1,000 Masons Expected for Degree Meet

Approximately 1,000 Masons from over the northwest are expected Saturday night for the annual outdoor degree meeting on Bald mountain, 11 miles northwest of Salem, according to J. W. Booth, master of the sponsoring Salem lodge 4, AF&AM.

First section of the Master Mason degree will be conferred at 3 p.m. Saturday in Salem Masonic temple by a team from lodge 4. The second section, in full regalia, will be given at 8 p.m. at the outdoor session by Journal Masonic club of Portland.

Conducted in a natural amphitheatre in the Eola hills, the ceremony will be the fifth, each of which has attracted about 1,000 Masons from several states. Included among guests this year will be Oregon Grand Master Worth Harvey of Eugene and several other grand officers.

The area will be tyled or guarded by Masonic members of the Oregon Governor's guard from Salem and the Lane County Sheriff's posse from Eugene. Masons have been advised to take their topcoats to the program. The route will be signed from Salem's westside and from Rickreall on Salem-Dallas highway.

Rural School Districts Back New Budgets

School budget voting results turned in Saturday at the office of Mrs. Agnes Booth, Marion county school superintendent, showed that eight more districts had approved their budgets.

The voting took place Friday in 69 districts. Five districts had reported approval Friday night. Mrs. Booth's office did not have voting figures nor the total budget voted on in each district for the results turned in Saturday. Those districts which approved their individual budgets included Arbor Grove, Sunnyside, Rosedale, Macleay, Union and Raybell.

Results from St. Paul showed that union high school district 3 there approved its budget $2 to 0, and St. Paul school, district 45, approved by a unanimous 24 votes. Another union high district, North Marion County 6, approved its $69,000 budget by a vote of 117 to 13.

Voting on the separate budgets was necessary by the failure of the lump Marion county rural school budget over the county in two recent elections.

Radios Stolen From Shops

Thefts of radios from two Salem shops were being investigated Saturday by Salem police officers. A red portable radio was stolen from the West Salem radio shop, 967 Edgewater st., and a similar theft was reported at Warren's radio shop, 2017 Fairgrounds rd. In each case the radio was taken from a display window while clerks were busy in the rear of the store.
