

Church Camp Programs Are In Full Swing

Summer camp programs of several Salem churches are in full swing this month, with hundreds of boys, girls and adults participating.

About 80 girls went Monday to the First Christian church camp at Turner, for a week's camping. Just over their week at the same camp are 75 boys and girls of junior high age. Last week the camp had 92 senior high age youth in attendance.

The Christian church camp has at least one more camp week scheduled, for boys 10 to 12 years old. Strain to Leave

Pastor of the church the Rev. Dudley Strain, will take his family camping at a special family camp for northwest area churches at Greenacres, near Spokane. The Strains leave next week.

First Baptist church is represented this week by 18 boys 9 to 15 years old at the church camp at Cannon Beach, Ore. About the same number of youths 15 to 25 years old finished a camping week there last week end. Registration for a girls' camp at Trout Creek, Ore., August 7 to 14 is now being taken at the church office.

These camps are drawing also from the Hayesville and Four Corners Baptist churches.

30 at Camp Adams
Some 30 boys and girls from Knight Memorial and First Congregational churches have attended camping periods at Camp Adams near Molalla this summer. Camp for senior high age youths is in progress this week. An adult camp program is expected to attract many members next month.

Methodist churches of Salem have an active camping season, with some 21 camps arranged for this summer. During the past week end a group of 14 from First Methodist church were among young adult campers and their families at Camp Magruder near Tillamook.

A junior high age Methodist group will camp at Suttle lake, beginning July 23, with camping theme to be "Campers Around the World." Each group of eight to 10 children with their counselor will learn about the customs and importance of a particular country. At general programs these groups will pass on this experience to the other campers.

Spray Plane Hits at Salem Mosquitoes

Skeeters will sing a death song when they take a sip of the spray trailing from behind the airplane, above, skimming over Willamette slough behind the Oregon Pulp and Paper lumber mill early Monday morning. All mosquito breeding grounds in the Salem vicinity are being sprayed with a special insecticide which is harmful only to the needle-nosed varmint and a limited number of other insects. Aircraft of the Ace Flying Service will dump 800 gallons in the control effort by the city of Salem. (Photo by Don Dill, Statesman staff photographer.)

'White Angel' Of Salvation Army Dies

HARTSDALE, N. Y., July 17—General Evangeline Booth, 84, the "white angel" who followed her father's footsteps in Salvation Army work and as world commander of the organization he founded, died today at her home.

She had been ill for the past year. Death was caused by a heart ailment and hardening of the arteries.

Miss Booth was the daughter of General William Booth, who founded the Salvation Army in 1865. In the organization began as a child in London where her father preached in the slums.

A leader of the Salvation Army in the United States for 30 years, Miss Booth became international commander in 1934. She retired in 1939.

Portland Man Heads Sixth Reserve Unit

Col. Ryland E. McClung, Portland, Monday was appointed by Gov. Douglas McKay as commander of the Oregon National Guard Reserve's Sixth Oregon infantry regiment.

The governor previously had announced the appointment of Col. Armin E. Berger, Salem, to be commander of the Seventh Oregon infantry.

Brig. Gen. Harry C. Brumbaugh, commander of the Oregon National Guard Reserve, announced the officers who will make up part of his staff and explained the organizational plans for the guard reserves.

Appointments Named

Col. Donald L. Roberts, Portland, will be G-1 for the new addition to the civil defense units. G-2 will be Col. William Beveridge, Portland. Col. Alvie L. Merrill, Clackamas, will be G-4. Lt. Com. George Rausch, Portland, will serve as judge advocate general, and Maj. Irving I. All, Portland, provost marshal.

Gen. Brumbaugh said the guard reserve, when fully organized, would consist of more than 4,000 officers and men. The Sixth Regiment will be composed of units from Portland, eastern and north-west Oregon, while the Seventh regiment will represent cities from Salem to Ashland.

Enlistments, according to Gen. Brumbaugh, will be sought from those men over 17 years of age who would normally not be subject to selective service induction. No physical examinations will be required and enlistments will be accepted as soon as administrative and organizational details are completed.

Housing to be Arranged

Maj. Gen. Thoas E. Rilea, state adjutant general, indicated that arrangements for housing the new units will be made in existing armories in the state.

Gen. Brumbaugh said he was relying strongly on the veterans organizations to assist in the organization of the various companies. Organizational assistance already has been offered by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Governor McKay said he had received telegrams from local posts of both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars pledging their cooperation.

States Get Back $1 of $7.46 Paid To Government

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—A report issued by the Western Tax Council, Inc., today said the federal government collects on the average $7.46 in taxes from taxpayers in each state for every dollar returned by the government to that state.

Washington was among 22 states which paid more than $5 for every dollar the federal government returned to the state. Oregon was one of 10 states paying three to five dollars for every dollar returned.

The report said Washington and Alaska each paid $5.28 in taxes for every dollar returned by the government. Oregon paid $4.44.
