New Neckwear Colorful and Varied, Touches of Velvet and Lace Used

By Sue Gardner

One of the most economical ways of extending your wardrobe is by adding a new bit of neckwear to a basic costume in your wardrobe. This past spring the little boy collar was news and you saw it on dozens of styles for wear all around the clock.

The neckwear for the fall and winter is far more varied in collar and fabric. Elegant touches of black velvet and lace appear in the new collars. Even the conventional revers have become petal shaped and gay taffeta additions to your basic frock.

The college girl or young business woman can add a warm and versatile accessory in a reversible checked black and white vestee with one side in black velvet. At the end of the day, the velvet side comes out on top and the addition of gay costume jewelry makes a dressy style out of a casual costume.

You will find reversible scarves with solid colors on one side and printed designs on the other. Collars will have a silk pique and a faille side.

Ottoman, a ribbed fabric, is back in the picture, and will be shown in pink with black cord loops and black buttons, as well as in gold with brown trimming for weeknits and dickey styles.

A simple frock becomes a dressy outfit with the addition of a lace bow on one shoulder. Ribbons are more varied than ever and can be manipulated into neckwear or bows for many colorful accents.

They will make the return trip by car.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Wallace

Hug are leaving today for Seattle to be week end guests of Lt. and Mrs. Henry Martin. Tonight they will attend a dinner at the Sand Point Naval Air station honoring Captain S. B. Johnson and Captain G. S. Graber.

SILVERTON—Invitations are in the mail for the wedding of Miss Sonya Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Bernard Johnson to Marvin Reinholdt of Woodburn. The ceremony will be read by the Rev. Joseph A. Luthro at Trinity Lutheran church Saturday night, August 26 at 8 o'clock. A reception will follow in the church social rooms.
