group.

Olympic Games
The older camps again will have Skyline trail hikes, the popular Olympic games and other special projects and sports.

A new feature this year at camp will be two days each period of field work directed by the state game commission, especially for wildlife conservation. Austin F. Hamer, Portland, commission education agent, will lead illustrated discussions on wildlife identification, habits, conservation, sportsmanship, safety in the woods and with firearms. He also will lead field trips to observe animals, birds and fish.

Additional leaders for the program include Gordon Stewart, University of Michigan graduate this year; Chester Goodman, Canby teacher and former YM camp director; Bob Goff and Clarence Edwards, Corvallis, all unit directors. Goodman will double as song leader.

Holtz said Mary Zehner of Silverton and Mrs. James Oliver of Salem will be camp cooks.

O & C Calls for Timber Sale Suggestions

Timber purchasers Saturday were reminded that it is time to submit suggestions for tracts of O & C lands and public domain timber to be offered for sale by the bureau of land management.

Daniel L. Goldy, regional administrator of the bureau, said this started preparations for the second annual timber sale program to be established by the bureau. Under this program the amount and location of timber to be sold is worked out in advance.

"Advance planning of our timber sales program thus far has proved very successful," Goldy said. "During 1950 the bureau is offering 497 million board feet under this program."

Building Designed Solely for Law Occupied

Attorney Firm Opens Office in New Building

Salem's first office building specifically for law practice has just been occupied by the firm of Donald A. Young and Robert DeArmond. The quarters, in the 600 block of Court street, are highly different in accommodations and decoration.

Also doing business there is Young's Capital Securities company, operated by his son, Donald V. Young, and handling real property loans.

The one-story structure houses the attorney's private offices, a board conference room, file room, library and lounges. All pictures are originals, many by Salem artists, with specially-made frames. Two murals symbolizing principles of law were done by Clifford Gleason.

Young, who has been practicing in Salem more than 20 years, has in his office two 16th century Dutch tobacco jars, which came the design for wallpaper in the room, hand-painted by Mrs. Lila Kay of Portland.

DeArmond, a Willamette law school graduate, has practiced here since World War II.

Artist to Sponsor Public Poll On Plan for New 50-Star Flag

A majority of our most popular American symbols owe their origin to cartoonists. Uncle Sam, Columbia, the Democratic rooster and Democratic monkey, the Republican eagle and Republican elephant, and even Santa Claus as he appears today, sprang from the pens of artists for the press.

The classic "Spirit of '76" has its first publication as a newspaper cartoon design. The "Join or Die" cartoon of Benjamin Franklin inspired the design of an early banner of the united colonies. Cartoonists and other artists were influential in effecting acceptance of the Stars and Stripes as the national flag.

Therefore it is appropriate for newspaper cartoonists to express views regarding the redesigning of the flag when two new stars may be added, to represent Alaska and Hawaii.

Next Thursday in a series of daily articles, Alex Raymond, president of the National Cartoonists' society, and creator of "Rip Kirby," the popular daily strip in The Oregon Statesman, will discuss the origins of our present flag and possible new designs for it. Mr. Raymond is a veteran of World War II who served under the present flag in the marine corps.

After you have seen each of the suggested designs presented by Mr. Raymond, you are invited to vote in a national ballot on the new flag being conducted by this newspaper in co-operation with other newspapers from coast to coast.

Keith Powell on Top Committee Of Loan League

Keith Powell, president of the Salem Federal Savings and Loan association, has received word of his appointment to the trends and economic policies committee of the United States Savings and Loan league, a 58-year old, nationwide trade organization of the savings association business.

The committee on trends and economic policies is declared to be one of the most significant committees of the league, especially at a time when there is a diversity of opinion among forecasters and observers as to future trends, up or down, of the business cycle. The members, who come from practically every state of the Union, will have the professional counsel of Dr. Arthur M. Weimer, dean of the school of business of Indiana university and economist for the league. They will emphasize studies of local real estate markets.

The court order, signed by Judge Rex Kimmell, noted that no one had appeared at a hearing to object to the district attorney's request. The order said it appeared that all machines were gambling devices and were used in the commission of crime.

GOP Senators To Discuss Red Inquiry

WASHINGTON, June 3-(P)-Republican Senator Thye, declaring the communists - in - government row is "destroying the government," today proposed a conference of all GOP senators to thresh out a "responsible" party position on the issue.

Senator Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the republican conference, said in reply to questions about the suggestion that he would be glad to call such a meeting if he gets a formal request. Thye of Minnesota indicated he will submit one.

Millikin noted, however, that the senate republican policy committee had debated the matter and decided against taking a stand regarding the charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) that there are a lot of communists and fellow travelers in the state department.

They joined six other republican senators two days ago in issuing a declaration of conscience which assailed "certain elements" of their party for "selfish political exploitation of fear, bigotry, ignorance and intolerance."

Mad McCarthy in Mine
Drafted by Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the declaration did not call McCarthy by name. It was clear, however, that the seven republicans had him in mind. The group also sharply criticized the role of the Truman administration in the senate investigation of McCarthy's accusations.

Discussing the situation with newsmen today, Thye also suggested that President Truman call McCarthy and members of the senate inquiry committee to the White House. Others in the government concerned with the matter also should be summoned, Thye added.

"He (Mr. Truman) should place them all on their honor and have an understanding that there would be no leaks of confidential information," Thye declared. "Then he should lay open the files so they can get to the bottom of this situation."

Keeps "Raw" Files Closed
The president has opened to senate investigators the state department loyalty files on 81 persons accused by McCarthy. But he has rejected McCarthy's demand that the FBI so-called "raw" files also be made available, on the ground it would cripple the FBI, wreck the federal loyalty program, and smear innocent people.

Thye said he did not mean to suggest that McCarthy has done the country a disservice. "In fact, I believe he has done this country a service by pinpointing a situation which has led many Americans to lose confidence in the loyalty of some government employees. It is his method to which I object."

McCarthy Cynical
Commenting on Thye's suggestions, McCarthy said in a statement: "I am encouraged by the fact that after four months of complete lack of help on his part in the fight to expose communists in the government, Senator Thye finally shows some interest."

"Yesterday I was sorried by the indication that he had joined with his democratic colleague from Minnesota, Senator Humphrey, in a bi-partisan move to protect the communists and perverts in the state department."

"Today, however, his new and heretofore unthought-of suggestion that all the files be opened indicates deep thought and study on the subject."

In another development, McCarthy fired a new blast at the democratic-controlled senate foreign relations subcommittee which is investigating his charges.

In a letter to Senator Tydings (D-Md.), the chairman, McCarthy said: "witnesses he had suggested to the inquiry group had been 'heckled and badgered by your whitewash brigade.'"

McCarthy added that unless the situation changes, "I shall be forced to the conclusion that it is worse than hopeless to attempt to force proof on your committee."

"However," he added, "you and the administration can rest assured that no matter how much you try to obstruct the task of exposing people in the government dangerous to this country, you shall not succeed. I assure you that all the power of the administration won't stop this fight."

Burma Troops Destroy Red Stronghold

RAGOON, Burma, June 3-(P)-The communist rebel army stronghold at Tinchintaung in the rich Tavory tin mine district of lower Burma was reported destroyed by government troops today.

Official reports said 35 red-flagged arsenals, barracks and warehouses were set afire during a government offensive that inflicted heavy losses on red flag (Trotskyite) communists.

Survivors were reported escaping by sea. Two government soldiers were reported wounded.

A communique reported successes against two other rebel elements—the white hand people and the Karen tribesmen who are fighting to set up a state of their own.

The government announcement told of PVO surrenders in north central and south Burma.

A split in the top PVO ranks was indicated by a published report that PVO Chief Bo Po Kun threatens to shoot himself dead if his hot-headed lieutenants persist in disobeying his command for a cease-fire.

Turbojet Plane Passes Tests

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Muroc, Calif., June 3-(P)-The F-96A, a "600-mile an hour plus" fighter plane with swept back wings and a turbojet engine, successfully passed its first flight test today, the air force announced.

The multi-purpose craft was aloft for an hour.

A swept-wing version of the F-84 Thunderjet, the ship was partially dismantled and flown here in an air force transport plane after taxi tests at the Republican Aviation plant at Farmingdale, N. Y.

It will now undergo service tests to evaluate the advantages, if any, of swept-wing design.
