Japan Police Raid Tokyo University

TOKYO, June 11 –(AP)– Police today raided one of Tokyo's universities in their drive against communist foes of the occupation.

Sixty police, armed with search warrants, entered Waseda university and seized copies of a communist-inspired open letter to General Mac Arthur. All special student meetings for the week were banned.

Vice-chairman Yuichi Eshima of the students Autonomy society — similar to an American university's student council — said the police action "stupidified" students and professors.

"This is worse than the prewar peace preservation measures," he said, referring to the stern police rule of the 1930's.

The open letter to MacArthur was one read at an indoor communist-sponsored rally a week ago.

It demanded a peace treaty for Japan that would include Russia and Communist China, withdrawal of occupation forces, and the release of eight Japanese sent to prison for assaulting five U. S. soldiers at a communist rally Memorial day.

Ordered Purge

It was this outbreak of violence that led to the police campaign and to General MacArthur's orders purging 41 communist leaders.

Police already have searched several communist party offices and union headquarters in hunts for copies of the letter.

No students were arrested. Among the special meetings included in the ban was a scheduled performance of "The Bear" by the Russian Anton Chekhov, who died in 1904, and a Japanese comic show.

A police official said most meetings at Waseda would be banned in the future because "political elements" might try to utilize them.

Student groups have been active in support of communist rallies and strikes.

Attacks on MacArthur

(The Chinese communist radio continued its drum-fire of attacks on MacArthur's purge order.

(Li Chi-shen, who broke with Chiang Kai-shek and joined the communists, was quoted as calling the purge "an absurd and illegal act which shows the uneasiness of the American imperialists.")

The two-day conference, called by San Francisco's Mayor Elmer E. Robinson, will hear medical men, national and state civilian defense leaders, and military officials.

What happens when an atomic bomb falls will be portrayed with the moving picture "Tale of Two Cities," showing the destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

On Medical Aspect

Dr. Stafford Warren, dean of the UCLA school of medicine, is scheduled for a talk on medical aspects of atomic warfare.

Mayor William F. Devin of Seattle is to preside at tomorrow's session dealing with the role of states in civil defense planning. On the speakers' list are Louis E. Starr, Oregon's civil defense director; James A. Pryde, chief of the Washington state patrol; Richard Graves, executive secretary of the league of California cities; Burton Washburn, secretary of the California state disaster council, and Lt. Col. V. S. Matthews, of the western air defense force at Hamilton Field, Calif.

Los Angeles Mayor

Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles, will preside at the evening session, with Maj. Gen. W. M. Robertson, deputy commander, sixth army, the principal speaker.

Dr. Paul J. Larsen, director of the office of civilian mobilization, Washington, will speak on the "civilian defense program" Tuesday. Larsen is with the national security resources board.

Mayor Burton W. Chace of Long Beach is to preside at a Tuesday meeting when Richard F. Gordon, director of the American Red Cross pacific area disaster service, explains his organization's program.

The conference will end with a closed session, when the mayors will seek possible solution to the civilian defense problems.

Model Plane Contests Due Next Month

Two state model airplane meets sponsored by Plymouth dealers throughout Oregon will be held early next month in the Salem area, Elmer Roth, director of the Salem club, announced Sunday.

A free-flight meet is scheduled July 2 at the Woodburn airport and a "U-control" event is slated July 9 at Waters field in Salem. Winners in both meets which will be directed by Roth, will go to Detroit for national finals in August.

The model airplane season officially opened Sunday in Eugene where Robert Olson of the Salem club won second place in "U-control" competition. He was the only Salem entrant. Several local members are expected to enter a similar meet June 25 in Springfield.

Picture Released by Senator McCarthy

WASHINGTON, June 11—Sen. McCarthy has released this picture which he says shows Owen Lattimore (right) and Philip Jaffe (center) at Communist headquarters in Yenan, China, in 1937. Man at left in picture is identified by McCarthy's office as T. A. Bisson. The two women in the picture are not identified by the senator. Lattimore, John Hopkins professor, and Jaffe, editor of the now defunct Amerasia Magazine, have been targets in McCarthy's series of attacks on the State Department. (AP Wirephoto to The Statesman).

Rescued Man in Allegheny Boat Tragedy Describes 'Nightmare'

PITTSBURGH, June 11–(AP)–James Woffenden, one of the rescued men in the Alleghany river boat tragedy, said it was a "nightmare" watching his companions swept to their deaths from the doomed cabin cruiser.

Woffenden, the stocky, 50-year-old lockmaster at Alleghany dam No. 3, nearly died himself when he tried the first rescue attempt with Locktender Hull Wright.

"When Hull called and told me there was a boat in trouble, I told him not to try to do anything himself, and said I'd come right from my home and see what I could do," he related.

"When I got there, we got our little 18-foot skiff and went to the rescue.

"We reached the boat all right, and then our own boat was smashed to pieces.

"We both had to leap onto the cruiser. It looked to me like there were six people on the cruiser in addition to Hull and me.

"There were two women on the boat—I know that.

"I tried to get everybody to hang on tight and wait for help. But it wasn't long before one of the women was swept overboard.

"Then Hull was swept overboard.

"Then sometime later, after I had almost lost track of time, the other woman on the boat disappeared.

"That left five of us if my memory is correct.

"The boat kept bouncing up and down and then I believe there was another man who disappeared.

"It was awful, and I kept telling the people on the boat to just hang on tight—that help would get there soon.

"But it was really a nightmare, and I'm glad it's all over now."

Woffenden, gray - haired and ruddy, tried to walk to his ambulance after the rescue, but was forbidden by doctor's orders.

Jews, Catholics, Protestants Unite in Group

PARIS, June 11 –(AP)– Jews, Catholics and Protestants of 12 western nations formally created today an organization to fight intolerance.

The new organization, called World Brotherhood, will seek to spread principles of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, formed in the United States 22 years ago.

The 155 delegates — leaders in religion, education, business labor and civil service—ended a four-day meeting with a pledge to promote peace through better understanding among peoples.

World Brotherhood has no governmental or political ties. It will be financed privately.

Its members pledge belief in "the moral law of the universe and derive their inspiration from religion."

Atomic scientist Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., who was chairman of the conference, told the closing session:

"It has been my privilege to share in bringing great new powers of nature to the service of man."

Everett R. Clinchy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews of America, was named ex-officio head of World Brotherhood. Other Americans on the steering committee are Compton; Thomas E. Braniff, president of Braniff Airways, Dallas, Texas; Roger W. Straus, chairman of the board of American Smelting and Refining Co., New York, and George B. McKibben, Chicago lawyer.

Other nations having places on the committee are Britain, France, Canada, Italy, Western Germany, Belgium, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Netherlands, Luxembourg and Switzerland.

Norway and Sweden have places on the committee but sent no delegates to the meeting.

U.S. Income Level Rises to $212 Billion

WASHINGTON, June 11 – (AP) Consumer incomes, the mainspring of retail buying, rolled up in April to a $212,800,000,000 a year rate, the commerce department reported tonight.

That was without counting $345,000,000 in April GI life insurance refund payments. These swelled personal incomes, but they can't be counted in annual rates since payments are nearly completed already.

The April showing, exclusive of the insurance payments, consituted a $600,000,000 annual-rate gain over March and was the second consecutive monthly increase. The rate was well over $209,800,000,000 in actual income payments to individuals in 1949.

The commerce department said the March to April gain "reflected an expansion in payrolls that was largely offset by declines in proprietors' income and transfer payments."

Total wage and salary receipts rose in April to an annual rate of $136,700,000,000, topping March by $1,800,000,000.

"The rise stemmed primarily from increased activity in the durable goods and manufacturing industries," the department said.

Russians Claim Any Attempt to Annul Polish Line Means War

By Daniel DeLuce

BERLIN, June 11–(AP)–Taegliche Rundschau, official organ of the Soviet control commission, said today "any attempt to annul Poland's annexation of German territory would provoke a new war."

The paper coupled this warning with the claim that the communist east German government "is the only legitimate representative of the German people."

A communique issued here and in Warsaw last Wednesday said the east German and the Polish governments had agreed on the "permanent marking" of their new frontier on the Oder- Neisse river line.

American and British government spokesman have said their countries do not recognize the Soviet zone's authority to negotiate the border agreement. The position of the western powers all along has been that the final border line should be left to a German peace treaty.

At Fulda in the west German republic, 50,000 Germans, expelled from territory now administered by Poland and Czechoslovakia, marched in protest against the Polish-east German agreement.

Taegliche Rundschau asserted the east German government, in agreeing at Warsaw last week to the loss of 38,986 square miles to Poland, recognized the Oder-Neisse border as "the final and enduring frontier of peace."

The paper said the United States would like to delay the acceptance of this frontier, "which it agreed to at Yalta," and forestall a German peace treaty.

"It (the U. S.) intended at a given time to make the unclarified frontier the occasion for a third world war, as Hitler used the Polish corridor," the paper said.

Taegliche Rundschau ignored, however, the 1945 Potsdam agreement which merely handed the German territory to Poland to administer pending a peace conference.

Western allied sources said the newspaper's "reckless charges" were an attempt to convince the Soviet bloc countries that western opposition to Moscow's foreign policy implies the preparation of armed aggression against them.

House Wrecker Goes Berserk In New York

NEW YORK, June 11–(AP)–A man was slain and a policeman wounded today when a usually quiet-mannered house wrecker went berserk with a shotgun in a Manhattan east side tenement district.

The house wrecker was wounded in the chest and subdued after a gun duel with a policeman who finally rushed him with an empty gun.

Police identified the slain man as Harry Pliuchena, 56, janitor of a six-story tenement at 171 East Second street.

The house wrecker, police said, was Mike Shramok, also 56, who lived in a dingy, cluttered furnished room next door. Neighbors described him as a quiet man who minded his own business except when drinking.

Police, unable to establish any motive, did not determine immediately whether Stramok knew the janitor.

They reported the following:

Shramok began blazing away with his .12 gauge single barrelled Browning repeating shotgun from a window of his second story room. Then he swung onto a fire escape, dropped several feet to the ground and entered the building at 171, followed by Pliuchena. The two apparently went to the areaway behind the building.

Neighbors summoned police. Within a few minutes six policemen poured into the areaway.

As Patrolmen Isaac Gillman and William F. Tekverk leaned over Pliuchena's body, a shot rang out. The policeman took cover, but only Gillman, already cited eight times for excellent police work was in a position to duel with Shramok.

When Gillman emptied his gun, he grappled with Shramok and subdued him.

Tekverk, wounded in the left leg, did not discover the fact until later.

Pro-Red Wins Church Post In Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 11 –(AP)– The Rev. Laszlo Dezsery, 36, a supporter of the communist government's religious policy, today became bishop of Hungary's largest Lutheran diocese.

The new bishop, one of the youngest in Hungary's history, succeeds Lajos Ordass, ousted after a prison term.

Two years ago Bishop Dezsery denounced Josef Cardinal Mindszenty as a representative of "royalist, feudal absolutism." Cardinal Mindszenty now is serving a life term for treason. Dezsery also has urged the Lutherans in Hungary to get along with the government.

Former Bishop Ordass was convicted on Oct. 1, 1948, of speculation in foreign currency and recently was released from prison after serving most of a two-year sentence. Upon his release, a special church court stripped him of his clerical rank.

There seems to be little doubt that the new bishop owes his rank to the 30-page "open letter in the case of the Evangelical (Lutheran) church" he wrote two years ago. This letter, which created a sensation in Hunagry, criticized the prewar Lutheran church for not fighting strongly enough against the regime of Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy. After the war, the letter declared, Lutheran pastors became "the slaves of the reactionary masses."

The specific charge against Ordass in the 1948 trial was that he failed to report a gift of $500,000 to his church from Lutheran churches in the United States as required under Hungarian law. The Lutheran World Federation said American Lutherans actually sent only $200,000 and that all of it went through the Hungarian National bank to become a matter of public record.

In January of 1949, a Hungarian refugee declared in Paris that Ordass had been offered his release if he would endorse a proclamation purporting to come from the Lutheran church and attacking the Roman Catholic church in connection with the then current charges against Cardinal Mindszenty. The refugee, Antoine Radvanszky, himself a Lutheran, said Ordass refused and termed the proclamation an effort to drive a wedge between Hungarian catholics and protestants.

Non-Strikers' Homes Blasted In Tennessee

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., June 11 –(AP)–Deafening dynamite blasts went off in the darkness today at the homes of two non-striking American Enka Corp. Rayon workers.

Sheriff Robert Medlin said eight persons were asleep in the home of Murry Bible when somebody tossed the explosive in a ditch by the front yard in the early morning hours. Window panes were shattered and the mail box was flattened but nobody was hurt.

The second blast was in Hugh Bloomer's front yard near Bean Station, about 30 miles from the Bible residence. Here again there were no injuries.

The new outcropping of violence came as a strike of the CIO textile union against the plant entered its 11th week. Medlin said the explosions were the third and fourth aimed at non-strikers since the union walked out to back up demands for extra pay and other benefits amounting to 23 cents an hour.

The company offered to add the equivalent of ten cents to the current $1.32 an hour average.

The sheriff identified Bible as owner of an automobile overturned by a strone-throwing, club-welding mob early yesterday just outside the plant gates.

One man was hurt in this outbreak which Enka Attorney T. W. Iserman called the "worst yet" in ten weeks of sporadic violence.

Thirty highway patrolmen were rushed in to reinforce eight already on duty. Gov. Gordon Browning at Nashvielle declined to say whether he might return national guardsmen to the scene to reinforce the patrolmen in keeping order.

Browning earlier had ordered 300 militiamen to the scene to deal with disorders. The last 100 were withdrawn only Friday, after the governor said union leaders assured him there would be no further trouble.

Union officials repeatedly have said they "deplored" the violence.

Crews Repair Area's Broken Power Lines

(Story also on page one.)

Electric power service, disrupted Saturday night by the worst electric storm to strike the Willamette valley in recent years, was reported Sunday in most areas.

T. W. Lowry, assistant superintendent of Portland General Electric, said Sunday, "Crews totaling about 100 men worked all Saturday night and until late Sunday afternoon and have patched up most of the trouble."

Lowry said there were direct lightning hits on the west Salem substation and on a 57,000 volt transformer on Brown road. Most of the remaining trouble resulted from fuse outages on branch lines, he said.

"Workers first repaired damage on a temporary basis to restore service as quickly as possible, then went back to trouble spots and put in permanent repairs," Lowry said.

The principal damage was in Salem with Turner being hit the next hardest, he pointed out. Silverton and Woodburn were not hit as badly as other sectors, he said.

Berry growers and farmers reported more benefits than damage from the pounding rain that fell between 6 and 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

There were isolated cases of damages to strawberries, one at the Sam Torvend farm about 3 miles northwest of Silverton where many berries were flattened, but most berry growers said the rain would help the harvest. Some apples, vetch, hay and clover also were flattened by the rain, farmers reported.

Solons to Hurl Questions at Philip Jaffe

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON, June 11 –(AP)– Senate investigators are ready to toss scores of questions tomorrow at onetime Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe, who pleaded guilty and was fined $2,500 in the 1945 secret documents case.

Jaffe, a native of Russia, is under subpoena to go before a close session of the senate foreign relations subcommittee which is looking into the controversial Amerasia episode.

The case involves alleged theft of hundreds of confidential government papers.

At tomorrow's session the committee also may get its first look at personal papers of the late James V. Forrestal dealing with one aspect of the sensational case.

Forrestal Intervened

The justice department confirmed yesterday that notes from Forrestal's diary show that he intervened just before the case broke to make sure that President Truman was fully aware of its international significance. Forrestal was secretary of the navy when the six arrests were made. He died last year.

Officials of the senate inquiry committee said that the justice department is planning to hand over pertinent parts of the Forrestal papers to the committee. The papers disclose that Forrestal was concerned lest the Amerasia case "greatly embarrass" this country's relations with Russia at the United Nations' charter conference in San Francisco. He wrote of asking officials to get all the facts to the president.

Held up Arrests

Forrestal's intervention apparently held up the arrests of Jaffe and five other persons—including three government employes—about a week. They were taken into custody by the FBI after Mr. Truman ordered vigorous action in the case.

Publication of the Forrestal notes on the case brought a demand by Senator Brewster (R - Me) that James K. Vardaman, one-time naval aide to Mr. Truman, be recalled before the senate committee for questioning about an allusion to him in the papers.

Forrestal wrote on May 28, 1945, that he had asked Vardaman, now a member of the federal reserve board, to "see to it that the president was informed in the matter."

Never Contacted

Vardaman told the committee last Thursday that he never had anything to do with the case — that he was never contacted about it by anyone in the government.

Vardaman said yesterday he knew about the Forrestal notes when he was before the committee, but that he was standing by his assertion that he was in no way connected with the case.

After Vardaman testified before the closed hearing, he handed to newspapermen copies of a statement, saying he had read it to the committee and no questions were asked him. A committee official confirmed this. The statement made no reference to the Forrestal diary.

Brewster, not a member of the committee, said Vardaman has "a lot of explaining" to do.

Asks Vardaman Recalled

"Vardaman," said Brewster, "should be recalled at once. He should be asked why, if he knew about the diary, and its reference to him, he did not volunteer that information to the committee.

"Why instead did he say nothing about it? He certainly knew it was an essential part of the puzzle the committee was trying to unravel."

Committee members regard Jaffe as a key witness in the Amerasia case, which has brought charges in congress of "cover up" and "whitewash" in connection with its prosecution.

In 1946 a house judiciary subcommittee received testimony from FBI Agent Myron Gurnea regarding Jaffe's background.

Gurnea described Jaffe, who is a naturalized citizen, as a known contact of Earl Browder, former chief of the American communist party, and of Alexander Trachtenberg, named by Gurnea as head of the communist international publishers.

Gurnea also testified that while the FBI was keeping tab on Jaffe prior to his arrest June 6, 1945, he had contacted Browder on three different occasions. Gurnea said Jaffe also visited the Soviet consulate in New York while the FBI had him under surveillance.
