Valley's Flax Industry After New Methods

Placing the Willamette valley flax industry on a sound and profitable basis—particularly as far as cooperative flax plants are concerned—is among the outstanding problems now confronting the state linen and flax board and the state board of control.

Henry Crawford, chairman of the former group, said it was apparent that production and processing standards would have to be improved to solve a reportedly unsatisfactory situation.

First step in the program for rehabilitation of the Willamette valley flax program was taken here recently when the board of control approved a proposal of the linen and flax board to establish a pilot plant at the Santiam flax growers headquarters near Jefferson.

Purpose of this pilot plant, Crawford said, is to experiment with processing and production methods. He pointed out that the state flax industry at the penitentiary apparently was operating at a profit while the cooperative plants were having hard sledding.

The board of control also approved an appropriation of $8000 annually for two years, to be paid out of state flax funds, to carry on experiments and pay rental for the pilot plant. Funds from other sources also will be available.

The program also includes a campaign to create new markets through the possible manufacture of flax materials. Better grading facilities also were proposed. The latter part of the program stemmed largely from contacts with eastern flax buyers who held out a future for the Oregon cooperative plants provided their product conforms to the high standards of manufacturers.

Crawford said the pilot plant would be placed in operation probably within a few weeks and that considerable work along experimental lines would be completed during the current year.

Revolution in Ecuador Gets Quick Ending

QUITO, Ecuador, July 15 (AP)—A revolt against President Galo Plaza Lasso's government broke out at Guayaquil today, but the leaders were quickly arrested. Government reports said the capital and other cities were quiet tonight.

Officials said Carlos Guevara Moreno, chief of the popular front party and leader of the rebels, was being brought to Quito by plane. He and other revolt leaders will be held in prison pending a trial, a communique said.

The rebels, who included members of the Guayaquil civil guard, seized the radio station at Guayaquil, telephone and telegraph offices, local government buildings, the military district headquarters and arrested Lt. Col. Jorge Maldonado, chief of the army garrison.

The commander of an army battalion garrisoned at Guayaquil, however, set up machineguns around the troop barracks, sent out patrols and shortly afterward regained control of the radio station. He gave the rebels an ultimatum to surrender or face assault. The rebels quickly gave up.

Fair Sex Vets Asked to Enlist; Valley Women Start Inquiries

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Women who served during the war with the navy and marines were asked today to volunteer for active duty.

The marine corps said it wants the women to serve for an "extended" period within the United States, to relieve men in non-combat jobs.

The navy called for enlisted reservists to serve a 12-month hitch—particularly those Waves in petty officer grades who can serve as yeomen, and in communications, personnel accounting, storekeeping and hospital and dental work.

Willamette valley women are starting to window-shop at Salem recruiting stations, but so far none has signed on the dotted line.

That was the word Saturday from Salem's army, air force, navy and marine recruiters. All branches reported a smattering of queries from women in recent days. The air force said two had scheduled preliminary interviews and physical examinations at Portland.

Requirements appeared fairly similar for the different branches, varying mostly with age. The army-air force age bracket is 18-34; the navy 20-26, and the marines 20-30. Parents' consent is necessary for those under 21.

Applicants must have a high school education and be without dependants. Character of women applicants receives a careful scrutiny.

Job Payments Are Heavy But Reserve High

Heaviest payments in the history of the state unemployment compensation commission have caused unemployment reserves to decline by $10,347,473 during the first half of 1950, the commission said Saturday.

The new reserve total of $70,587,311, however, is higher than at any time except in 1945, 1947, 1948 and 1949. State checks between January 1 and June 30, 1950, reached $16,345,358, considerably more than in any similar period. This years combined total is 5.3 per cent higher than the first half of 1949.

Contributions Decline Although the sharp drop in the state's reserves came about mainly because of record output, contributions received from subject firms also declined materially, it was declared. Employer taxes and interest from the state's trust fund were $5,961,647 in the first half of 1950 as compared with $7,008,544 in the same period last year.

Receipts totaled $8,563,962 in the last half of 1949 and are expected to be around $7,000,000 during the remainder of this year, due to the recent reduction in average tax rate from 1.7 per cent to about 1.35 per cent.

Contributions to the state's unemployment fund in the past 15 years have reached $149,484, while the federal government has added $11,095,955 in interest on the balances. Cumulative benefits in 12 1/2 years are $89,082,735, of which more than $70,000,000 or nearly 79 per cent has gone to unemployed workers since the close of the war in August, 1945.

Payments Double About 50 per cent more recipients and about double the previous year's payments were among the new high marks established during the benefit year that closed with the end of June. Unemployment compensation totaling $25,902,151 reached 113,191 persons during the past 12 months as compared with $12,903,908 to 74,892 persons during the 1948-49 benefit year, and $7,753,771 to 48,316 workers in the first mid-year benefit period of 1947-48.

Trimming of Tree Leads to Death, Damage

EAGLE POINT, Ore., July 15 (AP)—A tree-trimming operation killed a man, a mule and interrupted power over a wide section of southern Oregon today.

Wayne Hickman, jr., 25, Eagle Point, was the victim. He cut a limb from a tall tree at his parent's house. The limb fell onto a 120,000 volt power line.

The line snapped back to kill Hickman, burning off his clothes, splitting the tree down the middle and searing an area under the tree.

One end of the line fell into a neighboring lot, killing a mule. Service of the California-Oregon power company was interrupted in Medford, Ashland, Grants Pass, the Illinois valley and as far south as Crescent City, Calif., for a half-hour period.
