

Luxurious Fall Fabrics Available in Many Colors and Textures

New Kinds Of Surface Presented

The feeling is depth in this fall's fabrics. Fashion's lawn mower has cropped last year's shag rug surfaces down to curly and downy planes. Velvety textures are evidenced in silk, cotton, rayon on through to surprise fabrics like wool jersey and lace. In ballroom fabrics, the magnificent body is traceable to the high quota of silk.

The touch of woollens is thick, soft and piled. Their thickness is almost weightless as though loomed with air. Their softness is bodied for a wonderful effect of flow.

Patterned Surfaces

Then there are fabrics as furzey as hatter's plush. Silk and rayon velvets now have broadloom patterned surfaces. Corduroy, because you wisely request it, is found in every wale, wide and generously spaced or close and silky as velvet. Powder puff fleeces, were born to be a belted wrap coat.

And there are the new chinchillas with the merest suggestion of a raised nub. Or elegant veloury double cloth coatings that present two fuzzy sides for "Look ma, no lining" warmth.

Tweed designs are predominantly tiny with the majority leaning to diagonal, cobblestone and stepped treatments.

Jersey Mimics

Wool jersey makes faces, successfully mimicking velvet, boucle and crepe. It can also be had with the look of chamois, and is often seen in a fool-the-experts heringbone tweed. You only know jersey is jersey this fall by its characteristic elasticity.

Rayon with its new elaborate treatment rivals the now prevalent silk as a luxury fabric. It appears as a regal brocade, as a metallic threaded taffeta and as the popular tissue faille.

Always a favorite, silk, is available at moderate prices in taffeta, satin, serge, crepe and ottoman.

Dress weight woollens are thin as tracing paper. The addition of rabbit's hair gives a misty outline to dress wools and rayons. From tiny patterned sheers can come your pet classic shirtwaist. From wool hosiery a skirt can grow.

Fall Styles Suited for Junior Miss or Mrs.

A check on styles for the fall proves that things have taken a definite turn for the better as far as the long-neglected Junior Miss or Mrs. is concerned.

There are exciting talking points to every fall outfit designed for juniors.

Lucky junior sizes can wear the over-sized hip pockets and flaring peplums that are top fashion items. They also look well in the tremendous plaids in melting combinations of grey and red, blue and green, and orange and grey. Even their severe black dresses have unexpected touches of color in redlined cuffs.

Brilliant orange peel, lemon peel and saffron yellow are more of the colors that promise to make fashion news for the juniors this year.

Modern Sewing Favorite of Hobbies

Ask women to name their favorite hobbies and you'll probably get most votes for handwork or needlework.

Modern needlework is functional, and women, whether teen agers or grandmothers, like to make things they can use.

A recent survey shows that embroidery, crocheting and knitting rank first as needlework hobbies. Runners-up are rug-hooking, needlepoint and weaving. The items women like best to make are sweaters, household accessories, baby articles and fashion accessories.

New Shoe Style For Every Age

Shoe designers have been devoting their drawing boards to the younger crowd and this fall there is a gay new style for every teenage costume and activity.

Color is the big news in Back-to-School shoes, says the National Shoe Institute. Polished blonde, golden and tan leather shoes have been designed to go with the many tweeds, jerseys and corduroys in the orange color range.

Wine is high-fashion and goes perfectly with grey flannels. Bright red shoes in the classic category this year are gay accents for navy blue pleated skirts, blazer packets, cardigan sweaters and coats.

Trim navy blue oxfords of brushed leather with cushiony crepe soles look well with these school separates too; other brushed leather shoes are made-to-order for wear with the fashionable suede vest.

Plaid-mad teen agers will be running gay plaid shoe laces through their oxfords this fall, matching them to tartan skirts and dresses. Another accessory trend is shiny "gold" shoe buckles, usually seen on moccasin or monk type shoes.

"Flats" still head the list for casual wear and square dancing; other parties bring out graceful little shell pumps of suede, patent leather and shining calf.

Bridal Gowns of '50 Convertible

Here comes the autumn bride and this season she's lovelier than ever in a delicately hued gown that's easily convertible to other gala occasions.

Antique, a deep cream, off-white, blush pink and ice blue are the bride of this fall's selection for a gown that is readily convertible to an evening dress or hostess gown.

The bride of fall '50 also promises to be a more informal bride. She will wear a shorter length gown, that often omits a train entirely, in classic lace or dull satin, renaissance, victorian, classic, modern or casual in mood, and delicately appliqued with flowers and leaves.

A lace capelet, a lavish jabot or an elaborately beaded collar on her gown adds elegant accent interest to the bride's more informal wedding attire.

Bathroom Has Color Theme In Modern Homes

Color applied generously to your bathroom can easily transform it from "utilitarian" to pleasant and inviting.

Fashion no longer decrees that every home, regardless of decor, present a clinical, unrelieved, white bathroom. Now, decorators and manufacturers make it possible for you to have a bathroom that reflects your pet decorating themes.

The simplest way to inject color is with towels. If you have white walls, try intense colors like emerald, flamingo or turquoise. If you have striped or plaid papered walls, choose white towels with the border stripe repeating a minor color. Pair the new floral embroidered towels with solid color towels in one of the flower colors. Consider personalizing your bathroom further with monogrammed towels.

Do your guests shake their hands dry rather than dampen your fragile guest towels? Soft non-woven cotton and rayon towels in gay patterns that can be disposed of after use give guests something to grasp onto with an easy conscience.

Hostess Pajamas Popular

What to wear for the increased number of evenings spent at home has fast become an interesting but easy to solve problem.

Manufacturers of at-home wear, conscious of the need for casual hostess gowns and pajamas have come forth with some mighty wearable designs for this fall and winter.

Selected by most manufacturers as practical and "right" are at-home separates. They are simply to do, simple to vary and are being introduced in a large variety of attractive styles, colors and fabrics.

Velvet pajamas that come with a detachable as well as reversible apron are typical and glamorous for evenings in front of the fire.

Following the trend toward mock furs is a zebra striped blouse and slacks ensemble that can be alternate with a solid-tone, scoop-neck blouse and skirt. Straight-line, full-length quilted or tailored wool coats in solids and plaids and often with gay, contrasting linings, come with matching pajama sets and can also be mixed and matched with other pajama sets or worn alone.

Unusual is a sleeveless culotte set of pastel puckered sheer cotton. This has demure touches of ruffly trim and on chilly evenings, can be worn with a matching loose-sleeved jacket, included with the set.

Here's a Tip for Removing Stain

You should know how to remove egg stains from your rayon clothing.

First, scrape off as much as you can with a dull knife. Do not use hot water as it will set the stain.

For non-washable rayon, sponge with cold water. If a grease spot remains, sponge with a carbon tetrachloride cleaning fluid.
