

Autumn Fashions Holding the Limelight as New Season Starts

Teen-Age Hats Cute, Colorful

Hat fashions for the teen age girl this fall are colorful, comfortable and mighty cute.

Although their shapes are simple, crowns are a little deeper or higher so that they sit securely on the head; and the lively new colors are enriched by deep-textured felts and fabrics.

Favorite fall silhouettes include the straightforward pillbox, the artist's beret, the derby, the visor cap, the helmet, the cloche and the bonnet. Higher crowns are deep and smoothly rounded or gently pleated and tucked. Brims are softly curved, cushioned and rolled for utmost flattery.

While young hats are uncluttered, they are seldom completely untrimmed. Ribbon bands, often in two or three harmonizing or contrasting colors, give the tailored felt clothes and derbies a finished look. Narrow pipings of grosgrain or velvet highlight the curve of a brim or the turn of a crown.

Miniature "jewels," tiny glittering animals, pearl or rhinestone teardrops or a flashing "solitaire" set into the deep-piled felt at the front of a pillbox are used singly, for accent at a strategic spot and look almost real. Tiny veils add glamour to festive hats for holiday parties.

Brilliant geranium pink, golden jasmín, South Sea copper, Yangtze clay and Pagan green are high shades in high fashion this fall. Orangey tomato red, clear scarlet, kelly green and royal blue are more exciting than ever in deep-textured felts and velours.

Dram-sized Furs Border Season's Smartest Clothes

Dram-sized furs border the season's smartest coats and suits.

Noted on suits are tiny Eaton collars and cuffs of seal. Rib-clearing box jackets have thin margins of Persian lamb, front center.

Little ties of mink and ocelot spice coat collars. Fur is its most flattering close to the face, hence deep cape-collars of beaver and nutria and small ascots of ermine.

IRONING TIPS
Pockets show up to best advantage when ironed first on the wrong side, then finished on the right side with a press cloth. Collars, cuffs and ties, should also be ironed first on the wrong side. Start at the outside points and iron toward the center, holding the fabric taut. If the fabric has a tendency to shine, finish it on the right side with a press cloth.

New 1951 Nash Goes on Display Today

Redesigned inside and out, the new Nash Ambassador and Statesman models for 1951 go on nationwide display today at all dealers, including the Marion Motor company at 333 Center st., in Salem. Featured in the new front-end styling is a grille with convex bars. Appearance of greater length is attained with elongated rear fenders forming vertical fins. Tail and directional signal lamps have been moved outward to the edge of rear fenders. Numerous mechanical and interior features have been added.

New Styling, Mechanical Aids Featured

DETROIT, Sept. 21—New 1951 model Nash cars featuring distinctive styling and a score of mechanical improvements go on public display in dealer showrooms tomorrow.

First of Nash Motors' 1951 Airflyte line to be announced, the new Ambassador and Statesman sedans and club coupes will sell in the low-medium and medium price ranges. Low price Nash Rambler custom convertibles and station wagons were introduced earlier this year.

According to H. C. Doss, vice-president in charge of Nash sales, "demand for Nash cars continues steadily upward and 1951 orders again may exceed increased production." Output of 1950 models climbed above record 1949 levels by 32 per cent. A pioneer manufacturer, Nash is entering its 49th year of automobile production.

Notable 1951 model design changes include new front end styling and elongated rear fenders that form streamlined vertical fins. The rear fenders create an appearance of greater length with a racy horizontal line from front fenders to the upper tip end of rear fenders. Tail and directional signal lamps, moved outward from the trunk lid location of 1950 models, now are mounted in rear fenders. The trunk lid's chrome trim incorporates a flush type lock and indirect lighting for the license plate, Doss said.

A puppet show in Salzburg, Austria, is accompanied by a full orchestra and the singing of real opera stars.

Paint It Yourself If Budget Demands

The young couple stymied at every turn by the budget do well to furnish their home with unpainted furniture, colored and combined to their taste.

One maker of unpainted pine furniture, offers a basic multiple unit of eight pieces that can be adapted to dinette, living room or bedroom. Four chests of drawers, two cabinets, two bookcases plus three bases are the key parts.

They are coordinated in design, so that each part appears meant for the part it is coupled with. For instance, a two door cabinet joined to a base makes a lowboy; add a hutch top and it's a breakfast; substitute a three drawer chest for the hutch and there's a nursery wardrobe closet.

There's Charm In That Compact

With the proper technique, and an attractive compact, the simple procedure of "powdering your nose" can become a vital part of your allure.

To keep your compact gleaming and scratch-free, always keep it in a little flannel bag.

Be sure your puffs is always clean and fresh and try to pat the excess powder off the puff after using, so you won't be staring into an opaque mirror the next time you powder your nose.

THOSE RED FLANNELS
The return of long red flannel underwear, if not to the coal mines at least to the ski lodge, arrives for men at least eight years later than it did for the ladies, but still provides warmth and conversation.

Dressier Look Of Fall Extends To Men's Shoes

With many fall suits and topcoats taking on a dressier look, shoes of necessity, are following suit, says the National Shoe Institute.

The new dressed up feeling will increase men's demand for the town or custom-type of last. Medallion and wing-tip brogues will be more in evidence than moccasin-front shoes to accompany the new dark suits. These shoes look best in the dark brown leathers.

Many young men, who formerly wore one pair of brogues for everything and thought of black shoes as an old fashioned whim of grandfathers, are buying them this year to wear with their dark grey flannels and navy worsteds to business and out to dinner after five.

Smooth leathers and thinner soles characterize the shoes for wear with the fall's slightly more formal "cited" dress.

Even semi-sport suitings will be shown in colors and patterns suitable for city wear. These suits will of course, take a slightly more rugged kind of footwear, and leather soled Cordovan-finished calf brogues will be in the spotlight for urban occasions.

Give Chic To Your Fingers

With your nails well groomed and the color of your nail polish in tune with your costume of the day, you can stride into the new fall season assured that you are truly "in step with the fashions."

For best groomed nails a weekly manicure on your beauty schedule is a necessity. As a memory refresher, Cutex gives the essential steps.

First, take off your polish with cotton pads, using an oily polish remover. Hold this on your nail for a few seconds and wipe firmly down towards the nail tip.

Shape your nails with an emery board. File from each side of the nail toward the tip, careful to avoid working too close to the corner.

Your nails deserve a good scrubbing now. Wrap an orangewood stick in cotton and dip into oily cuticle remover. Work your cuticle back very gently, starting from the base of the nail at the center and working up and out.

Then go over your nails again with oily polish remover on a cotton pad. This prepares the surface for your application of base coat, two coats of nail brilliance polish and overcoat.

Top it all off with a good massage with hand cream and you're finished.

Now, with your nails so well groomed, you can be a color adventurer and enjoy a nail polish wardrobe!

NEVER A SLIP!

A heavy-duty bathtub mat removes the danger of slipping in the tub, while affording the bather more comfort. Suction cups on the underside anchor the mat firmly to the tub. The mat comes in black, white and decorator pastels.

New Boxes Keep Jewelry Orderly

Keep your jewelry orderly, visible, and easily accessible in one of the new jewelry boxes with specially provided earring blades.

The transparent top and blades of the box are molded of sturdy styrene plastic, as is the base. Each blade holds four to six sets of earrings, and removal of either blade by bending it upwards at the middle permits storage of additional jewelry in the base.

The box is available in flecked rose-pink, silver-blue and in solid colors.
