Visitors Feted By Hostesses At Parties

By Jerome English
Statesman Society Editor

Visitors in the capital are the incentive for much entertaining with informal parties planned in their honor.

To Honor Miss Siewert

Miss Beth Siewert, who is visiting in the capital from Philadelphia, will be honored at a bridge party Thursday night when Miss Elise Schroeder entertains at the home of Mrs. A. A. Siewert on North Winter street.

A late supper will be served by the hostess and bouquets of roses and early summer flowers will provide the decorative note.

Bidden to honor Miss Siewert are Mrs. A. A. Siewert, Mrs. Alan Siewert, Miss Eloise Ebert, Miss Genevieve Cockerline, Miss Katherine O'Reilly, Miss Eleanor Trindle, Miss Barbara Mall, Miss Echo Yeater, Miss Lyndell Birkbeck, Mrs. George Bell, Mrs. Patricia Lehto, Mrs. Mary Thomas, Mrs. Kenneth Carl, Mrs. Marie Kohlhaugen, Mrs. Eleanor Fox, and Mrs. Donald L. Beers Are Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berg (Rosemary Bell) of Seattle, have been guests in the capital the past week at the home of her mother, Mr. Lloyd Bell.

Mrs. Craig Coyner was a hostess for the pleasure of Mrs. Berg at the Broadway street home of her parents, the B. E. Coopers. A shower feted the guest of honor and a dessert supper was served with cards following.

Honoring Mrs. Berg were Mrs. Lloyd Bell, Mrs. Edmund O. Pratt, Mrs. B. E. Cooner, Mrs. George Hanauska, Mrs. Douglas Parker, Mrs. William Smith of Corvallis, Mrs. Victor Collins, Mrs. Gordon Keith, Mrs. Frank Newell of Walla Walla, Mrs. Lester Couer and Mrs. Coyner.

Vacationing at Newport this week are Mrs. Harold Busick and daughters, Kathy, Sally and Christy, who were accompanied by Shirley Crothers and Mrs. Busick's mother, Mrs. William E. Hargis of Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Maulding left Tuesday to spend several days vacationing along the Oregon coast.

The Woman's Bible class of the First Methodist church will serve a no-host dinner at 1:15 on Friday afternoon in the fireplace room of the church. An impromptu program will be given.

Refresher Course

Some of Fine Points of Canning Are Reviewed Before Season Really Starts

By Maxine Buren
Statesman Women's Editor

We'll have to get straightened out on our canning technique again for the summer, I suppose. One's knowledge of such things gets a bit rusty with disuse over the winter.

One of the big problems dogging the canner, experienced or amateur, is the old trouble of loss liquid from the jars during the canning process. The housewife will put the jars of food in the canner, nicely filled and well covered with the protecting liquid. When processing is complete, the jars will have lost liquid, and fruit is exposed in the top of the container. The unprotected food may lose color and flavor, and the housewife may suffer from loss of professional standing as a canner.

Recent research by experts reveals several helpful facts about this loss of liquid.

First, the experimentation proves, there must be plenty of headspace left in the jars to allow contents to expand during processing. Without enough headspace, the pressure forces the liquid out. Three-eighths inch of space above contents is needed in the pint jars and three-fourths for quarts.

A tight closure in the top of jars also helps hold liquid in. A two-piece closure, sealed tightly, keeps the greater pressure inside the jar in the cooker and prevents the liquid from boiling out. Two-piece closures include a metal top with affixed sealing compound and metal band.

The lightning seal type of closure, a glass top and rubber, works well too, if sufficient headspace is left in the jar, and the jar is sealed before going into the canner.

If zinc lids or three-piece glass top closures are used, jars must not be sealed while in the cooker. Because jars cannot be sealed, some liquid loss may be inevitable, even with the recommended headspace allowed.

Another thing to remember is that when using commercial pectins to make fruit juices, use the recipe on the container. Manufacturers have worked out the formulas for their product, they should be followed carefully and only one time the recipe. Doubling recipes for jellies and jams usually gets the cook into trouble. Often larger quantities of fruit or juice change the amount of surface evaporation to such an extent that the results are not satisfactory. If more than one recipe is to be made, use a second container.

Much of the success in freezing fruit or vegetables is in the speed with which the food can be frozen. Get it into the freezer as soon as possible after picking.

Follow directions for blanching vegetables. The process of scalding vegetables before freezing helps preserve the vitamin content and keeps the food nearer to the fresh state.

Guests Bidden To a Shower

Miss Shirley Clark and Miss Lavelle duBuy will be hostesses for a party tonight at the former's home on Garnet street in compliment to Mrs. Richard Van Osdol.

The evening will be spent informally and a shower will feted the honor guest. A late supper will be served by the hostesses and the table will be centered with a stork encircled with red roses and the gifts.

Honoring Mrs. Van Osdol will be Mrs. E. A. Osdol, Mrs. Robert Mentzer, Miss Margy Acton, Miss Virginia Beall, Miss Thais Crandall, Miss Joan DeWitt, Miss Marlene DeWitt, Miss Una Mae Grayless, Miss Marilyn Linser, Miss Sylvia McClelland, Miss Alice Louise Ohling, Miss Barbara Owens, Miss Dorothy Pearce, Miss Marilyn Reay, Miss Diane Stoddy and the hostesses.

To Attend Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Brazier Small, Miss Suzanne Small and Carl Gabrielson will be in Portland tonight to attend the wedding of Miss Joan Mowatt and Robert Brown at Trinity Episcopal church with a reception following at the Arthur Brown home. Miss Harriet Van Natta, a Kappa Kappa sorority sister of the bride and Miss Small, stopped in Salem Monday at the Small home enroute to Portland. She will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding.

George Russell Takes Bride

Miss Barbara Ruth Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ralph Clark, Corvallis, became the bride of George E. Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Russell of Salem on Sunday, June 11 at 5 o'clock in the Federated churches, Corvallis. The Rev. Robert D. Bulkley, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white slipper sat-in dress fashioned with a lace paneled bodice and full court train. Her fingertip illusion veil was held by a Juliet cap. She carried a white Bible centered with a lavender orchid with a cascade of yellow rosebuds.

Miss Barbara Ann Clarke was the honor attendant, junior bridesmaid was Miss Gertrude Ann Sawyer, Sherwood, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert F. Clark, Portland, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. John Sprick, Corvallis. All wore similar gowns in pastel lavender and yellow. The flower girl was Jeannie Buchanan, Salem, cousin of the bride and lighting the tapers were Miss Mary Chambers and Mrs. Leland Russell of Salem.

Brother Is Best Man

Paul Russell, Salem, acted as best man for his brother and seating the guests were Leland Russell, another brother of the groom, Robert F. Clark, Portland, brother of the bride, and Loren Helmhout, Portland.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the church parlors, Miss Blanche Clark, LaGrande, and Mrs. Esther Glass, Portland, poured. Mrs. Vardyn Buchanan cut the cake, and assisting were Mrs. E. A. Buchanan, Mrs. Mark McCallister, Mrs. I. W. Weikel, Miss Mary Lawrence, Miss Mary Ann Wode, Miss Mary Anne Mitchell, Miss Sue Skaar, Miss Marilyn Paul and Miss Sue-Morgan. Robert Russell, brother of the bridegroom, passed the groom's cake.

The bride was a graduate from Corvallis high school and attended Oregon State college. She was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority. The groom attended Kan. Wesleyan university and received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Willamette university. He served in the U.S. Navy for three years and has held a faculty position at Sherwood high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell will be at home after June 23 in San Jose, Calif., where he will study for an advanced degree in mathematics.

New Fabrics for Drapery, Upholstery A Collection of Wide Printed Satins

By Sue Gardner

A new collection of wide printed satins, in smooth and antique finishes, documentary prints and textured upholstery fabrics will soon be available for home use.

In the satins, most designs are large scaled in bold colors on a variety of muted background hues. An innovation in this type of fabric is printed panels on antique satin, three and a third yards long. Two lengths of this fabric will curtain almost any window, allowing for headings and hems.

The documentary prints in this collection are mostly small in scale with background colors ranging from subdued to brilliant. Metallic touches are found in some of the textures.

Smooth rayon satins are 50 inches wide. One pattern is a wreath design of roses and lilies on grey, mist green, brown, forest green or natural. Another pattern shows a large scaled bouquet centering around a decorative urn in pinks, greens and mauves on natural, chartreuse and elephant grey, or in pinks, browns and greens on natural.

One enormous bouquet design has smaller bouquets around it and is spaced so that approximately three yards will cut to great advantage as a bedspread with attached pillow sham. This pattern comes in peach, chartreuse, and green on natural or brown, purple and green on natural, or turquoise on dark green.

There are two panel designs in the antique cotton and rayon satins, fifty inches wide. One is a wind-blown tree, its gnarled trunk forming the lower part of the pattern, the upper part being branches and tossing leaves. The other is a tropical pattern of grasses, stems, flowers, and birds.

Two Betrothals Revealed at Luncheon

Two engagements were announced on Saturday at a party at the John St. Clair home on Victory Circle Lane. Miss Patricia Lockhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lockhart of Salem, revealed her betrothal to Robert Rasmussen, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Rasmussen of Nehalem, and Miss Jacqueline St. Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John St. Clair, announced her engagement to Paul Benage, son of Mrs. Roy Paddock of Parkplace, Oregon. No dates have been set for the weddings.

Both Miss Lockhart and Miss St. Clair are graduates of Salem schools. Mr. Rasmussen received his degree in June from Oregon State college and Mr. Benage graduated from Willamette university a year ago.

Pink and white carnation corsages were presented to each guest with scrolls tied to the ribbons revealing the news. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with pink and white carnations in a crystal basket. At either end was a miniature bride and pink and white tapers.

Favors marked places for Mrs. Donald Thorn, Mrs. Marlis St. Clair, Miss Ora Lee Frey, Miss Floribel Gordon, Miss Beverly Fox, Miss Patricia St. Clair, Miss Mary McConnell, Miss Caroline Lockhart, Miss Jacqueline St. Clair.

Mrs. James C. Stone has invited members of her club to her North Capitol street home tonight for several hours of bridge to be followed by a late supper. Mrs. A. Terrence King, Mrs. John Lewis and Mrs. Paul S. Wolfe will be additional guests.

Conard Eyre of Portland is spending the week in Salem at the home of her grandfather, David W. Eyre, and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Johnson. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David W. Eyre and brother, Larry, were here on Sunday for Father's Day.

On Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Is it all right for a girl and her fiance to announce their engagement to their relatives and most intimate friends, before making a public announcement?

A. Yes, a few days before the public announcement.

Q. Should more than one player on a golf course tee up at one time?

A. No. Each player tees up and drives in turn. Avoid any movement toward teeing up while another is driving.

Q. What distinguishes a formal invitation from an informal one?

A. A formal invitation, engraved or handwritten, is always in the third person.
