Our Juvenile Delinquents:

Modern Huck Finns The Oregon Statesman Speed Down Roads To Crime and Jail Why? The Answers Are Many; But Gasoline, Liquor Play Part

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles on Salem's juvenile delinquency problem, a study which grew out of a rash of arrests to teen-agers, some charged with felonies that would assure an adult a long stretch in the penitentiary. Statesman Staffwriters Marguerite Wright, Thomas Wright and John White collaborated in preparation of the series.)

They look like latter-day Huck Finns in their skin-tight blue jeans and their wrinkled white T-shirts.

Only these Salem youngsters aren't shuffling barefooted down a country road, fishing pole in hand. They're padding bare-footed in the grey cells of the dank Marion county courthouse basement, looking through the bars.

Cruising down a river on a Huck Finn raft would seem mighty dull to these teenage boys. They would much rather cruise down a highway in a souped-up jalopy fitted out with shiny hubcaps, fancy skirts, radio, foglights, spots and echo pipes - even if the car and equipment are stolen goods.

Swiping watermelons, as Huck Finn might have done, is kid stuff to these lads, too, They'd rather heist a case of beer or whisky and get stupid drunk on a sandbar in the Willamette.

They're our juvenile delinquents. Not punks, yet, most of them. Not tough criminals, yet, most of them. Not quite in the same class as the members of the teenage gangs in Chi or Harlem or Frisco - gangs that'll sap a guy for the thrill of it, steal for the excitement of the chase, pack knives and guns and brass knucks and kill for the kicks they get out of it.

No. Not quite. Not yet. But give them time. Time on their idle hands. Time in jail or in reform school with more experienced fellows to teach them the finer points in carstripping or lock-picking. And sooner or later, these boys, this raw material, may well develop into public enemies and potential inmates of the penitentiary.

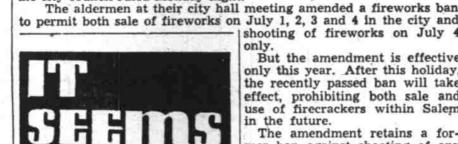

These are the boys who help constitute Salem's growing juvenile crime problem. Somewhere along the line each one of the 22 youngsters with which this study deals, got headed in the wrong direction. Something will have to change that course, or they face a bleak future of repeated violations and eventual terms in Woodburn training school or in jail. Where the trouble began and what can be done for prevention and cure of further delinquency is the purpose of this series of articles.

Juvenile delinquency - crime by youth - has been a popular subject for the press, the lecture platform, bridge-table gossip and bull sessions. It is loaded with human interest. Sobsisters, male and female, dismiss it with such maudlin sentiments as "There are no bad boys, only misdirected energy." It pro-duced the inaccurate cliche that "There are no juvenile delinquents, only delinquent parents."

Probably the outstanding fact about anti-social behavior of boys and girls under 18 is that it is often oversimplified. If there is one thing this study brought out, it is that there is no one reason why kids go wrong and there are no pat answers to the juvenile delinquency problem.

What are some of the angles? What makes a juvenile delinquent? What drives a boy of 14 to 17 to lie and steal, sass his teachers, defy his parents and try to outwit the cops?

School officials interviewed felt that the child crime problem partly stems from the temper of the times: The prevailing materialistic philosophy of our society develops a false sense of alues in its members. Material possessions — such as fast. chrome-covered cars - are a criterion of social standing. Parents often seek to establish their place in the neighborhood with the ostentatiousness of their homes or automobiles.

100th YEAR

North Carolina is rated as one Wilson Trial of the most progressive states of the old South, sometimes being called the Yankee state of the south for its industry and thrift. Witnesses' But North Carolina democrats are not far enough advanced to return Sen. Frank Graham to the United States senate. Instead they voted for Willis Smith, a conservative Stories Clash lawyer, one-time president of the American Bar association. As in the Florida senatorial campaign attack was made on the incumbent on two fronts: the fair employment practice bill and alleged red sympathies. The Carolina campaign wasn't quite as bad kidnapped an killed. as that in Florida but it was plenty rough and bitter. Graham as well as Pepper of Florida had insatisfy the voters.

Graham was vulnerable because of kidnapping and murder. of the numerous left-wing organ- Surprise Witness izations he had joined or sponsor-organizations. However Graham and remembered seeing the brothwas a man of such high character ers.

FOUNDED 185

The Oregon Statesman, Salem, Oregon, Tuesday, June 27, 1950

PRICE Sc

No. 91

Koreans Claim Reds Repulsed at Seoul Gates U.S. Fighter Downs Red Plane; Council Permits Sale, Shooting of Fireworks AAF Forms Evacuation Airlift Shooting of fireworks in Salem will be legal this Fourth of July, the city council ruled Monday night. The aldermen at their city hall meeting amended a fireworks ban to permit both sale of fireworks on July 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the city and with a second of the set of a second to be a second to and the second to a second to a second to a second to a

14 PAGES

Aldermen agreed to amend the ban when they learned that local merchants had stocks of fireworks ToKYO, Tuesday, June 27-(P)-The United States today set up the on hand at the time the prohib- biggest airlift since the Berlin blockade to evacuate Americans iting legislation was passed. from flaming south Korea.

Americans

A U. S. fighter shot down a Russian-built plane that tried to "interfere," General MacArthur's headquarters said.

Taken Aboard

About 200 Americans arrived in Japan by planes this morning and headquarters said a total of 1,500 would be out of Korea this afternoon. More than 900 already were well on their way to Japan in two ships which sailed from Korea yesterday.

MacArthur warned that U. S. VANCOUVER, Wash., June 26 planes will provide "complete" air -(AP)-- Surprise witnesses offered cover until "all Americans" are conflicting stories today on whethout of the invaded country. Beer Utah and Turman Wilson were fore the evacuation began, sources in a Portland theater the night here said about 2,000 Americans 18-year-old Jo Ann Dewey was were in south Korea, including 500 officers and men of the U.S.

The brothers, Utah, 20, and Tur- military advisory mission. man, 24, both asserted they saw a Whether the mission is being double-bill movie March 19 and evacuaated entirely was not andicated opposition to compulsory did not get back to Vancouver nounced but the mention of some non-discrimination in employ- until hours after the Dewey girl U. S. officers aboard evacuation ment, but that wasn't enough to had been snatched from a dark craft indicates at least some of street. They face double charges them are coming out.

Among the 500 remaining after today's operations will be military The defense produced the first men, businessmen, state departed. No communist himself he was surprise witness, blonde Betty ment, Economic Cooperation adsuch a liberal that he often failed Lyon, 18, who testified she worked ministration and other officials to discriminate between the mere- as an usher at the Portland theater and missionaries. Most of these ly liberal and the pink or red front on one night only-March 19- are men.

The state promptly produced a South Koreans

Korea Envoy at U.N. Meeting Reports Vary

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 26-Myun Chang, Korean ambassador to the U. S., is greeted by Trygve Lie (right), secretary general of the United Nations, at a special emergency meeting of the U. N. Security Council which ordered a cease fire in Korea and also demanded a rollback by invasion forces. (AP Wirephoto to The Statesman).

In Attempting To Locate Rhee

By Russell Brines TOKYO, Tuesday, June 27 - (AP) - A Korean spokesman said today an armored communist spearhead had been hurled back from the gates of Seoul. and the U.S.-backed South Korean government still was there.

This conflicted with previous reports that President Syngman Rhee and his entire cabinet had fled south. Earlier General MacArthur's headquarters said that tank-led red troops had entered Seoul.

(Associated Press correspondent O. H. P. King in Seoul also reported that Rhee and other top officials left this morning.)

The Spokesman asserted the southern defenders had counterattacked successfully on the crucial central front.

A reliable American source said he had telephoned Seoul and had been informed the invaders now were 13 miles north of Seoul. Planes in Action

A Korean news agency reported received here said the South Koreans already had sent 10 fighter planes—sent from Japan as part of U.S. aid-into ac

It doesn't take a teenager long to discover that standing with the fellows and admiration of the girls are, rightly or wrongly, often directly related to ownership of a car. And if a boy bent on impressing his schoolmates has no money to keep his jalopy in gas and accessories, he may get them from All-Night Auto Supply-i. e. any car (maybe yours).

Materialism is only one aspect of the spirit of today. A junior high school principal pointed out that young people are definitely overstimulated. They are affected by the general restlessness, the frantic search for excitement and the avoidance of thought for the morrow which characterizes much of the American urban population. Juke box jazz, llurid comic books, unrealistic "home was never like this" movies, radio programs that inspire criminal ideas despite their pious declarations that "crime doesn't pay" — all contribute to the modern tempo that has the kids hopped up. No wonder the daily routine of chores at home, attendance at school and odd jobs seems unbearably dull.

Not only are many youngsters too high-keyed-they are also troubled with the familiar and perennial woes of adolescence: Over-sensitivity to criticism, extreme self-consciousness about such physical difficulties as uneven growth or pimples, desire for independence but need of guidance. growing awareness of the opposite sex, and so on. Thus, we have short boys who compensate for size by acting rough and tough, and we have children who will take no suggestions or orders from parents but will slavishly follow "the gang."

Economic pressure is another and perhaps a key fac-tor in the juvenile delinquency problem. Sometimes the parents cannot even provide adequate food, much less fancy clothes or allowances for recreation. Sometimes parents who could afford to hand out more spending money just refuse to do so. So there are cases of boys and girls who shoplift most of their school clothes, who break into homes or schools looking for money.

Even if these teenagers want to work to earn money-and most of them say they want jobs - society is not geared for them. Except on farms and when the father owns his own business, a boy can rarely go along on the job with his dad these days. Generally only unskilled labor is open to youngsters: Harvest work, pin-setting in bowling alleys, shoe-shining, delivering pa-pers or merchandise, mowing lawns, and so on. There are not enough of these jobs to go around.

The lure of easy money tempts those with no affinity for work, and with few scruples, to try their luck at burg-lary, gambling, etc. But besides economic insecurity, probably most juvenile delinquents suffer from another kind of insecurity. They lack inner resources, they lack a sense of personal and social responsibility, they lack long-range goals.

These youngsters seem to have no objective in life, no ambitions for "when I grow up." They don't really know what they want - except for immediate demands. They live in the present and seldom contemplate the road ahead. That's one reason why it is hard for them to see themselves in prison some day.

Almost without exception, kids in trouble with the law have not the slightest respect for the law or for authority of any kind. They neither respect nor obey their parents, nor their teachers. They have only contempt for policemen. They seem intent on, they seem to get the biggest enjoyment from, giving their parents and teachers, neighbors and the police, a bad time.

How much these attitudes are due to aftermath of war would be difficult to determine. However, it is certain that the insecurity of children is part of the price we are still paying for World War II, one school principal said. Today's teenagers were in their formative years during the war and in many cases were let shift for themselves while both parents worked. And as the twig bent, the tree grew.

Then, too, during the war a 17-year old was considered a man. Today's 17-year-olds remember their older brothers or friends in service, able to get beer and cigarets and women by virtue of their uniforms even though some were beardless teenagers. Now 17-year-olds are kept in school, expected to act their age, and denied the "privileges" provided for men.

Besides home and school there is another factor to consider. There are persons whose mental and personality makeup are simply deficient, not normal, perverted. They are the black sheep in otherwise fine families. They are the ones who may know right from wrong, but who are not bothered by wrongdoing, who seem to have no conscience. They do not respond to reason, and punishment likely worsens them. They are potentially the most dangerous of the juvenile delinquents, the most difficult to deal with, and the most to be pitied but not pampered. They are the bad boys, the really bad boys, who vast-ly complicate the juvenile problem and for whom society must make some provision.

and sincerity that his defeat is rebuttal witness, Robert Butts, jr. highly regrettable. Granted that manager of the theater, who said he was a bit fuzzy as a practical its wasn't so. His records showed man-he had been president of the she worked only on the night of University of North Carolina- March 22, he said. still he gave voice and leadership Butts then produced his recto many worthy causes. ords, and they were placed in ev-Smith's victory is a victory for idence. conservative democrats, but hard-The state also put two policely for the extreme states' rights men on the stand, who said Mrs.

segment of the party. Thus it is Lyon had told them in earlier in-another setback for Truman and terviews that she had not worked the labor-democrat coalition. March 19. Mrs. Lyon in her earlier testimony had another version. Points Out Men She pointed out in court Utah

New Airport and Turman as two men she had Building Open seen in the theater on the night of March 19. She was positive about the date, saying it was the only night she worked on the theater For Tenants

Mrs. Lyon said she heard them Salem's new airport administratalking to the head usherette and tion building is ready to open, but looked at Utah two or three times because he seemed to resemble is awaiting its tenants, City Manager J. L. Franzen told the city someone she knew. She identifled Turman by his voice. council last night.

The council agreed to a lease arrangement with United Air TO STAY INCORPORATED Lines for $1,500 annual rental of DELAKE, June 26 -(Special)a 1,013 square feet space in the Residents voted 153 to 111 against building. UAL also pays over $3,- a measure to disincorporate the city of Delake here today. 000 for landing rights.

. 73 are planning a dedication cere-New York 94 70 .00 Williamette river 1.1 feet. FORECAST (from U.S. weather bu-reau, McNary field, Salem): Mostly cloudy today, tonight and Wednesday. High today 74-78. Low tonight 48-50. Conditions favorable for most farm activities today; fresh winds will ham-per others. mony at the building August 6.

BAKERIES STILL STRUCK

PORTLAND, June 26-(P)-A meeting today failed to settle Portland's bakery strike. AFL drivers settled their differences with bak-SALEM PRECIPITATION eries, but a meeting on the bakers' differences deadlocked. No further | This Year Last Year 41.55 Normal sessions are scheduled. 35.84

Stock Market Hits Skids; Four Month's Gains Lost

NEW YORK, June 26-(P)-Stock | After Pearl Harbor the market broke sharply. In a few months, wholly unanswered-question was prices tumbled $1 to $7 a share tothough, prices turned upward and whether this nation is prepared to day in one of the worst overall declines in twenty years. Traders today evidently figured Traders, jittery over the Korean that pattern would not be rethreat to world peace, threw their reated holdings on the market in a series Brokerage quarters said the bulk of the selling came from the of savage selling drives. general public. In addition there Sales volume hit a ten-year high and the market was the proadest on record.

In five hours of plunging prices, the gains of the last four months sicker.

the market on average taken a ance. stock exchange. The 1949-50 bull market, which finished last week with a lusty snort, never looked larger plunge. A record 1,256 individual issues appeared on the ticker tape. Pre-

Fear that the Korean war might spread over the world was the major factor in the market's crack-up. Traders took the view that in the event of war industry would not be allowed to make the profits it did in World War No. 2.

Win Air Fights

ITAZUKI AIRBASE, Kyushu Island, Japan, June 27-(AP)-Two of 10 American fighter planes given the South Koreans entered hostitlities today and shot down two North Korean fighters.

The action occurred about 9 a.m. at Kimpo airfield near Seoul. The South Korean F-51 Mustangs engaged the Russian made Yak fighters in two separate dogfights. One North Korean pilot crashed with his ship and was killed. The other bailed out and parachuted to the ground. Eyewitnesses said he was shot to death as he reached for a pistol strapped to his leg.

For Korea Starts to set routes.

TOKYO, Tuesday, June 27-(AP)-General MacArthur's headquar-ters said today loading of war ma-here from 7 to 8:30 and from 4:30 teriel for south Korea has begun. to 6.

Korean pilots have arrived to take delivery of 10 American fighter planes Headquarters announced yesterday that the United States had authorized transfer of 10 F-51

Mustang fighters for the aviationshort Korean republic. It also announced air and naval escort will be supplied to assure safe arrival of war aid shipments to south Korea.

Whether shipments of supplies to the little U. S.-sponsored republic's fledgling air force which was not disclosed officially.

> Truman Backs Efforts of U.N.

WASHINGTON, June 26 -(AP)-President Truman threw the. "vigorous" support of the United States government today behind the United Nations effort to end the sudden week-end war in Kor-continued upward during the war. dispatch its fighting men to the Traders today evidently figured trouble zone if the U. N. should decide on a showdown test of strength to enforce its peace or-publican senators in effect. Unaniwas heavy profit-taking - prior mously they declared that the asto today's break the market was sault of northern Korean comnear the crest of a one-year rise. munists on the republic of south The Associated Press average of Korea must not be allowed to inwere wiped out. Roughly $4,000,000,000 was whacked off the market value of all stocks listed on the New York since 1930 other than today, has

Other Korea News

Congressional Reaction European Reaction Possible U. N. Action Oregon Residents

in Korea Area

Limit Truck Operations results." The agency also asserted the

By Robert E. Gangware

City Editor, The Statesman Sawmill and logging truck operators hopped on the Salem city council Monday night in protest against a proposal to keep log trucks off city streets at rush traffic hours.

Spokesmen for some 50 loggers and attorneys for several mills, meeting with the council at city hall, made it clear they wanted no part of the restriction on operating hours. They declared it would hurt Salem business all around.

The council for its part killed a Typographers resolution to establish a log truck route and restrict hours, introduced a substitute measure with Call Strike at less restrictive hours and talked about re-studying the matter with a committee of interested parties. Backs Restrictions

Alderman Albert H. Gille, ad-vocate of the restrictions on Klamath Paper grounds of traffic improvements, introduced an amendment to existing city law to prohibit log trucks

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., June from operating over city streets 26 -(AP)- A mechanical innovation. from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. and from Loading of Arms 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. That law al- teletypsetters, brought on a strike ready empowers the city engineer at the Klamath Falls Daily Her> ald and News today. The original measure would The AFL Typographical union have fixed a route through Salem called the strike in demand for > jurisdiction over the teletypesetter here from 7 to 8:30 and from 4:30 operators.

> Give Arguments These were principal arguments rom the loggers and mill atfrom the loggers and mill atperienced operator on a linotype torneys: machine. With a teletypesetter, Salem is already one of the most restrictive cities in relation paper tape can be perforated from to log trucks; reduction of travel a separate keyboard. The tape then is fed to an electrical device hours would eliminate one or more trips into Salem per day and that will operate the linotype mamight mean the difference between chines. marginal and probitable operation for each logger; mills would find operating costs higher through on an experimental basis. Manhiring more trucks or putting on aging Editor Bill Jenkins said the said. extra shifts for late receipt of logs; union was denied jurisdiction. the proposed legislation discrim-He said the newpaper, which inates against logging and mill has about 15,000 circulation, industries; many loggers would would attempt to continue operatake their logs to other cities intion. He said that pressmen, ster- an. stead of Salem. eotypers and engravers had indi-

Some truckers also complained about routings, "especially through Salem." Herbert E. Barker, Salem Trades and Labor council secreaary, called the proposed re-striction "idiotic" and said he opposed it on behalf of mill workers anxious to retain their jobs in ecil Clark, Floyd Brown and E. G. Neal. Attorneys represented Oregon Pulp and Paper, Capital Lumber & Fuel and West Salem designate committeemen to meet with city officials and local business spokesmen to go into the Page subject further.

Lumber firms.

The proposed amendment will come up at the July 10 council meeting for possible final disposition.

key point of Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul, had been recaptured. The tank-led red attackers had driven approximately 30 miles straight down the Uijongbu valley to the suburbs of Seoul, MacArthur's headquarters had reported. But the spokesman maintained that the counterattack had driven the reds back to the city of Changtong, which is between Seoul and Uijongbu. The latter is 12 miles north of Seoul.

Shoots Down Plane

MacArthur's headquarters also announced that a U.S. fighter plane shot down a Russian-made Yak plane over Seoul's Kimpo airport.

The plane, presumably from the North Korean air force, ran afoul of an air umbrella which MacArthur had thrown over the airport to protect the evacuation of Americans.

U.S. Ambassador John J. Muccio was reported still in Seoul as was Col. W. H. S. Wright, head of the U.S. military advisory group. Muccio had planned to joint the South Korean government in its flight. A refuge capital at Suwon, A similar strike begain at the 20 miles south of Seoul, was being set up, according to one Korean broadcast.

Earlier, MacArthur's headquarters said the situation in the South Korean capital still was uncertain. Near Airport

The invaders also were said at that time to be near Kimpe airport, 15 miles northwest of Seoul. North Korean planes intermittent-The three teletypsetters here have been operated by three girls ly strafed and bombed the airport and Seoul itself, the summary

Presumably, the aerial attacks on the air field came after Amer-icans from the embassy had been safely evacuated to Southern Jap-

On the third day of the North's surprise invasion the center of the cated they would stay on the job. front was crumpled.

As the armored unit, which had Animal Crackers cracked through the U.S.-trained South Korean army, halted at the outskirts, its commander demanded that the Southerners surrender. The defense ministry in a subse-quent broadcast called for a battle in Seoul's streets, with citizens aiding the military.

DATU Second Incident

The clash of a U.S. Mustang fighter with a Russian-made plane -presumably fromt he North Korean air force-was the second aerial incident in as many days.

Headquarters said the Mustang was one of a number of planet sent to prevent any outside attempt to disrupt the evacuation of Americans.

It added that the U.S. fighter "was forced to shoot down a Yak fighter which interfered with the evacuation efforts."

"Several other Yak fighters were in the air in the area but did not make serious threats to interfere."

the announcement added. A Yak-3 fighter yesterday at-tacked a Mustang as it flew over Seoul. Observers said the Mus-tang escaped damage and drove off its attacker by turning and flying toward it ter-Nutsi I'm gettin' out of toward it.

Lumber, Minden Lumber, Capitol Ø Alderman Walter Musgrave voiced his opposition to the restriction, saying: "Salem will have to become conscious of its need to give something to industry, not always rob it." Alderman Thomas Armstrong urged caution and asked that logging and mill interests

By WARREN GOODRICH

in

(D

5

01

The overshadowing-and as yet Salem Present Pleas Loggers who spoke included ders. No-said the conference of re-

(Additional details on page 2)

