Steelhammer Seeks 'Efficient Legislature'

Efficiency in the 1951 Oregon legislative session was the keynote of State Rep. John Steelhammer, Salem, who is slated as speaker of the house, in a Salem Exchange club talk Wednesday.

The speaker-apparent said that, because of the "rough job" of money-raising forced on the legislature by the electorate, he plans to call early meetings of the ways and means and tax committees, so their deliberations will not stretch to the length of past sessions.

Public Must Pay
The public "must realize they'll have to pay" for programs voted, Steelhammer declared, but "we must curtail every unnecessary expense we can." He mentioned some areas where this might be accomplished.

The representative took a slap at some democrats and their alleged tactics of the 1948 session, which he said were aimed at getting election issues for 1950 rather than for augmenting state efficiency.

Opposes Neuberger
He took particular aim at State Sen. Richard Neuberger, Portland, in the remark that "anything coming from Neuberger has two strikes against it already so far as I'm concerned." In this connection he expressed opposition to a proposal for non-partisan election of the legislature and he said he will continue to support a two-party system.

Elks Annual Used Clothing Drive Near

The annual used clothing drive of Salem lodge 336, BPOE, will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week when donations will be accepted at the Elks temple.

Aim of the drive is to secure good used clothing which is distributed to worthy families throughout the mid-Willamette valley. Elks lodge chairmen in Dallas, Woodburn, Turner and Silverton help select families who receive the clothing.

R. C. Magee, chairman of this year's drive, has announced that donations will be accepted from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day. Donors are asked to use the Cottage street entrance to the temple. The clothing drive was handled for many years by Joseph Krueger, who died early this year.

New Contracts Show Trend To Higher Pay

New contracts, offers and negotiations of several Salem unions with Associated General Contractors show a general trend toward higher wages after January 1 union leaders reported Wednesday.

Negotiations are proceeding with caution for both labor and employers, according to F. D. Van Sweringen, executive secretary of Salem Building Trades council, because of the prospect of a wage-price freeze.

Laborers in the building industry have gained increases of 5 cents per hour for building trades and 10 cents for heavy construction, making hourly rates $1.75 and $1.70. The differential was aimed toward equalization of pay.

Plumbers, with an escalator clause in their statewide agreement, will meet in Eugene next week with contractors to review their agreement.

One-Year Contract
Electricians gained a boost to $2.35 per hour in August, on a one-year contract. Iron workers gained 15 cents per hour for rodmen and 20 cents for structural steel jobs. Teamsters on AGC contracts will go up 10 cents per hour January 1, to a minimum of $1.80. Ward Graham, business agent for local 324, said a similar agreement was signed with the Detroit dam contractor. Together the pacts affect 80 to 100 Salem area drivers.

Salem local 1065, Carpenters union, has voted "overwhelmingly" to accept the Associated General Contractors' offer of a 15-cent raise January 1 and another 5-cent boost June 1. The proposed two-year statewide agreement is gaining assent in most locals of Oregon, according to Ivor T. Jones, Salem, state executive secretary. Present scale is $2.10 per hour for the men affected, construction carpenters and millwrights.

Note Cost of Living
Van Sweringen said union leaders are "not interested in putting employers behind the eight ball" by a large January 1 increase which might be followed by a price rollback to June. On the other hand, unions are concerned with bringing their wage scales up to par with the cost of living before a ceiling is put on income.

He added that both fear a frozen low wage might mean a drain of manpower to higher-paying cities. Increases sought by the unions this year range from 15 to 37 1/2 cents per hour, above a general scale of $2.10 per hour.

5-Year Term Decreed for Theft of Rams

One man was sent to the penitentiary, another was placed on probation and a third pleaded guilty Wednesday in Marion county circuit court.

A 5-year sentence was issued to Lynn Andrew Driskill, Salem route 4, on a charge of larceny of livestock, involving theft of rams from a ranch near Turner early this month. Ervin Sisk, 20 Highway ave., who had pleaded guilty last July 28 to a charge of forgery, was given a two-year suspended penitentiary sentence and placed on three years' probation. Lloyd Johnson, Lebanon, pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, involving a worthless check passed in August at Woodburn. Sentencing was set for December 22.
