

Survivors of Massacre Tell Of Slaughter

By Don Whitehead
(First part of story on page 1)
SUNCHON, North Korea, Oct. 21-(AP)—From the lips of survivors today came the story of the massacre of 68 American prisoners of war in a North Korean field.

The 68 men, along with 21 survivors, were taken from a train carrying them to Manchuria and slaughtered with an hour-long torrent of bullets.

Upon rushing to the scene with Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, the first American to greet us was Pfc Jaldor John of Milwaukee.

I gave him a cigarette and asked him what had happened.

"They shot us all," he gasped. "They took us off the train. They said we were going to eat chow in a Korean house. Then they set us down and began shooting."

John hung his head and sobbed, "I played dead and I heard them shooting all around."

Then he pointed to a gully a few feet away.

"They are in there."

Bodies of 17 Men
We walked into the dim shadows of the little ravine into a scene of horror. The thin bodies of 17 men sprawled on the ground. On top of the pile—as though trying to claw his way to freedom—lay the body of a big negro boy.

For a moment in the shadows it seemed no one was alive. Then I saw a youth looking up at me. He was propped against the bank among the dead, weak and pale. His eyes were trying to smile. He was Cpl. Dale Blake of Hutchinson, Minn.

"Oh God, so glad you came." Tears coursed down his cheeks. "I didn't think anybody would ever find us."

Tucker gave him a cigarette and told him to sit quietly and wait for the Red captives to take them to the same place.

Then a weak voice came from the bank above us. Through the weeds crawled Pvt. Ray Hanchey of Wallace, N. C., he had a leg wound but was not seriously hurt. He told the same story as the others. They had been taken out of the train about 6 p. m. Friday to supper—and were shot.

We made them as comfortable as possible and started out to look for other survivors. Across the field I saw other bodies. They were lying in the corn field. The wind rustled the dry stalks about them. There were 15 dead in this group.

From their postures, they had been sitting in the cornfield in a circle waiting with their bowls for their food when the Reds opened fire. Blood still was wet on their clothing. Their bodies had the same starved appearance as the others.

Other Survivors
Just then General Allen yelled from a ridge top that he had found some other survivors. Tucker and I started toward the ridge, when out of the bushes came Private John Martin, of Ferrisdale, Mich., Melvin Rookstool of Nya, Ore., and Eugene Jones of Herrin, Ill.

Martin and Rookstool were helping Jones, who was the weakest. They stumbled across the plowed field. Like scarecrows, their clothing hung to their thin frames.

Jones saw us and cried: "Look! Americans! They're Americans! Then he fell to the ground."

On the ridgetop, General Allen sat with six other surviving GIs. The general's eyes were wet.

"Great Day!"
"It is a great day, boys," he kept repeating. "I just wish we could have been here soon enough to save the others."

These six were Privates John Toney of Kirksville, Mo.; Max F. Reid of Winnboro, Tex.; Roy G. Sutherland of Cameron, Va.; James Yeager of Grand Junction, Colo.; and Pfc. Raymond Rindels of Shell Rock, Iowa; and William Henninger of St. Paul, Minn.

Rindels was wounded in the side but will live. He had crawled on hands and knees in the valley below to hide after the Reds had left him and his buddies for dead.

The six were found by Allen and by two American soldiers in the South Korean Sixth division—Maj. Harry Fleming, Racine, Wis., and Capt. Alfred Olson, Columbus, Ohio.

Heath Sure Of French Win In Indochina

By Seymour Topping
SAIGON, Indochina, Oct. 22-(AP) United States Minister Donald R. Heath, at his first meeting today with Chief of State Bao Dai, expressed confidence in ultimate victory for the French-sponsored Vietnam over the communist-led Vietminh forces.

Heath presented his credentials to the ex-emperor at a ceremony in the palace at Dalat. The ceremony had been delayed by the five-months absence of Bao Dai in Southern France. Heath presented his credentials to King Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia when he arrived in Indochina last July.

The American minister told Bao Dai "the eyes of the free world are fixed on Vietnam" in its struggle against the troops of Soviet-trained Ho Chi Minh. Heath said the communist foe is "strongly backed by foreign arms and money," and added:

"With confidence I look forward to a coming day when a free and pacified Vietnam may resume its place as a great economic and political power in the busy area of the world which is southeast Asia."

Vietnam is composed of the Associated States of Vietnam (Greater Annam), Laos and Cambodia.

Heath told the Vietnam chief of state the United States had undertaken a program of military and economic aid which would help to activate new units of the Vietnamese national army and assist "in the fight to eradicate misery and disease," which, he said, was increasing every day in the Chinese border area where French forces have abandoned six outposts in the past month.

To Confer With Bao Dai
The American minister, with his senior aides, will confer with Bao Dai, Premier Van Huu and other top Vietnamese officials at the heavily-guarded palace which Bao Dai makes his home and headquarters.

The relations between the Vietnamese government and the French have reached a crisis, with the French demanding concessions toward fuller national independence.

Meanwhile, a French military spokesman said the withdrawal of the garrison at the frontier headquarters of Langson, the latest post to be evacuated, was proceeding without serious fighting.

The French are taking up new positions along the Red river delta, before the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong, in open terrain, where they can bring into play planes, tanks and other heavy weapons.

Statement Issued
Continuation of the heavy censorship imposed on military news was approved today by France's top civil chiefs for Indochina, French cabinet minister for Indochinese affairs Jean Letourneau, who told newsmen:

"The censorship is intended only for military matters, but honestly speaking I must say military matters are integrated with political."

Letourneau said he could give no assurance that the censorship will be limited only to military news, and added:

"You Americans have to realize that we are fighting a war."

Red Premier Fled Prior to 'Fight' Speech

By Barbara Brines
PYONGYANG, Korea, Monday, Oct. 22-(AP)—North Korean Communist Premier Kim Il Sung and his government fled this captured Red capital the day before a fight-to-the-finish broadcast was made in the premier's name.

Rin Duk Chung, newly appointed acting mayor of Pyongyang, said Premier Kim and his top officials left the city Oct. 10.

The next day the Pyongyang radio broadcast Kim's order to all North Koreans to "fight until the final day of victory." This was interpreted as the Red Korean government's answer to General MacArthur's two broadcast demands that they surrender.

Kim said the final exodus of Russian military and civilian officials from Pyongyang was made Oct. 10 and 11.

Other parties of Russians left July 1 and August 16.

Kim, a schoolteacher, said he did not know how many Russians had been stationed in Pyongyang. But he said their influence was great and their presence was indicated by everything from Russian signs to a stock of Russian perfume in a downtown department store.

Clark Says U.S. 'Dug Deep' to Fight in Korea
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22-(AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, chief of the army field forces, tonight said the United States "scraped the bottom of the barrel" to carry on the war in Korea.

The hero of the allied fight in Italy during World War II told the Variety club of Pittsburgh the U. S. "told the world we had ten divisions before the outbreak of war in Korea."

But those divisions were two-thirds of all strength and under-equipped, Clark said.

"We left only a mobilization base in this country," the general declared.

General Clark said every American soldier will be trained as an infantryman, adding:

"We learned in Korea because of the enemy's infiltration tactics that every man must do his own fighting."

The ground army's boss said four national guard divisions recently federalized will be at combat strength in seven months.

Clark declared the "over-optimistic reports" of new weapons which he said were circulated prior to the Korean fighting. He declared: "We fought the Korean war with weapons of World War II."

We do have new weapons in the making—but it will be seven or eight months or two or three years before they will be produced in quantity."

Rejection of Russ 'Peace' Bid' Forecast

By Wes Gallagher
FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 23-(AP)—Outright rejection of the Soviet bloc's latest "peace bid" and a race between East and West to rearm divided Germany appeared certain tonight.

Laboring in nearby Prague under the cold eye of Soviet Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov, Soviet satellite foreign ministers approved last night a 2,000-word trade agreement with the West and a four-point Soviet proposal for a German settlement.

No one here—British, French, American or German—saw any hope of negotiations growing out of the Soviet bloc's plan, nor anything new in the charges of the West is rearming Germany.

The Soviet-directed Prague show was viewed more as propaganda than diplomacy and designed to achieve these effects:

(1) Frighten the West, particularly wobbly France, into rejecting Germany from Western Europe's defense on the grounds "it might 'provoke' the Russians."

(2) Serve as a cover for Russia's own program for rearming East Germany, which certainly raises the fears of the German-hating Czechs and Poles despite being under Moscow's thumb.

(3) Another shot in the Russian propaganda campaign setting up the communist bloc as guardians of the peace and the only ones who want Germany united.

U.S. Industrial Controls Plan Taking Form

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22-(AP)—Anxious to get a pattern of industrial controls ready before the spending tide hits industry like a deluge, National Production Administrator William H. Harrison reportedly has these actions in the works; in addition to copper and aluminum regulations announced today:

1. A ban on future construction of race tracks, bowling alleys, dance halls and other amusement places. This would supplement credit controls over real estate in conserving defense materials.

Leaders of the construction industry sharply criticized this proposal when Harrison broached it to them last week. An NPA spokesman said the present priority system, but oil refineries and some food producers have notified NPA they cannot fill military orders without help in breaking the containers bottleneck.

French Seek Agreement on German Arms

PARIS, Oct. 22-(AP)—Cabinet ministers still were at work tonight in search of an agreement on the rearming of Germany that would satisfy everyone in Premier Rene Pleven's middle-of-the-road coalition.

Four of them will be appointed to draft a statement on the subject that Pleven will read to the national assembly Tuesday as a basis for the debate. Besides the premier himself, they are Defense Minister Jules Moch, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and Justice Minister Rene Mayer.

Moch and his socialist party are on record against the "principle" of German rearmament. The other three are known to take a position near that of the U. S., which wants a West German army organized.

Meanwhile, the international socialist conference executive committee held a three hour meeting here and socialist leaders of France, Western Germany and Belgium lined up solidly against any plan to rearm Western Germany.

K. Vorrink of The Netherlands was the only socialist leader attending the executive meeting to come out flatly in favor of German rearmament. Socialist leaders of eight other West European nations took no definite stand on the question.

Morgan Phillips, secretary general of Britain's labor party, said at the Paris conference that "if we oppose German rearmament we must show how we propose to hold the defense line without German troops."

He said the British labor party "as yet has taken no definite position on German rearmament and its views have not been finally settled."

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Oct. 22-(AP)—Republican party officials smiled gleefully when Elihu Elephant of New Britain appeared in city hall yesterday to be made a voter.

After taking the oath, Elephant looked over at the GOP registrar. There was a small statue of the republican symbol—an elephant, on his table.

Elephant went over the the democratic registrar, however, and became a registered democrat.

3 Men Injured 3-Car Wreck South of Salem

Passing without enough room was blamed Sunday for a three-car accident six miles south of Salem in which three men were injured, slightly and one car was demolished.

State police said George O. Dow, 38, Portland, pleaded guilty in Jefferson justice court to passing with insufficient clearance. He was fined $10.

Roy Stockdale, 44, Portland, escaped with a laceration when his car rolled over a 15-foot bank as a result of the accident. He was dismissed from a Salem hospital following treatment.

Police said Stockdale was forced off highway 99-E to avoid a head-on collision with Dow. His car skidded when it struck the soft shoulder and crashed into a car bearing four Salem hunters before it plunged over the bank.

Driver of the Salem car was listed as Ray Cherry, 25, of 1456 Franklin st. He was treated for face lacerations. Front end of his car was damaged extensively.

W. L. St. Clair, 2148 N. 34th st., incurred a skinned leg. The other passengers reported no injuries.

A third car was dented slightly when it collided with the others. Police said the driver was Richard D. McQueen, Sweet Home.

Foreign Policy Forum Subject

The political, economic and philo-sophic aspects of U.S. foreign policy were discussed at a Willamette university forum last night by professors in those respective fields.

Speakers were Mark Hatfield, Willard S. Smith and Dd. Edward Kollman. Hatfield outlined what both major political parties proposed as safeguards against another situation such as Korea.

Smith proposed lessening trade barriers and unifying economic relations, and Kollman called for a spiritual and moral awakening.

4 Charged with Driving While Intoxicated

Four Salem men were charged with driving while intoxicated here Sunday to run the week-end total of such arrests to eight in the Salem area.

City police said Joseph M. Devers, Jr., 1390 Olive st., was arrested about 8 p.m. while driving on South Commercial street. Devers posted $250 bail.

Others listed by city police as charged with driving while intoxicated earlier Sunday were Albert LeRoy King, 1275 East ave., and Orville A. Jansenius, 605 S. 22nd st. They were held last night in lieu of $250 bail each.

State police said William V. Moraski, 2559 Portland rd., was charged with driving while intoxicated following his arrest north of the Salem city limits about 3 p.m. He was held at the county jail here last night on $350 bail.

Four similar arrests here were reported in yesterday's Statesman. Authorities believed the total was a near record in the Salem area for two days. Salem municipal court records show that six cases of driving while intoxicated were processed in that court last month.

Trio Found After 12 Hours Lost in Cave

HARLANSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22-(AP)—Two boys and a man companion were found early today 12 hours after they disappeared in a huge, recently discovered cave near this western Pennsylvania town.

The three were reported by police and volunteer searchers to be in "good physical condition."

A radio report from the scene received at the New Castle state police barracks said the three were in a cave, some distance from the entrance to the big cavern, sitting down awaiting help.

Hundreds of volunteers had joined the search after the three were reported missing. Two bloodhounds were brought to the scene and huge searchlights were rushed to the cave entrance.

Sheriff Frank L. Coen of nearby New Castle identified them as Eddie McClelland, 15-year-old son of a funeral director, Ernest Malinak, 26, a construction company employee, and Herbert Harkless. All three are from Harlansburg.

Sheriff Coen said the families of the trio reported them missing shortly after dusk.

He added that J. H. Hoover, of Harlansburg, told them he saw them enter one of the cave entrances about 2 p.m. (EST) as he left another entrance.

The cave was discovered just a few months ago by a construction crew on a highway project. There are several entrances and no one knows how far the caves wind under the earth's surfaces.

In recent weeks, Sheriff Coen said, several parties of curious have gone into to cave to look at mineralite formations.

Hundreds of persons gathered at the scene as word of the missing men spread throughout the community.

Miners, firemen and volunteer police men were pressed into the search.

Church Group Backer of Curb On Liquor Ads

Harold D. Wilson, Portland, former treasury department investigator, charged liquor interests with misrepresenting the facts about the state ballot proposal for banning promtively advertised liquor in a speech here Sunday night.

Wilson spoke at St. Mark Lutheran church under sponsorship of the Salem Ministerial association which is supporting the measure.

Wilson declared the proposal would control sale of promtively advertised liquor but would not prohibit liquor advertising.

"The liquor traffic," he said, "is continually trying to confuse the issue while their real motive is fear-driven greed."

Landslide Toll Reaches 30

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 22-(AP)—A special correspondent for the Lima newspaper El Comercio reported today that the death toll in the Santa river landslide high in the Andes had reached 30, with 28 others injured and at least 100 workers still unaccounted for. The victims were said to have been men, women and children.

The correspondent who made a motor trip to the scene of the disaster about 200 miles from Lima, said the Los Cedros hydroelectric station was demolished by the roaring mass of rocks, mud and water loosed Friday when one side of the Piscocha lagoon collapsed. The railroad between Chimbote and Huancalla City was said to have suffered heavy damage.
