Glass Designed by American Designer, Adapted for Modern Homes

By Sue Gardner

Alban Conway, an American designer, has taken a centuries old technique of brown glass, and adapted it to fine glass accessories for contemporary homes. Conway visited Italy last year and watched the process of Venetian glass blowers of Murano. They were making rocco and baroque patterns from the days of the Renaissance in a method that does not allow the hands to stop until the piece is completely shaped.

Conway studied the process and then designed a collection of fine vases, bowls, candlesticks, centerpieces, decorative flowers and ashtrays in colorful hues and shapes. The pieces, all of which are made in Italy, are in such a wide range of colors and styles that they fit into many periods. The first group is now ready for distribution in this country and more will be available from the Italian craftsmen. A fluted bowl in white glass with sulphur yellow stripes and matching yellow vases is among the show pieces in the Conway collection.

"We'll have to use uranium for this yellow group, so I don't know how long we will continue it," the designer said.

However, he also has available vivid cardinal reds, gold and silver flaked pieces, and pastels. His heavy glass ashtrays come with glass pestles to stamp out cigarette butts. They are almost too beautiful to use for ashes, being in shaded tones of red and amber, or green. For centerpieces, Conway has designed shallow glass bowls with intricate flowers. One has white musk roses flaked with gold, and these flowers are shown with matching glass candlesticks. The Conway candlesticks are made with a removable shelf just below the candle part and this makes for an unusual silhouette. Many of his larger vases make fine lamp bases, especially the cardinal red ones.

Lieske-Becker Vows Read

The marriage of Miss Doris E. Becker and Eugene F. Lieske was solemnized at the Bethel Baptist church on September 10 at 3 o'clock with the Rev. Woyke and the Rev. Frederick officiating. Miss Ruth Giese was the organist and Mrs. Christine Cuen sang. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Becker of Bismarck, North Dakota and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lieske of Salem.

The bride's gown was of white satin and lace and her fingertip veil was lace edged and held by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with camellias.

Miss Jeanette Durant was the bridesmaid and wore a rose taffeta gown and carried a pastel nosegay. Joe Ann Lusha, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. William Lieske, jr., nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

William Lieske was his brother's best man and ushers were James Sheldon and Robert Morris.

The bride's mother wore a wine afternoon gown with grey accessories. Mrs. Lieske chose a grey gown with navy blue accessories.

A reception was held in the church parlors. Assisting were Mrs. Florence Fawk, Mrs. Irving Becker of Olympia, and Mrs. William Lieske.

After a wedding trip to Washington the couple will be at home in Salem. For traveling the bride wore a grey suit with beige accessories.

Two more names to be added to the list of pledges recently announced include Susan Perry, daughter of the Kenneth Perrys, a pledge of Delta Gamma at the University of Oregon, and Robert Hamblin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Chester W. Hamblin, who pledged Beta Theta Pi fraternity on the University of Washington campus.

Music Clubs Plan Events

Federated Music clubs of Salem held their first fall luncheon meeting on Tuesday at the Marion hotel with Mrs. Ronald Craven, president, presiding. Plans for the coming year were discussed.

The annual tea sponsored by the group will be December 3 and is a benefit for the Mrs. Walter Denton Memorial fund. The group decided to cooperate with James Sample, director of the Portland Symphony, in helping to further interests of the symphony in Salem.

The Federated clubs will sponsor six monthly recitals during the year with students participating. The first one will be in November and one will feature ensemble numbers.

Mrs. Craven announced her committee chairmen for the year as follows: membership, Miss Ruth Bedford; ways and means, Victor Palmason; telephone, Frederick Wilson, Mrs. Mary Kiely, Mrs. Victor Palmason; publicity, Miss Lena Belle Tartar; and December tea, Mrs. David Eason.

Attending were Mrs. Craven, Mrs. Clyde Gilbert, Mrs. Kenneth Rich, Mrs. Nettie Larson, Mrs. Harvey Gibbons, Mrs. David Eason, Mrs. Fred Rawlins, Mrs. Mary Kiely, Miss Elma Weller, Mrs. Adeline Bradt, Miss Dorothy Pearce, Miss Alice Arnold, Mrs. Jessie Bush Mickelson, Miss Lena Belle Tartar, Miss Ruth Bedford and Frederick Wilson.
