Variety 'Mum' Field Day Set For Corvallis

More than 350 named varieties of chrysanthemums in addition to several hundred unnamed seedlings will be on display at the Lewis-Brown horticultural experimental farm near Corvallis, Sunday afternoon, October 1, starting at 2:30. Henry Hartman, Oregon State college horticultural department head, has announced.

The "mum" field day on the college experiment station is being held in connection with the second annual Corvallis early chrysanthemum show.

Early Varieties Listed

Dr. E. J. Kraus, horticultural consultant and hybridizer of approximately 65 commercial chrysanthemum varieties, will conduct visitors through the experimental area and discuss work underway to develop new winter hardy, early blooming and frost resistant varieties. The chrysanthemum trials cover approximately three-quarters of an acre and will be in peak bloom for the field day, Dr. Kraus states.

The several hundred seedlings which will be in bloom represent pollinizations made last fall.

Show Also Planned

The Corvallis show, sponsored by the Corvallis Women's Garden club, the Men's Garden club of Corvallis, and the Corvallis Chrysanthemum society will be held in the Franklin grade school auditorium. Exhibits will be on display both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, September 30 and October 1.

Dr. Kraus has announced that a number of seedlings for which names are desired will be shown and the public will be invited to suggest names for the new varieties. Persons suggesting names accepted will receive plants.

Representing every color of the rainbow with the exception of blue, the chrysanthemums to be on display represent both early

Plans Complete for Mt. Angel 1950 Community Chest Drive

By Loretta Dehler
Statesman News Service

MT. ANGEL—The quota for the Mt. Angel's 1950 Community Chest is $1,600. This includes the amount to be given for county relief and also an estimated amount to be used for local welfare work. Leo Traeger is campaign chairman for the 1950 drive.

Organization of the Mt. Angel Community Chest last year made it possible for the first time for the city to dispense aid to local people as needed without seeking out a local benefactor to sponsor it.

The directors and chairman met at the city hall to outline plans for the coming drive. Solicitors were named for the various districts and are asked to attend a general meeting in the city hall Tuesday night, September 26, when drive material will be distributed and campaign plans completed.

More than $250 was given in relief to Mt. Angel people in 1949. Two quarts of milk a day was distributed to one family for two months; three families were assisted with groceries and meat throughout the winter and five families were helped with clothing and shoes. Twenty-two children received clothing and shoes.

DRIVER FINED—William O. Dylbeik was fined $250 and costs, given a 30-day jail sentence and had his license revoked for a year Tuesday on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Kenneth Brown, police judge, suspended the jail sentence upon payment of fine and costs.

GRANGE TO MEET—The Macleay Grange will meet in the grange hall at 8 p.m. Thursday, September 28, for a discussion as to the formation of a degree team, leaders have announced.

TEACHER INJURES ARM—FOUR CORNERS—Mrs. Kathleen Toyce, second grade teacher at Lincoln school slipped and fell Wednesday morning during fire drill, dislocating her right elbow and suffering a possible fracture. She was taken to Salem General by the Salem first aid car. Claudia Donnelly, school nurse was present and cared for Mrs. Toyce until the arrival of the first aid car.
