Still-Hustling Senators Open Home Series With Caps Tonight

No Announcements Yet Made On Vanni or Other New Help

The Salem Senators, wounded deeply in the standings but not in the morale, return to Waters field tonight to take on the Vancouver Caps in a new WIL series. Hoping to put an end to their slipping and sliding in the league race, the Salems will lead off with Rawbone Ray McNulty against Bill Brenner's band, Ray being the only Solon flinger to win a game last week in Canada. He beat Vancouver easily and fanned 11 Capilanos consistently in the clutches. It was hoped that the Senators tenth would come up with Outfielder State two runs and a 3-1 win over Edo Vanni Monday after the Rutgers in a third round game in league meeting in Tacoma. But the NCAA baseball tournament General Manager George Enigh, attending the meeting, made no announcement on the Vanni case or on other potential player deals in the fire with the Victoria Athletics. Emigh may have something definite on Vanni and the expected new catcher today.

An Associated Press report from Tacoma said the status of Vanni was left up to President Robert Abel by WIL directors at the windup of the meeting. President Abel said he would set the limit on Vanni's suspension if he is signed by another WIL team, otherwise the duration will be up to the National Association.

Vanni was suspended by the Victoria club recently and since then the Senators have been trying to land the fleet outfielding veteran. The club has also been dickering with Victoria for Catcher Al Ronning. A move was on to get Athletics Pitcher John Marshall, but that has been vetoed by the Victorians. Marshall's record for that club is now eight wins and one loss, three of the wins over

Coaches Ask Chandler to Take Action

Fight Renewed Against 'Snatching'

OMAHA, June 19-(AP)-The National Association of College Baseballi Coaches today announced a new attempt to keep professional baseball scouts from snatching players who still have college eligibility left.

The association made public a telegram sent to Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler asking "affirmative or negative action on resolution concerning pre-contractual relationships of college baseball players originally submitted December, 1945, to your office and resubmitted many times thereafter."

J. F. McHale, of Arizona State, president of the association declared "the situation is getting worse, year by year. Michigan State has lost 20 players since the war to the pro's.

has refreshed the woeful plight of the 1949 team. No one feels worse about it than the Senator players themselves, who definitely have not quit trying or hustling. They know they aren't as bad a ball club as their position in the standings indicates. It has been the absence of the base hit in the clutch that has wounded the Townies mostly, and once that item is revitalized all will be well again. The management is trying to correct it by adding new player strength.

The tumble from a solid second to a poor fifth in the standings has stirred up the animals so to speak. We've heard little other than complaints, spiced with the usual wise cracks, aimed at the club, and no doubt the week's atndance will disclose that many fans have given up on the boys. When they trot onto the field tonight they'll be fully expecting a fusillade of hoots, hollers and haw-haws from the few customers who'll be present. They'll feel as if they don't have a friend in the joint other than their own wives, immediate relatives and special gal friends. The Seattle Rainiers a few weeks ago were in the same fix, They had just staggered home from a nasty road trip and were expecting to have everything thrown at them but the Sick Stadium seats when they took to the field. But earlier that day Seattle P-I Sportster Royal Brougham appealed to the Rainier fans to show their true or by turning out to the park that night in goodly number, not to er the team but to give it a rousing cheer of welcome and encour-ement. The Rainier players almost fainted when 12,000 fans were the stands at game time, and every one of them letting loose er vocal patriotism full blast. The Seattles won that game and since then have kept right on winning until they are now only a few short nods away from the first division. The visual vote of confidence snapped the Rainlers' rubber and off they went, a "new" team.

Let's Give 'Em Encouraging Pat on Back Now we're not pleading with Senator fans to repeat this measure of confidence and patriotism. Nor do we believe we're a Royal Brougham. But we do ask you, if you are at al' interested in the Senators and want them to know you're interested in them—to show up at the ball yard tonight if you possibly can. Not to give the team the blast it is fully expecting, but instead to give it a look and a listen to the hometown fans who are still 100 per cent behind them win or lose. The boys are still hustling and trying. A pat on the back such as your appearance at the park cannot belin but make 'em try even harder.
