

$10 Billion Aid to 40 Nations Possible Theme of 5-Year Plan

By John Scall

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18-(AP)—President Truman may be asked to propose about $10,000,000,000 in economic aid to some 40 countries in the next five years to help block off communism.

This recommendation is reported to be the theme of a comprehensive survey of world conditions being prepared for Gordon Gray, special economic adviser to the president.

Informed officials told a reporter today that the study probably will be submitted to the White House in mid-October.

As it now stands, they said, it would ask the president to consider these main steps to raise world living standards while the United States helps its allies rearm:

1. Extend Marshall plan help to 19 western European areas for three or four years beyond the presently-scheduled cut off date of July 1, 1952. The annual rate suggested is around $1,500,000,000—the amount now believed necessary for the last year of the Marshall plan. There is some possibility this figure would be whittled after the first year or so.
2. Set aside from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000 for a coordinated economic aid program for nations in the middle east, south and southeast Asia.
3. Appropriate around $50,000,000 yearly to provide "technical assistance" to any nation needing it. This presumably refers to President Truman's "point four" program to help underdeveloped areas.

Kiwanians to Treat 200 Children to Football Game

Saturday will be National Kids' day, and Salem's Kiwanians are planning for unusual treats for large groups of youngsters. Theme of the day is "Child by Child We Build Our Nation."

The downtown club, with Gus Moore as committee chairman, will take 200 children to the opening Willamette university football game Saturday afternoon. They will include 35 from Chemawa Indian school, 35 from state school for the deaf, 30 from Woodburn Boys' school and 100 Salem children recommended by school principals as from families unable to afford such entertainment.

North Salem club, according to Archie Gardner, also will participate.

12 Pact Nations Welcome Joint Defense Plan

NEW YORK, Sept. 18-(AP)—The 12-nation North Atlantic council tonight "warmly welcomed" proposals for a combined international force adequate for the defense of freedom in Europe against communist aggression.

The council made its position known in a communique issued after three days of secret meetings here. Persons close to the council deliberations said that every member of the council making up the North Atlantic community favored the plans for a combined army, but that one or two wanted to consult their colleagues at home before making a final decision.

The council adjourned subject to the call of the chairman, U.S. Secretary of State Acheson, during the next two weeks. During that time the foreign ministers in the council will consult their governments about putting such a plan into effect, the communique said.

The statement made no direct reference to the long discussions in the council on the problem of arming German military units and putting them into this military force.

State Forester, County Clerk On Alerted List

(Story also on page one)
Marion County Clerk Harlan A. Judd and State Forester George Spaur, both activated with the 369th boat and shore regiment here Monday, are about ready to go to the chaplain concerning their civilian jobs.

Col. Spaur is commander of the unit and Maj. Judd is intelligence officer. Neither, of course, can be sure of their status with Uncle Sam until after their physical examinations.

Col. Spaur said he would take no action until October 15 when the unit will be activated. Prior to then he will have discussed the situation with the state board of forestry of which Gov. Douglas McKay is chairman.

"Depending on what the board thinks," said Spaur, "I will either resign my position or will be granted a leave of absence." His replacement will be up to the forestry board. Next in command is Deputy Forester Dwight L. Phipps.

Judd said he will apply to Marion county court for a military leave of absence. During his last leave of absence (1942-46) the court provided a clerk pro tem to take over Judd's duties.

Another vacancy in a top-notch post in the forestry department will be created when Lt. Col. Homer G. Lyon, jr., leaves. He is commanding officer of the 409th engineer brigade headquarters company, which was activated Monday with the 409th reserve unit. Lyon is executive assistant in the forest management division. He is in a local hospital where he underwent surgery Monday morning. Col. Spaur said he was "certain" Lyon would be ready to leave with his outfit in October.

The plan also calls for landscape treatment of the space between the south side of the capitol and State street.

Salem Night Classes Hold First Sessions

Most of Salem's evening classes for adults got off to a rousing start Monday night, according to George Porter, director of the adult education department of Salem public schools. Enrollment was not computed.

Porter reported that a few more students can be accommodated in business English, show-card writing and understanding your child.

Turnout for dressmaking was especially large, and three or more students are desired so that the class may be split into sections.

Arrangements have been made in the conversational Spanish course to accommodate both beginners and advanced students.

Porter reminded working teenagers who are required by law to attend night school that they must register tonight at room 29 of the Salem high school building.

Tough Anti-Red Bill Advances

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18-(AP)—Senate-house conferees agreed today on a "tough" communist-control bill and recommended that it be made a permanent law of the land.

A major feature would permit the mass round-up and jailing of suspected subversives in time of war or national emergency.

It provides, however, that persons seized under the act must not be confined with felons assigned to hard labor.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), chairman of the joint conference committee, immediately challenged any legal basis for the presidential veto of the measure. President Truman's attitude is a question.

... your PGE electric dollars stay at home

Seven million dollars was invested by PGE last year for new power facilities to serve you. Another 6 1/2 million is being spent this year. By the end of 1950, the total of new construction since 1945 will have reached $32,000,000!

We've said before that a big share of your electric dollar stays at home because it is paid out in the form of wages to PGE workers, taxes to local communities, dividends to local investors. New construction is another way in which your electric dollar helps to enrich and develop this area.

However, your electric dollars aren't nearly enough to do all the job, especially in these days when growth of the region is so rapid. Mostly the money for new construction comes from stockholders who invest their savings in the company, and from funds that are borrowed at the lowest interest rates possible.

But just like your electric dollar, a good part of these new construction dollars stay at home. Some are paid out in wages and salaries to construction employees. And a substantial part is spent with local manufacturers and local suppliers.

So, besides bringing you dependable, low-cost electric service, PGE is bringing jobs and incomes to thousands of your fellow citizens—another reason why electricity is your biggest bargain.

PGE spent more than 7,000,000 in new construction last year
