master sergeant or navy chief petty officer.

The house plan would make the payments retroactive to Aug. 1. Its cost is estimated at $242,000,000 from then to June 30, 1951. It would terminate April 30, 1953. The senate plan goes farther back, to July 1.

Cautioned Passengers Mrs. Katharine Edgar Bryon of

Washington, former Maryland congresswoman, cautioned the other passengers not to matches. She remembered that Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker had given the same advice to other passengers in an Eastern Airlines plane which crashed near Atlanta in February, 1940. Her husband, Rep. William D. Bryon, was killed in that crash.

Capt. Bob Baker, pilot, and copilot Bob Reinicke, both of Los Angeles, managed to get the wheels down despite loss of hydraulic pressure and much of the electrical system, and much of the electrical system, and made a fast landing. They said the fuselage was cut away by the propellor or part of the engine which vibrated off after the prop flew loose. How does it feel to have the top of your airplane ripped off at 21,000 feet altitude.

"In a situation like that," Baker said, "you just move over a little bit and let God take over."
