Physicals Set For Alerted Reservists

Salem army reservists in two outfits alerted Monday will travel to Eugene next Sunday for physical examinations.
The outfits are the Salem units of the 369th engineers and the 409th quartermaster.

Six officers took physical examinations at Eugene yesterday, but results were not disclosed.
They were Col. George Spaur, commander of the 369th; Maj. Harlan Judd, regimental intelligence officer; Maj. Keith Flory, training officer; Captain Ingvald Johnson, adjutant; Capt. Richard N. Chase, assistant training officer; and First Lt. Samuel R. Haley, boat unit commanding officer.

The two units have a combined strength of 78 officers and enlisted men. Members expect to be called to active duty about October 15.

Legion Plans Variety Show

A three-performance night variety and minstrel show is being planned by American Legion's Capital post 9 for October 19 to 21 at Salem high school auditorium.
A cast of 150 will be recruited locally under the supervision of an out-of-town director. Tryouts will be held October 4. Proceeds from the show will go into the post's welfare fund used for charitable purposes.

Chairman of the show is Charles Barclay assisted by Orval Lama. Tickets are to go on sale soon, Barclay said.

Rev. Clemens Elected by Salem Ministers

Receiving the group records is the Rev. Orval W. Clemens, second from right, after being elected president of the Salem Ministerial association Tuesday morning. The Rev. G. Wesley Turner, as past president, is giving the records to Rev. Clemens. Looking on are two of Salem's several new pastors, the Rev. Harold Black of the West Salem Methodist church at left, and the Rev. James L. Wilson of Jason Lee Methodist church. (Statesman photo.)

Ministerial Group Elects Rev. Clemens

The Rev. Orval W. Clemens, pastor of the First Church of God, was elected president of Salem Ministerial association Monday.

The association, representing about 30 churches, adopted resolutions favoring the proposed initiative measure which would prohibit the sale of promotionally advertised alcoholic liquor in Oregon and supporting the Salem Community chest.

Dr. Mark Getzendaner, pastor of St. Mark Lutheran church, was elected vice president and the Rev. W. H. Lyman, pastor of the Court Street Christian church, secretary-treasurer. The Rev. Clemens succeeds the Rev. G. Wesley Turner, pastor of Leslie Methodist church, as president.

Howard Wilson of the Oregon Temperance union, spoke on the advertising bill. The association appointed a committee to work with him in support of the measure. It includes the Rev. Walter Frederick, Assembly of God church; the Rev. Wilmer Brown, First Evangelical United Brethren church, and the Rev. Rudolph Woyke, Bethel Baptist.

The group voted to continue meeting at the First Congregational church on the third Tuesday of each month. A picnic for association members and their families will take place Friday at 5:30 o'clock at Leslie park.

New ministers in Salem who attended Tuesday included the Rev. James Wilson, Jason Lee church; the Rev. Harold Black, West Salem Methodist, and the Rev. Eugene Stowe, First Church of the Nazarene.

Folk Dancing Starts Tonight

Fall series of YMCA-sponsored folk dancing classes will open tonight in the "big gym" at the YM.

Mrs. Gertrude Ayres is instructor. The class from 7:30 to 8:30 is for advanced instruction; 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock for beginners and from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock for special requests.

The class will meet each Wednesday night. The present series will last eight weeks. When it is completed a new one will start.

Burglar Deserves Thanks for Efforts

MEDFORD, Sept. 19 - (AP) - The Ned Cloverdales would like to find out who broke into their house. They want to know why, possibly to thank them.

The couple had 16 Sunday dinner guests. After the meal, they stacked the dishes and went on a picnic.

When they returned, entrance to the house had been forced—and all the dishes were gone. Apparently nothing was missing.

Aurora Holdup Man, Parole Violator Held

A man wanted for violation of a federal parole granted after his admitted participation in a post-office holdup at Aurora in 1948 was jailed Tuesday in Salem.

Alfred Ecker, Monroe, gave himself up to Lane county authorities Monday and was brought from Eugene to the Marion county jail Tuesday by sheriff's deputies.

Ecker appeared in district court in Salem where the case was continued until today for preliminary examination. He has been formally charged with burglary not in a dwelling but deputies said they thought Ecker would be released to federal authorities.

Officers here said the "burglary—not in a dwelling" charge on which Ecker was arrested stemmed from alleged theft of materials other than stamps and money which were federal property during the 1948 holdup. He was held Tuesday night on $2,000 bail.

McKay Asks Job Saving For Veterans

Gov. Douglas McKay said Tuesday he would ask the legislature in January to hold jobs for state employees who enter the armed forces.

He said that because the United States is not technically at war, the state civil service law is not clear as to whether men and women going into uniform will be eligible for veteran status, and thus qualify for preference in job application, promotions and credits toward retirement.

"I will seek clarification of these points so that Oregonians in the service will be entitled to the same rights they were accorded for duty in World War II," the governor said.

He said 140 state employees and seven forestry department officials already have been called into the armed forces.
He said he refused to accept the resignation of the one high state official whose unit has been alerted for active service. The governor said he won't accept such resignations because "the state wants to do everything possible to insure that those who make these sacrifices for their country will have something to come home to."

Heifer Sale Set at State Fairgrounds

By Lillie L. Madsen

Thirty heifers from two months to milking two-year-olds, will be sold at the state fairgrounds Thursday, September 28, at the first Marion County Dairy Breeders association sale.

The association, which is active in both Marion and Clackamas counties, has headquarters at Silverton. Officers are Vernon Hepler, Canby, president; Melvin Lund, Silverton, vice president; Richard Barnes, Silverton, C. E. Eastman, Canby and Al Hassler, Sublimity, directors.

The sales committee is headed by George Kruse of Mt. Angel, with Elton Watts, Silverton; Roy Zimmer, Canby, and Felix Hassing, Aurora as additional committee members.

Guernseys outnumber the other two breeds offered. There are 15 Guernseys, 11 Jerseys and four Holsteins to be sold.
Consigning Jerseys are Paul Mann, Earl Schlar, Elton Watts, all of Silverton; Gordon Jones, Gervais; C. E. and Katherine Eastman, Canby; Rollin Maddock, Aurora, and Vernon Hepler, Canby.

Consigning Holsteins are Fred Jarvill, Lund Brothers, Sherman Hofstetter, Silverton; L. E. Jahn, Brooks; Earl Winingger, Hubbard; James B. Daugherty, Brooks; Roy Zimmer and D. H. Gardner, Canby; Albert Deihl, Mt. Angel.

The sale will start at 12 noon and will be held by Ben Sudtel of Hubbard with Ben A. Newell, Salem, as sales committee secretary.

Higgins Pleads Innocent of Theft

George Higgins, a cottage supervisor at Woodburn Boys school, pleaded innocent in Marion county district court Tuesday to a charge of larceny by embezzlement involving alleged theft of irrigation sprinkler heads from the school.

Preliminary hearing was set for 10 a.m. next Monday. Higgins is freed on $750 bail.

He said he refused to accept the resignation of the one high state official whose unit has been alerted for active service. The governor said he won't accept such resignations because "the state wants to do everything possible to insure that those who make these sacrifices for their country will have something to come home to."

Play 'Harvey' Set Nov. 27

"Harvey," the invisible rabbit, is coming to Salem November 27, the Salem 20-30 club announced Tuesday night.

The play is one of three Civic Drama guild productions the 20-30 club will sponsor this season. Others are "Born Yesterday" on February 19, and "I Like It Here" on May 14.

Howard Etwood has been appointed chairman of the series of promotions. He replaces William Sullivan who has been alerted for duty with the army reserves.
Other 20-30 members slated to go with the army reserves soon are Dall Sullivan of the Sullivan Realty firm and Robert Gray, a partner in the Valley Farm store.
