

McKay Names Delegates to Youth Conclave

Gov. Douglas McKay Monday announced a list of 44 official Oregon delegates to the mid-century White House conference on children and youth at Washington, D. C., December 3 to 7, inclusive.

Thirty-two of the delegates conferred with the governor here Monday afternoon and heard the chief executive voice his thanks for the expenditure of time and money the delegation was making to represent Oregon at the national conference.

The executive committee of the governor's statewide group met earlier in the afternoon and decided to schedule a series of regional conferences in Oregon in 1951. These meetings will be held in central, eastern and southern Oregon, the upper Willamette river valley and Portland for the purpose of acquainting Oregonians with results of the White House sessions and implementing improvements indicated by findings made at Washington.

Mrs. Sadie Orr, Dunbar and Michael Schapiro, both of Portland and chairman and executive secretary, respectively, of the governors committee, were in charge of the delegates meeting here Monday.

Delegates announced by Governor McKay for the mid-century conference follow:

Dr. Carl Ashley, A. David Blatch, Dr. Charles Bradley, Rev. Myron Cole, Mrs. Dunbar, Mrs. H. H. Hargreaves, Dr. Carl Hopkins, Miss Loa Howard, Mrs. Edward L. Hughes, Jeanette Jewett, Andrew Juras, Dorothea Lensch, Dr. James Millar, Dr. Harold J. Noyes, Michael Schapiro, Rev. Jerome M. Schmitz, Martha Shull, Col. Ida Speiss, Mrs. Irene Taylor, Dr. De Norval Unthank, Dr. Maurice D. Vest, Miss Viola M. Vreeland, John Whitelaw, and Mrs. Clifford Zollinger, all of Portland.

Florence Beardsley, Monmouth; O. H. Benston, Medford, Mrs. Agnes Booth, Lawson McCall, Dr. Rex Putnam, Katherine Rahl and Doratha Steusloff, all of Salem; Dr. Vera Brandon and W. L. Van Loan, Corvallis; Mrs. R. Willard Duncan, Klamath Falls; R. E. Jewell and George J. Turner,

Sack Containing Money Stolen From Rohland's

Theft of a paper sack containing $80 from under the counter of his store was reported to city police Monday by H. E. Rohland, proprietor of Rohland's at 1983 N. Capitol st.

Rohland told police the sack was taken Saturday night at closing time. A couple, who had entered the store to pick up a previously purchased package, were the only customers in the store at the time, Rohland said.

The sack had been placed under the counter near the cash register. Rohland reported, while he talked with the husband of one of the clerks. When he returned to pick it up, about five minutes later, it was gone.

The package contained $48 in bills, $6.89 in change and a $5 check.

Marion County Registration List 'Cleaned'

Marion county clerk's office crews are busy now on the big job of cleaning out the "deadwood" from its list of registered voters. Clerk pro tem Henry C. Mattson says that the names of voters who have not voted within the past two years (this means at either the primary or general elections this year) will be stricken off the list. Each voter so removed will be sent a card.

If he or she still lives in his same precinct he may simply re-register by returning the card and his name will remain on the registered list. If the voter has moved out of his or her former precinct, or if a woman voter has changed her name through marriage, a trip to the clerk's office will be necessary to re-register.

Mattson said that so far about 25 per cent of the names on the precinct poll books have been stricken. He said he doubted if this high percentage would hold up when rural precinct books are worked over.

Bend, Dr. Leslie S. Kent, Eugene; Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud, West Linn; Jesse Rosebaum, La Grande, Mayor Hollis Smith, Dallas, and Sister Miriam Theresa, Marylhurst.

Fox Re-Elected President of Jersey Club

By Lillie L. Madsen
Farm Editor, The Statesman

That Marlin Fox of Molalla was re-elected president of the 483 Oregon Jersey breeders became known here in the valley on Monday. Election has been carried on by mail ballot during October and early November, with the votes counted during the weekend by a special committee in southern Oregon.

Other officers, all re-elected, include Lloyd Forster, Tangent, vice president; and Jens Svint, formerly of Salem but now of Grants Pass, as secretary-treasurer. All were opposed for the offices.

The officers will be re-installed at the state club meeting to be held at the Senator hotel, Salem, on December 2. Elaborate plans are being made for this event.

Oregon's egg production increase which has continued throughout this year, did not continue through October, according to a USDA report made known Monday. October's Oregon production totaled 30 million eggs which is the same as both last month and a year ago in October. This is the first month, however, during 1950 that egg production in Oregon has not been higher than the corresponding month in 1949.

The rate of egg production during October averaged 12.3 per laying hen—a record high for the month, but one egg per layer below the September rate. The records for earlier years show Oregon poultry flocks averaged about 8.5 eggs per layer for October in the 1920's. Like in all divisions of agriculture, work has been centered in increasing production per individual rather than increasing the number of individuals. Four per cent less pullets were added to Oregon laying flocks this year than a year ago in October, bringing the 1950 pullet addition down to the lowest October since 1936.

Prices received by poultrymen in October averaged 55 cents a dozen, one cent above mid-September but 8 cents below 1949. The average price of chickens, too, dropped 2 cents a pound from a month ago but held the same as a year ago. As a result of relatively high Murfin was arrested Monday by city police after a complaint had been filed against him by William E. Rodgers, 721 Rosemont st., owner of the damaged auto.

Witnesses at the scene told police an automobile owned by Murfin was the hit-run machine. The car was found shortly after the accident parked at 245 Chemeketa st. with a damaged fender and broken light, police said.

Minor damage to Rodgers car consisted of a crumpled fender and broken bumper.

VICES FOR ALDRICH

PENDLTON, re., Nov. 20—Private funeral service will be held here tomorrow for E. B. Aldrich, publisher of the East Oregonian. He died at his home Saturday night.

Telephone service is still a bargain...for since 1940, rates have gone up much less than the cost of living.

GOOD FRIEND OF THE FAMILY BUDGET

The telephone actually takes less of it than in 1940

1. Seems like the prices of most things you buy have about doubled, in the last ten years. Among the standouts are your telephone service. There have been rate increases, of course, to help meet increased costs of furnishing service...higher wages, higher materials, higher costs generally. But rates have gone up far less than most other things. And that's only part of the story.
2. Telephone installers are making your service a better all-around bargain, too. When you buy a pound of something, you still get sixteen ounces...although the price may have doubled. Twelve items still make a dozen. But not so with telephone service. Your telephone dollars buy, on the average, twice as many available connections as ten years ago...for we've more than doubled the system in that time.

3. Today you can call more of the people you want to call...many more people can call you. And the calls you get are often more important than the calls you make. Yet average telephone rates have gone up less than half as much as the cost of living generally. They're up much less than our costs of providing service. It all comes down to this: Today telephone service can be purchased for fewer hours of work than in 1940. Your telephone is a mighty good friend of the family budget.
