

Railroads Said Pessimistic in Buying Cars

Railroads apparently based estimates of future boxcar needs on the actual upsurge in demand, George H. Flagg, state public utilities commissioner, said Friday. Flagg said his department has launched a survey of the boxcar situation with four men in the field gathering direct information. "This department has never been satisfied with either figures as to the shortage or the distribution of cars in Southern Pacific territory," Flagg said. He pointed out that the SP had, on July 15, about 6,500 more cars in service than it owned. "Northern lines have not been treated as well, and the pinch is serious throughout the northwest," he added. Flagg quoted a memorandum from the interstate commerce commission describing the current boxcar shortage (about 35,000 daily) as the most serious ever experienced. The commissioner emphasized that capacity loading, prompt unloading and other measures should be adopted to bring about greater service. He also said it is vitally important that tens of thousands of old cars be repaired and pressed back into service. "There has been a misunderstanding, however, that cars have been unloaded at Pacific ports and returned east empty, Flagg said. "An ICC representative has assured me that this has been true only on long flat cars and then on the order of the military to meet the Korean situation," he pointed out. Flagg said his department's current survey of the boxcar shortage will be the basis of new orders and "any action we may take before the ICC in the future."

Johnson Asks For Doctor, Dentist Draft

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—The defense department today told congress it wants power to draft doctors and dentists through the age of 45. House hearings were called at once for Monday. Secretary of Defense Johnson wrote that volunteers have been few. He said his pool of 29,000 medical men in the reserves, many of whom had long service in the last war, will bear the burden of "substantial calls" expected in the next few months unless others are made subject to service. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house armed services committee, which will conduct hearings, introduced the draft bill as proposed by the military department. It would specify the order in which men would be called, as follows: 1. Those who participated as students in the army specialized training program and the Navy V-12 program during the last war, and who had less than 90 days active duty. Their education was largely paid for by the government. 2. Those so educated who served more than 90 days but less than 21 months. 3. Other doctors and dentists with no active service after Sept. 18, 1940. 4. Those who served the fewest number of full months in the armed forces. Johnson pointed out that the reserves include medical men who had given long service in the war and then "consented to have their names placed on the list of reserves who could be called in case of need."

Salmon Hordes Run in River

ASTORIA, Aug. 25 (AP)—Salmon are running in the Columbia in great hordes, gillnet fishermen reported today. Catches ranging downward from 3400 pounds, a year's high, were reported. Several of more than 3,000 pounds were brought to canneries. Sports fishermen dotted the river just inside the bar. They reported good catches, too. The run of salmon moved into the river from the ocean yesterday. It was the second big one of the year.

Portland Firm To Construct Salem Bridges

Contract for two new Salem bridges was let Friday by the city council to Lindstrom Brothers, Portland firm which submitted the low bid of $53,590. The bridges will span Mill creek on North Church street and on South 23rd street. Only other bidder, Barham Brothers of Salem, entered a bid $7,624 higher. Advertisers were called to special session to let the contract in order that the contractor might get to work on the projects immediately. The firm indicated also that it was anxious to get in its order for steel promptly. The bridge work on North Church street was long delayed by inability to attract bidders and by rejection of the lone bid received last year—a $43,600 bid for the one bridge alone. Only other action taken by the council was permission to the state fair for erecting a banner over North Capitol street to direct fairgoers east on Madison street in an attempt to ease expected congestion on the Pacific highway through north Salem during fair week.

Bridges Free; Views on War Unchanged

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Harry Bridges was released on $25,000 bail today from the county jail, where he had spent 20 days because the government believed him a menace to national security. Then he told a news conference that his views on the Korean war situation had not changed. "The situation in the Far East is not war," the leftwing CIO leaders declared. "It is more of a revolutionary situation. It is something like butting in on a fight between a man and his wife." He also talked of a third world war, said the national CIO leader who said he would call the special government prosecutor who obtained his conviction on perjury-conspiracy charges a "superpatriot." "If we follow through completely on the president's decisions with respect to Korea, Formosa, and the Philippines and Indochina, it inevitably means a third world war," Bridges said. "And if there is a third world war, it will last many, many years." Referring to Special Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue, the longshore leader said, "That superpatriot won't enlist and go to Korea to fight. If he does, well, I'll be glad to see him go." Bridges' $25,000 bail was revoked August 5 when Donohue called him a "menace" to the country's internal security in an impassioned plea to Federal Judge George B. Harris. Judge Harris, in revoking bail, said he agreed with the prosecutor that Bridges was and is a member of the communist party, and a danger to this country in prosecution of the Korean war.

Reds' Losses Staggering in Taegu Battle

(Story also on page one) TOKYO, Aug. 26 (AP)—A dispatch today from Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead gave the first overall summary of the thwarted seven-day communist bid for Taegu and the great cost exacted. The highlights: 1. U.S. Lt. Col. John Hector, an artillery commander, said three communist divisions, supported by an artillery regiment, an armed brigade of 40 tanks, a regiment of tank infantry and a motorcycle regiment, made the bid. These were estimated to total 50,000 men. 2. Since the fight for Taegu began August 3, the enemy has lost 30 tanks. 3. Friday night, artillery "chewed up" two battalions. 4. Col. Hector estimated the effectiveness of the three Red divisions had "been cut in half." 5. The nearest Red position is now about 12 miles north of Taegu, with South Koreans hitting it. 6. Gen. Paik Sun'ip, commanding the South Korean 1st division, and Col. Paul L. Freeman, Roanoke, Va., a U.S. regimental commander, agreed the Taegu crisis has passed; that the Reds were incapable of mounting a large-scale attack for 10 or more days—if then. 7. The South Koreans even turned the tables on the Reds, who had been using guerrilla infiltration tactics, and slipped five miles behind communist lines to shoot up a Red division command post. Associated Press Correspondent William Shinn reported today that South Korean naval units have struck two new blows at the Reds' seaborne supply lines along the south end of the Korean peninsula. They landed commandos on two more islands off the southwest tip, killed 26 Reds, destroyed eight supply ships, blew up 14 cargo boats and took 34 prisoners. New security regulations in force prevent identifying the islands in dispatches.

Arkansas Said Site of H-Plant

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—Rep. Tackett (D-Ark.) said today that he had been advised that Arkansas has been selected as the "potential site" for a part of the $200,000,000 hydrogen bomb plant. There was no confirmation of the report from the atomic energy commission, which is responsible for developing the H-bomb. Radio station KWEN at Fort Smith, Ark., earlier had broadcast that Arkansas had been definitely selected as the site for the plant. The station said bids of both Oregon and Alabama had been rejected.

31 Congressmen Support Plan for U.N. Police Force

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—Thirty-one congressmen joined in a resolution today urging the creation of a land-sea-air police force under the United Nations to combat aggression. Fifteen republicans and 16 democrats of both houses sponsored the move. Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.), a co-sponsor, told newsmen: "There are hundreds of thousands of volunteers throughout the world who want to join in the fight against the communist aggressors in Korea and elsewhere. This would permit them to help."

Hop Picker Demand High

A demand for pickers of early fuggles hops forced itself onto the Salem area labor scene Friday. The team program eased off but was far from ended. Picking of early hops has been going on for a week, mostly in the Independence area. The rush for cleaning these vines is caused by the prospect of starting to pick late hops within another week, according to W. H. Baillie, Salem employment service office manager. He said this was the first year that a plea has been necessary to get more fuggles pickers. The cool weather slowed maturing of beans long enough to let crews gain slightly, he added. Dispatched from the employment office Friday morning were 450 pickers, the largest crew sent out this year.

Survivors of Ship Sinking Tell Of Quick Exit from Sinking Ship

(Story also on page one) SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Soaked and shivering, the first rescued crewmen from the hospital ship Benevolence were brought here tonight after the big ship was hit by a freighter and reportedly sunk in heavy fog four miles off the Golden Gate. One army tug carried two bus loads of rescued, and reported they had six seriously injured. Leslie Simpson, 40, chief carpenter of National City, Calif., stationed at Mare Island naval shipyard, said he was in the wardroom when the collision occurred. "The Benevolence started listing almost instantly," Simpson said. "They began tossing life rafts and life preservers over the side. We had to jump." He said he landed in the water and swam to a life preserver and clung to that. The men in the water drifted away and Simpson said the last he saw of the Benevolence in the fog she was listing badly. Some of the men estimated they had been in the water about 2 1/2 hours when they were picked up by the Mary Luckenbach, the freighter which struck the Benevolence. Among the rescued here were 10 Navy nurses. The rescued also included a number of workmen who had been aboard the rehabilitated ship getting it ready for service. Most of the men appeared suffering from shock and exposure. They were soaked to the skin. Their teeth were chattering, making it difficult for the men to talk. Donald Polson, a merchant marine quartermaster, said he was at the helm of the Benevolence, following a set course, when the crash came. "The ship started heeling over. I went outside. I was the last man out of the bridge. Then I jumped over the side."

Oregon Turkey Crop Forecast Shows Decline

PORTLAND, Aug. 25 (AP)—Oregon turkey producers will have an eight per cent smaller yield this year while those in the rest of the nation are producing six per cent more birds than last year. The department of agriculture, which reported the figures, said an August 1 survey placed the 1950 yield at 1,828,000 birds, which is 10 per cent under the 1937-46 average for Oregon. The nation will produce a record crop—44,450,000 turkeys, six per cent more than last year. Record high prices and lower feed costs stimulated national production this year. The department reported that Oregon growers will market their fowl earlier this year. About 26 per cent will be moved by October, the report forecast.

Rubber Quota For Civilian Use Reduced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—The government today cut the use of new rubber for civilian products, starting September 1. This was the first production curb growing out of the Korean war. Commerce Secretary Sawyer, who ordered the cut, said it is "not drastic and will still permit the production of sufficient quantities of rubber products for normal civilian use." Commerce department officials said the action will probably reduce the output of tires—but not to the extent that should inconvenience civilians in their normal requirements. They said recent tire production has been more than the country really needed. The cut applies to the last four months of the year and is calculated by a complicated formula. Each manufacturer, during those four months, may use no more than four-twelfths of the amount of new rubber he used during the 12 months from July 1, 1949, through June 30, 1950. Also, he may not consume in any one of the four months more than 28 per cent of the total he is permitted for the four month period. The department said that on a national basis this will reduce new rubber consumption to about 90,000 tons a month. New rubber consumption in June was at the record level of 111,941.
